Gold Basis, Au Revoir.
A Looking Forward Picture.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

BIG NEWS. For the time, Uncle Sam is off the gold basis. Secretary Woodin, of the Treasury, announces it officially.

Much excitement in good old Wall street. If it continues, George W. Hill can find a permanent job there for his young musicians that sing "Happy Days Are Here Again."

Busy brokers, in five short hours, sold five million shares of stock. On the same day, a week ago, they sold only 747,960 shares. Manna in the desert was nothing to that.

STOCKS WENT up partly because the American dollar, temporarily, went down. President Roosevelt has decided to let Europe's opinion of the dollar take care of itself and to keep in America all our gold-reserve-rabbit's foot. The President decides that gold, too precious for Americans to own, is also too good to be sent to Europe.

Europe shouts gleefully, "America is off the gold basis." Quite true, and if that comforts them, let them take comfort. The late genius "Tad" used to say:

"I'd rather have them say 'There he goes' than 'Don't he look natural?'"

JUST WHAT part gold plays in the life of Americans, since they are not allowed to have any of it except in watches or wedding rings, is not clear. But a majority of them will be glad of the President's decision that if American gold is too good for American citizens, it is also too good for foreigners.

Friendly advice to foreigners: Don't sell too many American dollars short. You might be sorry.

A NEW picture, "Looking Forward," seen in Washington, D. C., and now to be shown all over the country, is one that you should see. Named for President Roosevelt's recently published book, "Looking Forward," with the President's consent, it demonstrates the truth of President Roosevelt's saying that what the world requires today is the hope and courage of youth.

The story, ending happily, as many sad stories of today will end, is that of modern business and depression, a great firm driven to the wall, its employes added to the army of the unemployed because there is no money to pay them.

One of these employes, the part played by Lionel Barrymore, discharged after forty years of faithful service, grieves not for himself but for the downfall of a great firm. Lionel Barrymore is truly a magnificent actor. His success and that of his brother and sister seem to contradict the scientific theory that "acquired characteristics are not inherited." Their ancestors acquired the art of good acting and they inherit it.

How this country could absorb ten thousand million dollars worth of foreign-made goods just now with so many of our workers idle is not clear. But suggestions from the able Mussolini are always welcome.

By the way, that powerful person is sending twenty airplanes from Rome to Chicago to celebrate the opening of the big fair, a most extremely friendly gesture by a nation that has recently broken, and holds the world's air speed record.

Mr. MacManus, of Detroit, would like you to know that Italy's plane setting the new record of almost 450 miles an hour used "Champion" American-made spark plugs.

The next air record should be established by a plane ALL AMERICAN-MADE, not merely with the spark plugs American.

OF SIX Britons, accused and tried by Russia, one is acquitted, three exiled from Russia, which will not hurt their feelings, two sentenced to prison. The two ask that they also be exiled instead of being jailed.

That may hurt Russia's feelings. It certainly will hurt the feelings of many Britons, unable to sell British goods to Russia. British newspapers are divided on the subject.

If Russia releases all five British prisoners, punishing them only by exile, that will end the embargo.

GEORGE BERNARD SHAW is back in England, happy as ever, telling the British that Americans know less about their own country than the Chinese do about theirs. Also he wishes he had never come here, and had never gone around the earth. He only did it "to oblige his wife, and he knew more about the world and its inhabitants before he circled the globe than he does now."

That does happen. "He who would bring information back from his travels must take information with him."

SPEED BEER TAX AFTER VETO

Pinchot Kills Sowers Bill as 'Vicious;' Flays G. O. P.

Developments in legislation at Harrisburg today were these:

Gov. Pinchot vetoed the Conner-Sowers bill providing licensing of beer dealers by Quarter Sessions Courts and imposing a tax of $1.24 a barrel. A bill providing only for the tax was rushed immediately from a House committee.

Announcement was made that the Schwartz bill providing referenda on Sunday baseball and football will be sent to the Governor again today and that he will either sign or veto it immediately.

The Republican organization's economy program suffered a blow when the House refused to pass a Senate resolution asking themselves, judges and state officials to take pay cuts. Provisions for slashes of state police and highway patrolmen's pay were dropped in retaliation.

(Other legislative news will be found on Page 10.)

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, April 20.—The House Ways and Means Committee today reported favorably the McClure bill to establish a state beer tax, shortly after Gov. Pinchot vetoed the Sowers bill, which combined tax provisions with license regulation.

All factions are in agreement on the tax bill, which can be passed a week from tomorrow unless unforeseen obstacles occur.

The tax would be $1.24 a barrel, or half a cent a bottle, and would be imposed through a stamp impost, with each bottle of beer to be stamped.

Gov. Pinchot, in vetoing the Sowers bill, charged the bill was not only unconstitutional, but a "vicious" political maneuver. He castigated the Republican organization for fiddling with a bill it knew he would veto, instead of having devoted attention to a tax bill alone.

ROW IN HOUSE

The tone of the Governor's veto message precipitated a wordy war on the House when Representative Morton Witkin, Philadelphia, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, reported the tax bill. Its sponsor is Representative James H. McClure, of Glassport, and it is an administration measure, which was introduced more than two weeks ago.

Democrats and Republicans became embroiled in debate, and the Governor was the target of a denunciation by Witkin as snappy as the language in which the Governor had shot the Sowers bill back to the House.

Witkin, who shortly after the veto message was read intimated he did not intend to report a tax bill, then recanted, declared the Governor "as untruthful politically as any man who ever sat in that

RISE ADDS BILLIONS TO VALUES

Securities Traded in Blocks of 10,000 To 40,000 Shares

NEW YORK, April 20.—(A.P.)—Deluged with buying orders, commodity and stock markets swooped upward with sensational activity today as the nation sought to adjust itself to the prospect of "controlled inflation" after more than three punishing years of decline.

Billions were added to the quoted values of stocks and staples.

Wall street's excitement amid the confusion that attended an uproarious rise of $1 to $9 in shares was matched on the Chicago Board of Trade, where wheat was bid up 3 cents and more a bushel.

COMMODITIES UP

Coton at New York soared $2.50 a bale, silver futures 2 to 3 cents an ounce. Rubber, coffee, sugar, copper, lead, hides and the other basic raw materials of trade and commerce joined the procession.

Trading in the New York Stock exchange was the wildest since the palmy days of 1929, and the high-speed tickers, geared to handle 6,000,000 share days, dropped nearly half an hour behind actual business on the floor. At 2:10 o'clock, transactions had totalled 5,550,000 shares.

HUGE TRANSACTIONS

The rush to buy at opening time was so great that orders were lumped into huge blocks, several of which amounted to 10,000 shares. There was one 40,000 share transaction in International Nickel; another of 35,000 shares in International Telephone.

Reacting now and then under profit-taking, the market zoomed along at a terrific clip. United States Steel common at one time was selling at $44.50, up $6.50. Corn Products Refining jumped $9.62 at the opening to a price of $74, while scores of issues, particularly metals, jumped $1 to $4.

Customers' rooms of brokerage houses were jammed, while the trading pits of the commodity markeets presented scenes of high-pitched excitement as traders sought to execute orders.

Meanwhile, the dollar, officially off the gold standard at least for purposes of international trade, was subject to violent fluctuations in the foreign exchange market. Sterling jumped 20 cents to the pound, while the gold currencies of Holland, Switzerland and Belgium advanced broadly.

Walkers in Vichy For 3 Weeks Stay

VICHY, Franch, April 20.—Former Mayor James J. Walker, of New York, and his bride, who was Betty Compton, arrived in Vichy today for a three-weeks stay.

The Gold Embargo

AGAIN in the crisis President Roosevelt has displayed courage and initiative.

His decision to suspend exports of gold has boomed commodity prices and has boomed the prices of equities.

His decision is a victory for the Hearst newspapers, which have insistently advocated this action as a natural and necessary prelude to any international discussion of the economic problems besetting all nations.

By suspending gold payments President Roosevelt has completely stymied the British in their world currency manipulations WHICH HAVE BEEN THE MAJOR DEPRESSING INFLUENCE ON COMMODITY PRICES.

The wild uprush in the British pound sterling confirmed the charge that the British themselves had been holding down the rate in order to affect adversely all commodity prices.

While we allowed gold to leave this country the British through their seven hundred and fifty million dollar exchange equalization fund could play this game of depressing commodities to the limit.

THE BRITISH were SUPPORTING the American dollar! They were DEPRESSING their own money.

There is no thought in the mind of those who have advocated a gold export embargo that this be made permanent.

Every effort should now be made to re-establish the gold standard throughout the world, but our return to an unrestricted gold basis must be predicated upon restoration of the gold standard by England and by all of those countries which follow the pound sterling.

Then and then only should we allow free movement of gold.

Dollars should be exchangeable into all other currencies and vice versa without any governmental restraints whatever excepting export of gold from this country.

The world on balance owes us a tremendous sum.

Therefore, the natural trend of funds is toward the United States.

This alone will stabilize the dollar. Only excessive currency inflation in this country can disturb the dollar's position in the international markets.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT has acted.

His action already has caused sensational advances in prices and has broken the British grip which for twenty months has continually forced down the commodity prices of the whole world, especially in countries which had foolishly preserved the gold standard in a world which had for the most part rejected the standard, even if only temporarily.

President Roosevelt now holds the whip hand in his conferences with the leaders of the other nations.

He can be trusted to use this power with proper discretion, but with full regard for the interests of THIS country.

BI-METALLISM LIKELY; ROOSEVELT FIRM FOR SECURED CURRENCY

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(AP.)—Intent upon getting quick authority to direct a "controlled inflation," President Roosevelt and his economic counsellors collaborated with Congressional advocates of currency expansion today in the drafting of legislation slated to be acted on without delay.

Congressional leaders struggled to overcome constitutional stumbling blocks in the proposed legislation to empower the President to direct a "controlled inflation."

The prediction came from Capitol Hill that the drastic measure would be in readiness and introduced by Senator Thomas (Dem.), of Oklahoma, late in the day, as an amendment to the farm bill in the Senate.

A three-point measure giving President Roosevelt complete authority to start the United States, now off the gold standard, on a policy of controlled inflation was being whipped into shape with the Chief Executive's approval.

The broad grant of authority proposed in the Thomas bill would give the President power to undertake inflation by any one of these methods:

1—Issuance of new currency.

2—Acceptance of silver in payment for war debts.

OPPOSES UNSECURED CURRENCY

The bill would give to Mr. Roosevelt authority to issue unlimited new currency as legal tender under the old "greenback" law.

It has been asserted repeatedly, however, that Mr. Roosevelt is set against any "printing press" unsecured currency.

To overcome constitutional objections to the proposal for reducing the gold content of the dollar, it was tentatively agreed to limit this authority to a reduction by 50 per cent—the same principle as is involved in the President's control over tariff rates.

There appeared to be in the Roosevelt program a definite idea for some form of bi-metalism.

It was made emphatic that whatever new paper is issued will be backed up by precious metals. It was assumed this would mean both gold and silver.

However, the President wants first to work out an international agreement for bi-metalism, and that is definitely in mind in his imminent world economic conversations.

Speaker Rainey told reporters the administration inflation tactics were directed to meet assaults on American commerce by foreign nations.

BI-METALISM MOVE

The President's move was toward bi-metalism, he said, and would place the executive in a position to meet the nations that depend upon the pound sterling on "their own ground." He added:

"Unless those nations come with us to some international stabilization of money, they are lost."

Rainey said there had been a "concerted" drive by European nations against "the American dollar" and that they had been attempting to "take all of our gold away from us to leave us stranded and reduce us to a fourth or fifth class power."

He called the President's action "the most statesmanlike move taken by any Chief Executive in my memory."

Reacting to the skyward swing of stocks and commodity prices, congressional leaders appeared to be standing behind Mr. Roosevelt's

Search for Missing Arizona Fliers Fails

WINSLOW, Ariz., April 20.—(INS.)—Fear was expressed today that C. L. Giragi, "flying publisher" of Winslow, Ariz., and his pilot, Jack Irish, had crashed in an isolated and snow covered area of Central Arizona. Intensive search by Army and private planes and by veteran officers failed to reveal trace of the plane which left Winslow early Monday for Phoenix.

'Not Guilty,' Firpo Pleads at Hearing

BUENOS AIRES, April 20.—(AP.)—Luis Angel Firpo, former heavyweight prize fighter, who was arrested Monday on charges in connection with the purchase of a farm in Cordoba Province, pleaded not guilty at a preliminary hearing yesterday.

He was returned to jail, but the incommunicado ban was raised.

Gold Standard Suspension in Simple Digest

NEW YORK, April 20.—(INS.) The gold embargo means:

The United States is off the gold standard.

United States' efforts to support the dollar against foreign raiders are ended.

Our foreign trade will be increased, as the dollar's drop will lower tariff walls of nations on the gold standard, like France, Holland and Belgium.

Our tariff walls, in effect, will be raised against products from nations with depreciated currencies, like England and Japan.

American workers in industries competing with British and Japanese manufacturers will be benefited by the lessened competition.

Prices of farm products will be inflated, aiding the farmer.

Farm land values will be increased, aiding the insurance companies with big mortgage investments.

The individual and corporation burdened with debt will be helped, as their services or goods will bring in more dollars while debts remain fixed.

The cost of living will be increased. For the man with a fixed income or salary, this will mean another pay cut, unless his wages are advanced in proportion.

Cold Keeps President Indoors Second Day

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(AP.)—The continuation of cool, damp weather today kept President Roosevelt in the White House proper for the second day in succession, to hasten his recovery from a slight cold.

At the White House it was said, however, that the sore throat which complicated the malady yesterday had virtually disappeared.

Bullet Wound Fatal To Film Stunt Man

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., April 20.—(INS.)—Hurd McClellan, 48, veteran movie stunt man, died today from a bullet wound inflicted while acting as a human target during the filming of a news reel stunt at Universal Studio.

Kaufmann's to Build Huge Produce Market

An ultra-modern retail produce market for Pittsburgh was in sight today following a virtual assurance of a $520,000 loan for its building and equipment from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

The market project will be self-liquidating.

The building is to be located on the lot bordered by Smithfield and Diamond streets, Lemon alley and Cherry way. The lot is now being cleared of store buildings by a wrecking crew.

The market will be operated by the Smithfield Markets, Inc., owned by Kaufmann's Department Store.

It will be a three-story building, with Pennsylvania products used wherever possible, Edgar J. Kaufmann, president of the department store, said upon his return from Washington, D. C., where he presented his plans to the R. F. C.

Unusual will be the exterior, which, according to present tentative plans, will be fashioned from Pennsylvania slate and aluminum.

On the first floor will be market stalls rented to retailers. Each will have an entrance from Diamond or Smithfield streets. The entire side of the building from Lemon alley, parallel to Diamond street, will be open 10 months of the year, Kaufmann said.

On the Cherry way side will be a covered driveway in which the shopper can leave his car, to be stored on the third floor until it is wanted.

The second floor will be occupied in large part by a dining room and kitchens. In the rear will be apparatus for preparation of foods sold in the market.

In the basement will be more market stalls and a cafeteria. The basement will be the street floor on Smithfield street, cut into the hill toward Cherry way.

PIRATE OPENER CALLED OFF

Wet grounds and threatening weather today prevented the opening game of the season at Forbes Field between the Pittsburgh Pirates and Cincinnati Reds.

The opening-day ceremonies will be staged tomorrow afternoon starting at 1 o'clock.

In announcing the postponement, Pirate officials said that tickets purchased for the opening game will be honored tomorrow, but those bought for Friday's game must be exchanged for tickets marked "opening game." This is necessary to avoid confusion in the reserved sections' seating arrangements.

BRITAIN SEES TRADE WAR

LONDON, April 20.—(AP.)—Great Britain was greatly perturbed today by the abandonment of the gold standard by the United States and in some quarters it was viewed as threatening a bitter world-wide trade war.

Many experts considered the action as a move to force Great Britain to return to a gold monetary basis. A section of the press denounced the American government, although Great Britain abandoned the gold standard also, voluntarily, in 1931.

Newspapers linked the action with the impending visit of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald to Washington treating it editorially as a bargaining counter with which to greet him, and even as a threat.

The Morning Post remarked

CONFERENCE LIKELY TO BRING REVISED GOLD STANDARD

WORLD CENTERS ATTENTION ON WASHINGTON

New Significance to Visit of McDonald And Herriot

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(AP.)—World attention centered more than ever on Washington today as two of the old world's foremost statesmen approached America's shores for history-making talks with President Roosevelt, who only yesterday changed the whole economic picture by withdrawing support of the dollar on foreign exchanges.

New significance was attached to the coming of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, of Great Britain, and former Premier Edouard Herriot, of France, as a result of the American action which Secretary Woodin, of the Treasury, described as taking the United States off the gold standard.

M'DONALD DUE

The answer to the question of how soon and on what terms this country might again adhere to a revised international gold standard was believed by many officials to be bound up in the outcome of the quiet talks to be held between the President and his distinguished visitors in the next few days. MacDonald arrives tomorrow.

Few here professed to see all the aspects and possible results of President Roosevelt's sudden move, but among the effects was listed a definite step toward the re-establishment of a gold standard to which national currencies could be attached at new parities based on present conditions and values.

NEW DOLLAR LEVEL

From the White House came the word that the dollar would be allowed to find its own level internationally since this was seen in some quarters as a necessary preliminary to establishment of the dollar at a new parity eventually.

In some quarters it was pointed out that depreciation of the dollar in terms of foreign exchanges apparently would serve to reduce the war debt payment due June 15, a point which the President would be able to make if his British or French guests do the expected and bring up the controversial matter of revision of these obligations.

MacDonald Consults Economic Expert

S. S. BERENGARIA, EN ROUTE TO NEW YORK, April 20.—(AP.)—As soon as Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald learned that the United States had gone off the gold standard he consulted with Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, chief economic expert of the British government, who is accompanying him to the United States for his economic discussions with President Roosevelt.

The Prime Minister refused to comment. It was understood, however, that the British mission felt the situation for the MacDonald-Roosevelt talks had been considerably altered.

S. S. ILE DE FRANCE, EN ROUTE TO NEW YORK, April 20.—(AP.)—As the Ile de France plowed into the American side of the Atlantic today, former Premier Herriot faced the problem of American political opinion and how to meet it as a factor in negotiating a debt settlement with the United States.

In unofficial circles it was suggested that M. Herriot may propose payment of the war debt due the United States in one lump sum of perhaps $800,000,000 to $1,000,000,000.

Dutch Minister Sees Trade Loss

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(AP.)—Seeking information on America's departure from the gold standard, J. H. Van Royen, Dutch minister, visited the State Department today and conferred with Secretary Hull.

He told newspapermen in answer to questions that the action would make it "disagreeable" for Holland in its foreign trade.

Socialized Industry Seen Next U. S. Step

CLEVELAND, April 20.—(INS.)—Socialization of industry will be the next major development in American industrial plants, E. M. Lyons, of Philadelphia, declared here today in an address before delegates to the annual convention of the National Petroleum Association.

M'DONALD-IRISH CLASH AVOIDED

By KINGSBURY SMITH,
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(INS.)—In order to avoid any embarrassing international incident here involving Great Britain and Ireland, Senator Connolly, minister of lands and fisheries for the Irish Free State, today departed for Boston to remain away during Premier Ramsay MacDonald's visit.

Ireland is engaged in a bitter economic war with Great Britain and the proud little Irish statesman fears an awkward situation might develop if he happened to run into Premier MacDonald.

He admitted he was particularly fearful he might not be able to hold his tongue. He said:

"If I met MacDonlad, I'd tell him to——"

And then the minister realized he was talking to a reporter.

He will return here on April 27, the day after the British Premier leaves, to resume conversations with administration officials on problems relating to the world economic conference.

that MacDonald would be confronted with a new situation of which he could not have had more than the slightest inkling when he sailed. It suggested that it may develop that the United States' action has placed an obstacle in the way of summoning the world economic conference needing all the resources of statesmanship to remove.

The Herald's financial editor said the American decision could only be regarded as a threat to force MacDonald to give an unconditional guarantee that Great Britain will return to the gold standard and urged his refusal.

The Daily Mail speculated on whether the future dollar would be used for bargaining purposes at President Roosevelt's series of talks. It emphasized there are big gold holdings in the United States and said there was no economic justification for the action.

The Telegraph foresaw the possibility that President Roosevelt will ask MacDonald to effect a return of the British pound to a gold basis.

M'ADOO OFFERS CURRENCY BILL

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(INS.)—Senator William Gibbs McAdoo (Dem.), of California, this afternoon introduced a bill proposing to authorize an $8,000,000,000 issue of United Etates notes (currency) to refund the government's floating debt during the next five years.

The floating debt has been met from time to time by issues of short term securities. McAdoo proposed the government simply pay it off as each bond issue fell due by issuing currency, in the form of United States notes, which would be lawful tender in payment of all debts, except import duties and interest on the public debt.

A fund would be created to retire the new issue at a rate of 3 per cent each year.

MORGAN HAILS GOLD BAN

NEW YORK, April 20.—(INS.)—President Roosevelt's embargo on gold shipments was indorsed by J. P. Morgan, famed financier, in one of his rare public statements, issued after the President's order was announced in Washington. In a written statement, Morgan said:

"I welcome the reported action of the President and the Secretary of the Treasury in placing an embargo on gold exports.

"It has become evident that the effort to maintain the exchange value of the dollar at a premium, as against depreciated foreign currencies, was having a deflationary effect upon already severely deflated American prices and wages and employment.

"It seems to me clear that the way out of the depression is to combat and overcome the deflationary forces. Therefore, I regard the action now taken as being the best possible course under existing circumstances."

The statement was the first Mr. Morgan has issued publicly since September, 1931, when England abandoned the gold standard. At that time, he characterized the move as constructive under existing circumstances.

'FIXED' DOLLAR BILL OFFERED

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(AP.)—Representative Goldsborough, (Dem.), of Maryland, today reintroduced his bill for an "honest dollar"—a dollar with a fixed purchasing power based on 1926 prices.

Goldsborough said his measure would "increase immediately the metallic base upon which our currency rests by nearly three billion dollars."

He added that commidity prices levels of basic products would be boosted by nearly 100 per cent and that there would be an immediate market for exportable surpluses.

Under the bill, which was passed by the House last year but not acted on in the Senate, the standard price for gold would be fixed at $36.17 an ounce, equivalent to a reduction of fine gold in the dollar from 23.22 to about 13.27 grains.

DOLLAR SLUMP CONTINUES ABROAD

Pound Sterling Rises to $3.99, Highest Since Crisis of '31

International News Service.

No longer monarch of the kingdom of gold, the American dollar toppled from its throne in the money markets of the world today.

The result of President Roosevelt's action in abandoning the gold standard by ordering an embargo on gold shipments was exactly as expected.

The dollar leveled off in London, Paris, Berlin and the other money markets, declining sharply as part of a concerted campaign to arrest deflation in the United States and raise the prices of American commodities.

Deprived of the artificial support afforded by huge gold shipments sent abroad during the past year to maintain parity, the dollar fell steadily in London until at noon the pound sterling was worth $3.99—by far the highest level the pound has reached since Great Britain herself abandoned the gold standard during the European financial crisis of 1931.

When the first flurry of dollar selling was ended, however, the pound began to recede from this high mark. The dollar gained as the pound went down, and at 2 p. m., sterling was quoted at $3.88. This figure represented a gain of 17 cents for the pound over yesterday's highest price and an increase of 44 cents from Tuesday's opening price.

In Paris the dollar opened at 22.45 francs and then began to gain, reaching 22.63 a short time after the opening. The pound sterling opened in Paris at 87.53, jumped to 87.60 and then declined to 87.47.

In Berlin, American dollars brought only 3.90 marks in official quotations, as against the normal exchange rate of 4.20 marks.

The currencies still tied to the standard of gold naturally bore the brunt of the international financial upset caused by the dollar's voluntary defection from the yellow metal.

The Dutch guilder went to a premium, but in Amsterdam, a semi-official statement was made to the effect that America's decision will have no effect upon Holland.

INFLATION SEEN AS CREATING MORE JOBS

Experts Doubt There Will Be Great Rise In Living Costs

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER
Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 20.—What does it mean in dollars and cents?

This was the question on innumerable lips today, not only those of butchers, bakers and candlestick makers, but of leading bankers, as markets were convulsed by news that the United States had suspended the gold standard.

While clear answers to the question were lacking, pending development of Washington's controlled inflation program, it was agreed in many financial and economic quarters that it should mean more jobs.

Whether the price rise coincident to reduced purchasing power of the dollar would mean appreciable higher costs of living was described as problematical.

That, it was explained, would depend upon the levels at which prices are finally stabilized.

LIVING COSTS STABLE

It was recalled that Great Britain, since abandonment of the gold standard there in 1931, had kept the cost of living relatively stable. That country's suspension of gold gave commodity prices only a momentary boost, but it helped England to hold her prices, in terms of her currency, fairly stable, while gold prices in the United States and France continued their steady decline, with consequent further disturbance to business and employment.

Proponents of inflation—and inflation means rising prices through increasing the turnover of currency or credit or both—have held that slightly higher costs of living should be welcomed by the country at large, if it meant widespread gains in employment, and a check to the steady decrease in payrolls which the nation has endured.

BANKERS' VIEWS

In the main, bankers and economists who discussed the problem were not inclined to look for much increase in living costs.

Capitalists were about as confused as to the dollars-and-cents meaning of the suspension of gold as was the man in the street. Persons with fixed income investments, such as highest grade bonds, wondered if the relative purchasing power of this fixed income would suffer, and whether they should convert their holdings into stocks.

On the other hand, in view of the sweeping rise which stocks have had, and with a revival of corporate earning power still to materialize, many were reluctant to enter the share market.

Nevertheless, with many questions still unanswered, hopes took wings, as the conviction spread that the gruelling deflation of prices and wages of the past three years was checked.

HELEN VASCO, 2

OPERATION CASE TO NEW COURT

CRESTWOOD, N. Y., April 20.—(AP.)—The Court of Appeals at Albany is to be asked to pass on the right of a Children's Court judge to order an operation on 2-year-old Helen Vasco despite parental objection.

Judge George Smyth, who issued the order and then stayed it pending approval of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, announced today that now that the Appellate Division had decided in his favor he was going to send the case to the Court of Appeals to make assurance doubly sure.

Helen Vasco, who is suffering from a malignant tumor at the back of her left eye, is at present missing, having been taken away by her parents.

The tumor has destroyed sight in the child's left eye, but the parents object to the operation on the ground that it might necessitate removal of the eyeball.

It is colder in the Middle Atlantic states, the Rocky Mountains and the southern plains; elsewhere changes in temperature were slight.

INFLATION BILL SPEEDED AT CAPITAL

campaign. But quick action was desired by those in authority, to get the situation fully in his hands as soon as possible.

Enthused over results of the movement, congressional inflationists argued in interviews that the net result would be to make unnecessary the Roosevelt proposals for refinancing of farm and home mortgages.

Representative Byrns, the Democratic leader, told newsmen:

"The temper of the House is such that I think it will stand behind him and give him whatever he wants.

"We expect him to want some means of bringing about a limited and controlled expansion, which in no event will affect us as it did Germany."

Meanwhile, it was stated that while America is off the gold standard in international trade as a result of Roosevelt's withdrawal of gold support of the dollar in foreign exchanges, the United States is technically on the gold standard domestically.

In seeking the authority proposed by Congress, it is the idea of Mr. Roosevelt to keep a firm control over the inflationary process. He wants a new price level and a greater exchange of money, but he wants to be able to stop the inflation within bounds.

Enthusing over the bill in the drafting of which he has had such a part, Senator Thomas told reporters:

"It will put value back into commodities and real estate and there will be no necessity to refinance farm mortgages.

"It is also a bank relief bill, as it will put value back into the collateral as basis for approximately $40,000,000,000 of frozen deposits.

"It will put value into every security in the banks and be the salvation of every bank in America."

Thomas said the four-fold program would give the President authority to issue Treasury notes under the old greenback law of 1862, but in greater amounts and to make them legal tender for both public and private debts.

It also would authorize the President, in his discretion, to reduce the gold content of the dollar, either independently or under an international agreement returning foreign nations to the gold standard and with a domestic content in harmony with other currencies.

SILVER ACCEPTANCE

Further provisions would permit the acceptance of silver in part payment of war debts and authorize the Secretary of the Treasury to prepare rules and regulations with approval of the President for administration of the law.

There would be no limit on the amount of Treasury notes the government could issue, Thomas said. One feature would be a redemption fund to retire the notes which would work out this way:

The government would use the notes to buy up outstanding government bonds and then destroy the bonds. Then from time to time Congress would be asked to appropriate money to pay the interest on the bonds, but as the bonds would have been destroyed the money would be put in a fund to retire the notes paid out for the bonds.

Another administration attack on deflationary influences was in full swing today at the Treasury, where the governors of the Federal Reserve Banks were continuing their conference on means of reopening the thousands of closed banks in the country. The main question involved, Woodin said, was the collateral the banks could offer to Reserve banks for currency.

At the Treasury, meanwhile, intensive study of how 4,000 closed banks of the nation can be aided in reopening was carried on by Secretary Woodin and governors of the 12 Federal Reserve banks.

Called to Washington to go over the financial and economic situation of the nation, the governors had reported on pending conditions of business throughout the country improved in nearly all lines recently. They also discussed the government's gold embargo and its effect on business.

Shaw, Serious, Praises U. S. Gold Embargo

Of this latest development in world finance and exchange, he asserted:

"This will hasten what I have always advocated — scientific control of the world's currencies.

"We can't go on as we have been for the last few years. It is useless to look to financiers for scientific control.

"Therefore we will have to look for somebody who has made a really scientific study of finance from all aspects, and who is not smitted with its sordid machinations, to evolve our scientific control."

The Irish critic was asked if the world economic conference would not provide scientific control of currencies and finance, to which he responded:

"Not a chance!

"They'll only talk and shilly-shally. It's a job for scientists —they're honest.

"Some substitute will now have to be found for a gold basis."

Mellon Silent on U. S. Embargo on Gold

Andrew W. Mellon read with interest today that President Roosevelt had swung the United States off the gold standard.

Although he would make no formal comment, his attitude was that there was nothing in the plan to warrant alarm.

Mr. Mellon read J. P. Morgan's statement, in which the latter "welcomed the action of the President and Secretary of the Treasury in placing an embargo on gold shipments," but simply smiled and made no comment.

Mr. Mellon says he has adopted a policy for the present of not being interviewed.

The former Ambassador to the Court of St. James and long-time Secretary of the Treasury is leaving tonight for the East, on business.

TOMBS OF WAR HERO'S ANCESTORS RAIDED BY GHOULS

YORK BLAMES BURIED GOLD LEGEND

Graves Being Guarded After Discovery Of Desecration

JAMESTOWN, Tenn., April 20.—(AP.)—A legend of buried treasure nearly a century old, was recalled today when Sergt. Alvin C. York, World War hero, reported he had found the tombs of his great-great-grandmother, Mrs. Coonrod Pile and her daughter, opened and wrecked.

Sergt. York, Sheriff J. M. Pennyhouse and several others stood guard beside the open graves in a cemetery near here during the night in the belief grave robbers might return to search other burial places in the family plot for a quantity of silver and a "keg of gold" which tradition says was buried by Coonrod Pile shortly before his death almost 100 years ago.

The two graves, brick lined and formerly covered by heavy stone slabs, were found open Tuesday. Into the grave of Mary Pile, Sergt. York's ancestor, nad been thrown bricks and other debris from the grave of her daughter. Mrs. Pile was buried in 1843.

Coonrod Pile was one of the earliest settlers in Fentress County, and reputedly wealthy. During his last illness, legend says he told an aged slave, "Aunt Mary," that he would reveal to her the hiding place of the gold. Treasure hunters have dug over most of the land owned by Pile, but nothing ever was found.

One version of the legend was that the treasure, or part of it, was buried in the grave of Mary Pile or that of her daughter. Sergt. York expressed the belief that violation of the graves was due to the treasure legend.

'CAN'T TORTURE MY ILL BOY,' MOTHER SAYS

Denounces Hospital Plan, Begins New Home Treatment

Little Billy Lesic played happily in his Millvale home today, unaware that his life may depend on the outcome of a fight being waged by his parents against science and law.

His mother, Mrs. Mary Lesic, of 248 Arlington street, is steadfast and hopes the battle will soon end. Taking verbal jabs at the doctors today, she declared:

"My boy is better at home than being tortured. In the hospital they tied him on something that looked like an ironing board. I won't let them do it again."

Holding Billy in her lap and squeezing him tightly in her arms, she added:

DOOMED, SAY DOCTORS

Doctors say the boy is doomed to die from tuberculosis of the spine unless he is cared for in a hospital. Humane Society and Juvenile Court officials say they are going to wage a strong fight to force the parents to return the boy to Children's Hospital for proper treatment.

Even the Rev. Albert Zagar, of St. Nicholas Church, Millvale, failed to influence the mother. Father Zagar, who is the Lesics' pastor, talked with the mother and father yesterday. After the visit he said:

"They don't understand. Now is the time to take care of the boy in a hospital under skilled physicians. I am going to talk with Mrs. Lesic again and I think that she will change her mind."

As Billy went to play with his brother, George, 4, and a sister, Katherine, 6, his mother denounced all charges that she was neglecting the boy. She declared she believed the law officials and the doctors are misinformed.

NEW TREATMENT

Mrs. Lesic said:

"I got a doctor yesterday. He gave me some liniment to rub Billy's back with and told me to feed him raw eggs, whole wheat bread and fruit. The doctor is H. M. Allison, of 609 Chestnut street.

"He gave me some papers that show how he had cured many other people of all kinds of diseases.

"I will give my child a hot bath at bedtime and rub his back good with the medicine. The doctor said he will cure my boy of tuberculosis of the spine here at home.

"This is the seventh doctor that has taken care of my boy. The others just took money."

FIGHT PLANNED

At the Western Pennsylvania Humane Society, Edwin M. Smith, chief agent, declared:

"I have been informed that numerous non-licensed doctors are offering their advice and services to the Lesic parents. We know that the boy is not being properly cared for at home and we are going to do everything we can to help save his life."

Mrs. Lesic, who was born in Jugoslavia and who lived on the North Side several years before her marriage, further defended herself:

"Nothing could stop me from even giving my life for my boy and I'm willing to go to court to keep him."

PLAYER'S WAGE ROW WRECKS COTTON CLUB

Cabaret Raided After Musician Smashes Furniture

The Cotton Club, at 340 Third avenue, one of the bright spots in Pittsburgh's night life, was raided by police under Capt. Thomas F. Gross, early today and 13 employes, including the Negro orchestra, were arrested.

Police estimated the damage at $300.

A Negro entertainer, Howard Edmonds, 19, admitted he had started wrecking the place because he hadn't been paid. He was held for investigation.

The proprietor, Johnny Deutch, 38, former manager of prize fighters and once a prohibition agent, and the other prisoners were discharged.

Rosella Pamplin, 21, of 2515 Hallett street, entertainer, one of those arrested told police a private party had been held in the club earlier in the evening. She said she did not know the cause of the rumpus.

One or more of the combatants was believed to have been injured. Police found two bloody towels and several spots of blood on the floor.

GERMAN PRINCE REVEALS TROTH

BERLIN, April 20.—(INS.)—Breaking traditional court rules, Prince Wilhelm of Prussia, eldest son of the former German crown prince, today announced his engagement to Miss Dorothea von Salviati, member of a former German noble family, in the newspaper Kreuzzeittung.

The prince not only broke a long-standing family rule against marrying commoners, but also took tradition by the forelock in making the announcement himself. A simultaneous announcement was also made by the widowed mother of his fiancee.

Representatives of the Hohenzollern family later announced Prince Wilhelm's engagement was made without knowledge of the former Kaiser or the prince's parents.

The prince would be in direct line for succession to the throne of Germany, in event of restoration of the Hohenzollerns, but it was reported today his marriage to the commoner would jeopardize this.

MARLENE SOON TO QUIT U. S.

HOLLYWOOD, April 20.—(INS.)—Marlene Dietrich, exotic German actress, will depart within a few days for her home in Germany, but all her plans will be veiled in secrecy, she announced today.

Miss Dietrich denied she had been made the target of more extortion letters in which threats were made against her young daughter, Maria Sieber, but said she and the child hoped to "slip quietly out of Hollywood and it's possible we may take an armed guard as far as New York."

Since May, 1932, when $20,000 was reported demanded from her on threats of kidnaping her daughter, Miss Dietrich has maintained an armed guard for herself and daughter.

women's endurance flight record, expects the youngest Thaden in September. The first child, Bill, born in Pittsburgh three years ago, is already a seasoned air traveler.

It is likely the Lindberghs will reach Pittsburgh late today. Fog was reported over the mountains immediately east of Pittsburgh, but the Colonel apparently was not worried by atmospheric conditions, for he flew from Baltimore to Washington in the rain.

The Lindbergs spent last night as guests of Mrs. Thaden and her husband, Herman V. Thaden, in Baltimore.

From Pittsburgh the Colonel probably will proceed to Columbus, O. He is inspecting air depots of the T. & W. A.

Question Validity Of Keaton Marriage

LOS ANGELES, April 20.—(Universal)—Is Buster Keaton's Mexican marriage to his former nurse, Mae Scrivens, valid, and is he responsible under the law for her acts before their marriage?

These two questions had bobbed up in Superior Court yesterday when attorneys representing the Keatons presented a demurrer and a motion to strike Keaton's name from a damage complaint filed against the couple by Mrs. Edith Botchford.

Pants Save Pair Marooned in Motorboat

When the motorboat in which he and Maynard Knutsen were visiting nets at night stalled 12 miles from shore Schmorrow stripped off his trousers, soaked them in oil, and set fire to them. Holding the burning garment aloft, Schmorrow attracted the Kenosha Coast Guard lookout and soon was back on land, looking for another pair of pants.

FIRST MOONEY 'OUTING' SET

SAN FRANCISCO, April 20.—(AP.)—Tom Mooney's first trip outside of San Quentin Prison since he was sent there 16 years ago for the San Francisco Preparedness Day bombing was ordered here yesterday in preparaton for his trial on an outstanding indictment.

Superior Judge Louis H. Ward, who granted the "new trial," directed the prison warden to convey Mooney to San Francisco County Jail next Tuesday. The trial is set for Wednesday.

Shortly before the order was issued, John O'Hara, former assistant district attorney, whose arguments against the trial were overruled Monday, announced he had written a letter to State Attorney General U. S. Webb calling upon him to stop the procedure as "a useless expense."

'SLAIN' GEN. MA IN BERLIN

BERLIN, April 20.—(AP.)—A Gen. Ma Chan-shan, reputedly the Chinese national hero who Japanese military leaders claimed was killed in battle last July in Manchuria, arrived today from Tomsk, Siberia.

With him were two other Chinese generals, Su Ping-wen and Li (apparently Li Ching-ling, former governor of Chihli province and a Manchurian commander several years ago) and about 60 other Chinese officers and soldiers, women and children.

Gen. Su was leader of the Chinese uprising against the Manchukuo government last fall in northwest Manchuria. He fled across the Siberian border with remnants of his army in early December, and the Soviet government refused Japanese requests for his extradition.

The generals refused to talk except to indicate an intention to remain in Berlin for some days.

Neff Murder Trial Drawing to Close

YOUNGSTOWN, O., April 20.—Final arguments in the trial of Cyrus H. Neff for the murder of his wife were made today, after Prosecuting Attorney J. H. Leininger had declared Neff was a cold-blooded murderer, who thought more of making money than he did of his wife.

FACTOR FEARS SON SLAIN

CHICAGO, April 20.—(INS.)—Despite pessimistic denials by John (Jake the Barber) Factor it was reported today that the kidnapers of his 19-year-old son, Jerome, were completing final negotiations for releasing the youth.

Representatives of Factor were understood to be dickering for a reduction of the $50,000 ransom demanded for the safe return of the Northwestern University student. Close friends of the stock promoter asserted that the youth would be released within 24 hours.

Factor, however, declared that he had given up hope. The reputed financial genius indicated that he fears the kidnapers may have killed his son.

While Capone gangsters led by Sam Hunt and acting as paid emissaries of Factor conducted an independent foray in search of the kidnapers, detective squads searched the farmlands 40 miles from the city on information that the youth had been taken to a farmohuse outside Chicago.

Search for the kidnapers shifted to Champaign, Ill., today with the arrest of two new suspects there.

PITT DIPLOMA COSTS SCORED

To protest against what is termed "exorbitant" graduation fees, a mysterious and anonymous campus organization at the University of Pittsburgh called the Committee of Hard-Hit Juniors and Seniors has requested the student body to meet tomorrow in front of Thaw Hall. A statement handed to a newspaper by an anonymous Negro student reads:

"We find in such trying times as these while Pitt students must pay $10 for a diploma and $2.50 for cap and gown, Carnegie Tech students pay $5 for a diploma and $1.50 for cap and gown."

University officials say they have not been informed of the protest.

PLAN NEW HUNT FOR AKRON

NEW YORK, April 20.—(INS.)—Resumption of diving and dragging operations for wreckage of the dirigible, Akron, which plunged into the Atlantic off Barnegat light two weeks ago with loss of 73 lives, will be started as soon as weather and rough seas moderate, Navy officials said today.

Operations were suspended yesterday because of fog and high seas.

RUTH JUDD SANE SAYS DOCTOR

FLORENCE, Ariz., April 20.—(AP.)—O. E. Uttzinger, of Ray, Ariz., deputy Pinal County physician and a lieutenant colonel in the medical reserve, United States Army, testified at Winnie Ruth Judd's sanity hearing today he believes the condemned young woman sane.

Mrs. Judd is under sentence to be hanged a week from tomorrow for the murder of Agnes Anne Lerol, one of the two "trunk murder" case victims, unless the sanity jury finds she is insane. Dr. Uttzinger said:

"She flew into a violent emotional state and cursed and swore when she was questioned regarding the impending sanity hearing.

"She said, 'They can't take me out of here. They can tear me limb from limb—I will go out that trash gate, I had the key to it all last summer.'"

DOOM MOTHER AS BABY 'TALKS'

ALBANY, N. Y., April 20.—(AP.)—A baby's prattle sounded loud in County Court room as Anna Antonio, young mother of the infant and two other children, stepped before a judge yesterday to be sentenced to die "in the mode and manner prescribed by law" (electrocution), as one of three who killed her husband.

The baby, sitting on an uncle's lap, was stabbing at a note book with a pencil, when the woman, twisting a handkerchief and biting her lips, heard the sentence.

As Mrs. Antonio turned from Judge Earl Gallup, her 8-year-old daughter smiled. The condemned woman did not smile.

Two men, convicted with Mrs. Antonio, are Vincent Saetta and Sam Faraci. Antonio was killed on Easter Sunday, 1932. The state said Mrs. Antonio wanted her husband's insurance and agreed to give the two men $2,000 to make that possible.

Macon Maiden Flight Delayed by Weather

AKRON, O., April 20.—(INS.)—Unfavorable weather conditions again conspired today to delay the maiden flight of the Navy's new giant dirigible, the U. S. S. Macon, sister ship of the Akron.

After closely checking the weather charts, Commander Alger Dresel announced that the Macon would not be taken aloft this afternoon and that it was a remote possibility that the initial flight would be held before Saturday.

Stays at Throttle in Fire After Crash Kills Two

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo., April 20.—(AP.)—Sticking to his throttle in the face of blazing gasoline flames, Engineer Charles Leadbetter, of Little Rock, Ark., brought the crack "Texan," a Missouri Pacific train to a stop today and then fell unconscious from his seat, critically burned. The passengers were unharmed.

The locomotive struck an oil truck near Moark, Mo., at 7 a. m. today, killing the driver and throwing gasoline over the speeding locomotive. Fireman E. E. Hurt, of Little Rock, was killed when he leaped from the flame-filled cab. The engineer brought the train to a stop about three-quarters of a mile from the scene of the crash and then lost consciousness.

The "Texan" was traveling swiftly in an endeavor to make up lost time when it struck the truck, driven by Kip Nelson, of Corning, Ark., at a grade crossing.

Gasoline was thrown over the hot locomotive which rushed on down the track, a blazing mass.

'Boy on Burning Deck' Classed as Moron

BALTIMORE, April 20.—(AP.)—The boy who stood on the burning deck is classed as a moron by Prof. Harry Allen Overstreet, head of the department of philosophy of the College of the City of New York.

The 13-year-old Casabianca, hero of Felicia Hemans' poem, a generation ago was held up as a shining example of filial obedience. Most any schoolboy of that day could recite:

The boy stood on the burning deck
Whence all but he had fled;
The flame that lit the battle's wreck
Shone round him o'er the dead.
Yet beautiful and bright he stood,
As born to rule the storm;
A creature of heroic blood,
A proud, though childlike form.

But Prof. Overstreet told the members of the Maryland division, Child Study Association of America, the youth did not have the intelligence to adapt himself to a changing situation.

Instead Casabianca stood on the burning deck just because his father had told him to stay there. The New York professor said:

"The schools were terribly barren in what they taught us. For instance, I was taught to bound Kansas and where the Missouri River rose.

"Who cares where it rose? Rivers have a way of rising somewhere."

WAGNER RELIEF BILL REPORT GIVEN HOUSE

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(AP.)—Chairman Steagall of the House Banking Committee filed a formal report on the Lewis-Wagner $500,000,000 relief bill today which asserted that 4,000,000 families were on the relief lists in the country and the number was increasing. The report stated:

"In the first three years of this depression expenditures throughout the nation increased 800 per cent; this has meant the doubling of relief each year over the year before. As a result total expenditures for relief approximated $1,000,000,000.

"Reports for the first two months of 1933 show an additional 500 per cent increase over corresponding months of 1929. This forecasts an increase for the current year of 1,300 per cent above normal relief expenditures.

"These vast expenditures are now caring for 4,000,000 families already on the relief lists."

The report said "these 4,000,000 families are daily being increased from the ranks of the 13,000,000 unemployed and the millions of others under-employed."

ARMS EMBARGO BILL HELD UP

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(Universal.)—Foreshadowing a vigorous Senate fight over the House bill giving President Roosevelt power to declare arms embargoes, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee has delayed action on the measure until next Wednesday, so that members may familiarize themselves with its contents.

After considering the measure for 30 minutes yesterday, so many Senators had indicated a desire to study it further that it was agreed to postpone action.

Opponents hold the measure might result in foreign entanglements that would lead the United States to war.

Under the bill the President could join such nations as he desired in singling out an aggressor nation and laying an embargo against shipments of arms and munitions to that nation.

MORTGAGE AID BILL SPEEDED

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(AP.)—At the request of President Roosevelt for speedy enactment of his home mortgage refinancing measure, committees on both sides of the Capitol began studying the bill today with indications that there would be prompt action.

In the House Banking Committee, William F. Stevenson, of the Home Loan Bank board, a former House member, explained the provisions of the $2,000,000,000 proposal behind closed doors. Committee members indicated they might be asked to approve it immediately.

Horace Russell, general counsel for the Home Loan Bank board, explained the bill to a Senate banking sub-committee.

There was an indication that members of that committee were giving thought to the possibilities of enlarging the scope of the bill to include homes worth more than $10,000.

STAMP, GAS TAX ACTION DUE

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(INS.)—Passage of the administration bill restoring the two-cent postage rate on local mail and continuance of the one-cent Federal gasoline tax for another year was expected in the House today.

The measure was to be called up for action by Representative Doughton, (Dem.), of North Carolina, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee.

With many members clamoring for wholesale abolition of the many excise and miscellaneous taxes embodied in the $1,000,000,000 tax bill last year, the measure may furnish a test of the ability of administration leaders to hold the House in line.

Airway Firms Urge Mail Rate Reduction

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(INS.)—Revision of the laws to prevent monopolistic control of the air mail and reduction of air mail rates was advocated before the House Postoffice Committee today by spokesmen for the independent airway companies.

The rate should be cut from 8 to 5 cents an ounce to increase volume and point the way to eliminating the federal subsidy, they said.

Herron Lauds Grocers At Food Show Opening

Mayor Thanks Group For Aid in City's Relief Work

With thanks to the Retail Grocers' Association of Allegheny County for their aid to the city's relief, Mayor John S. Herron officially opened the Pittsburgh Food Show in Motor Square Garden last night.

A crowd poured in early and heard the Mayor urge the public's indorsement and support of the show. He thanked President Charles Wolff for heavy contributions to the city's needy.

Mrs. T. M. Stahlman, president of the Congress of Women's Clubs, whose address followed Mayor Herron's, lauded the work of the cooking school held in connection with the show.

MANAGER TALKS

The show's aim to acquaint the public with the latest developments of household economics and food products was discussed by J. V. Loughran, manager of the show.

Mrs. Sara D. Tomlinson announced the cooking school, of which she is director, would open this afternoon and continue each afternoon for the duration of the show. Nine women's clubs had made reservations for today.

The cooking school will be featured by a cake-baking contest for women, with a special contest for girls under 15. There will be prizes for the winners.

ATTENDANCE PLEASES

Loughran said the opening night's attendance indicated this year's show would be one of the most successful ever sponsored by the Grocers' Association here.

Sessions will be held daily from 2 p. m. until 5:30 p. m. and from 7 p. m. until 10:30 p. m. Maude Ingersoll and her Colonial Girls will entertain daily with music.

FARM RELIEF FUND VOTED

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(AP.)—An appropriation of $100,000,000 to put into motion the administration's broad farm price lifting program was approved today by the Senate in resuming debate on the agricultural relief plan.

The fund was authorized in adopting an amendment offered by Chairman Smith (Dem.), of South Carolina, on behalf of the Agricultural Department. The government would be reimbursed from the receipts of the proposed processing tax.

Authority for expenditure of some of the money to expend markets to remove farm surpluses was included in the amendment.

DEFICIT OF U. S. $1,500,000,000

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(INS.)—For the first time this fiscal year, the government's deficit passed the billion and a half dollar mark on April 18, according to figures at the Treasury today.

Expenditures of $3,162,172,000 exceeded the receipts in the July 1-April 18 period by $1,503,846,000.

The deficit at the same time last year was $2,145,146,000.

During the period the government has borrowed $7,170,243,000 and retired $5,204,960,000 in United States securities.

The public debt April 18 was $21,452,316,000.

MUSCLE SHOALS BILL DRAFTED

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt's program for development of the Tennessee River valley, its scope limited to meet Republican objections, was ready today for introduction in the House, where it will be pressed for passage Saturday.

The military committee gave its approval last night to the bill, which would create a Tennessee Valley Authority to operate the giant Muscle Shoals power and nitrate plant, and build the Cove Creek dam on the Clinch River in Tennessee.

The main limitations written into the bill would require the government corporation first to try to lease, purchase or condemn existing electric transmission lines before building its own as originally proposed; to lease the shoals nitrate plants and operate them only if the leasing fails after an 18-month period; and require either the corporation or the lessee to produce 10,000 tons of nitrogenous plant food for the first three years.

MEDICAL LIQUOR 'CODE' WAITED

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—Issuance of regulations for the distribution of medicinal liquor under new legislation permitting virtually unrestricted prescriptions within "reasonable limitations" today awaited recommendations of the American Medical Association.

Dr. James M. Doran, chief of the Bureau of Industrial Alcohol, said a committee of the association in Chicago was preparing a draft of regulations. He anticipated it would be received shortly.

Doran expressed the belief that under the new system there will be another cut into the bootleggers' business, following that which resulted from the legalization of 3.2 per cent beer. Because of the high cost of prescriptions and medicinal liquor there has been some turn to the bootlegger for whisky for medicinal purposes. This market will be killed, Doran believes.

SHORTER WEEK PROTESTED BY PRODUCERS

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(AP.)—Protests from manufacturers and producers against an inelastic 30-hour-week bill poured in today upon House members as the labor committee planned for a detailed study beginning Tuesday.

Many objections were directed at the Black bill, passed by the Senate and which Secretary Perkins already has proposed to make more elastic by permitting men in extraordinary circumstances to work as much as 40 hours a week for 10 weeks.

Many members predicted also that as soon as producers studied her proposal for power to limit the total hours of operation of any one plant to prevent overproduction or unfair competition they would object to that.

Reports were that Henry Ford, invited to discuss the bill with the labor committee, would not appear next week but would send a representative to support the shorter-week plan.

Miss Perkins will be the first witness on Tuesday, followed by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, on Wednesday.

VET ECONOMY $460,000,000

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(AP.)—The vast reduction by the administration in veterans' expenditures amount to $460,000,000 under estimates submitted to the House today by the budget director, Lewis W. Douglas.

The economies to be placed in effect July 1 reduce from $966,838,000 to $506,838,000 the expenditures for veterans as originally contemplated for the next fiscal year, before Congress gave President Roosevelt authority to slash benefits to former service men.

GIRL WHO SHOT SENATOR SUES PROFESSOR

NEW YORK, April 20.—(Universal)—Ruth Jayne Cranmer, attractive blonde, who two years ago shot and wounded Roy T. Yates, then a New Jersey State Senator, today was plaintiff in a suit against Merle M. Hoover, English professor of Columbia University.

Her complaint reveals an unusual arrangement which she charges she made to obtain an education.

She declares she exchanged her companionship in return for a college education plus support and maintenance. The agreement has been broken, she asserts.

Hoover, who is married, said:

"I don't know a thing about it. I know Miss Cranmer in a casual way."

Miss Cranmer, in the Yates shooting incident, which occurred in a New York apartment during a quarrel, was arrested but released when he refused to prosecute. Yates resigned from the Senate following the shooting.

JANITOR HELD IN STILL THEFT

A janitor accused of stealing confiscated stills from the court house and two other Negroes were to be arraigned tonight before Justice of the Peace Francis V. Sabino, of Rankin.

One of the stills found in operation in Rankin resulted in the arrest of John Rice, of 328 Second street, Rankin, according to Police Chief Michael Jordan. Rice said he was operating the still for James Wise, a courthouse janitor.

Wise was arrested on a charge of larceny at the courthouse yesterday by Constable William Sullivan. J. Alonzo Eubank, 346 Fifth street, Rankin, alleged to have hauled the stills for Wise after they were removed from the storage room at the courthouse, also was charged with larceny. Rice was charged with violating the Snyder act.

BUTLER COUNTY TAXES ARGUED

The Superior Court in its session here yesterday heard arguments on tax exemption for ground by reason of its being used for the benefit of inmates of a charitable institution.

The Butler County court, in the suit of the United Presbyterian Women's Association of North America, decided in favor of Butler County officials.

The association sought to restrain collection of taxes on 219 acres of farm and timber land.

The county, holding that the acreage did not further the specific objects of charity and was subject to taxation, was upheld by the County Court.

CENTRAL HEAT SYSTEM FOR INSTITUTES

A 50-year agreement for a central heating plant has been made by officials of the Carnegie Library, Carnegie Institute, University of Pittsburgh, Carnegie Institute of Technology and the Mellon Institute, it was announced today. The plant will be installed this summer, following negotiations which covered two years.

Dr. E. R. Weidlein, director of Mellon Institute, made public the agreement yesterday afternoon during a hearing in City Council, where he appeared to protest a change in the zoning classification of the Jennings property, Fifth avenue and Craig street. Mention of the heating plant was incidental to Dr. Weidlein's remarks on the zoning ordinance.

Dr. Weidlein said that as consulting engineers have not yet been employed, the cost of the improvement is not known, but that it will be "many thousands of dollars."

The plant will be located in the building now housing the heating plant of the library, but additional boilers will be installed.

The supervising committee of the new system, to be known as Bellefield Boiler Plant, includes Taylor Allderdice and Arthur E. Braun, representing Carnegie Institute; George H. Clapp and Dr. Weidlein, University of Pittsburgh; Roy A. Hunt and William E. Moorehead, Carnegie Library, and H. A. Phillips and R. B. Mellon, the Mellon Institute.

Director Rees said the trip was made to satisfy himself and the commissioners that the company, if given the work, would be able to complete the contract.

Three Lives Lost In Sand, Hail Storm

KANSAS CITY, April 20.—(AP.)—Three lives were lost in wind, sand and hail storms which swept sections of the Texas Panhandle, Oklahoma and Western Kansas late Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jake Mutz were killed when their home near Chickasha, Okla., was leveled. W. D. Shelton, Littlefield, Tex., was crushed to death when a truck was overturned. Ten persons were injured in the storm near Chickasha.

REVENGE SLAYER "SWAPPED" BACK TO U. S.

EL PASO, Tex., April 20.—(AP.)—Climaxing one of the strangest murder cases in Mexican border history, William Jefferson Meers, American youth once sentenced to death for shooting a Juarez waiter, was exchanged at the International Bridge here today for a Mexican serving a life sentence in Texas for another killing.

Pardoned by the Governor of Chihuahua in accordance with the exchange agreement, Meers was brought here by automobile from Chihuahua City. Mexican officials took him to the middle of the bridge at 3:20 a. m. (M. S. T.) where the party was met by Sheriff Chris P. Fox, of El Paso County, the Mexican prisoner, Jose Carrasco, and Meers' wife and mother.

Meers and Carrasco shook hands and then returned to the countries from which they had been absent for years.

A tragic mistake growing out of his desire to avenge the murder of his father led Meers to shoot an innocent waiter, Antonio Visconte, in a Juarez saloon, July 18, 1930.

His father, W. H. Meers, was slain in a gun fight between five Mexican bandits and special officers guarding an $18,000 payroll in El Paso in March, 1924.

Meers vowed to ascertain the identity of his father's slayer. He finally learned that a desperado, Manuel Villareal, was responsible.

Meers' efforts to locate Villareal resulted in a practical joker telling him that his father's slayer was a waiter in the saloon where he and a friend were drinking.

Calling the man over to the table, Meers drew an automatic pistol and shot him six times. Then Meers was informed he had killed the wrong man.

Meers, 21 years old then, was arrested and held in Juarez Jail for months. He was sentenced to death by a Chihuhua judge and was transferred to Chihuahua State Penitentiary. Later his sentence was reduced to 11 years' imprisonment.

VATICAN STAMP EXPLAINED

So many of the subscribers who were fortunate enough to obtain the Father Cox Holy Year Cachet from Vatican City have asked about the significance of the designs on the postage stamps employed in mailing these commemorative envelopes that this information is printed. The outstanding feature of the design on each stamp are the "Crossed Keys of St. Peters" the symbol of spiritual authority above which is the "Triple Crown," signifying temporal power—symbols which have appeared on each series of stamps from the beginning of the Papal issues in 1852.

Roselyn Miller Keenan, who departed from Rome after the Holy Year ceremonies and is now in Paris, spent an entire day in the little Vatican City postoffice while two employes affixed the nearly 20,000 stamps required for the mailing of the cachets. The stamps cost $310.00 in United States money.

Father Cox is getting many letters and expressions of regret from persons who have seen this holy year cachet but failed to subscribe for it.

Notwithstanding his absence from Pittsburgh the Father Cox Sun-Telegraph drive for subscriptions is moving right along. Every subscription that comes in on the blank on this page or is telephoned in with the request that Father Cox be given credit for it, brings to his unemployment relief fund a liberal cash commission.

SOVIET RECALLS BRITISH TRADE DELEGATION

LONDON, April 20—(AP.)—The chiefs of the Soviet Russian trade delegation to London were recalled to Moscow today "for consultation" and will start for home next Monday.

This action follows the conviction of five British engineers tried in Moscow on sabotage charges, and the imposition of an 80 per cent embargo against Russian importations into England, a measure resorted to by the government in protest against the sabotage case.

Asked if there was any question of the delegation not returning to London, a Soviet official said:

"All I can say at present is that the delegation is going home to make a report—a not unusual thing from time to time."

While the negotiations between London and Moscow over the sabotage case were going on, the British government called home its Russian ambassador for personal discussions concerning it, and he has not since returned.

The British government is maintaining its firm policy in regard to the embargo pending a final Soviet decision as to whether the prison sentences of L. T. Thornton and William L. MacDonald, two of the convicted engineers, are to be commuted.

The foreign office was without direct information from Moscow but press reports indicated commutation was likely.

In the highest quarters it was learned that if the sentences are commuted Britain will take steps to insure the continuation of Anglo-Russian trade, either by rescinding the embargo proclamation or by a licensing system.

Soviet Paper Denounces British Boycott Plan

MOSCOW, April 20.—(AP.)—As the clouds of economic war darkened the horizon, Izvestia, official Soviet organ, lashed out today at "British Imperialists."

It accused them of attempting to use the recent sabotage trial of British engineers to promote an empire trade program laid down at the imperial conference at Ottawa last year.

The newspaper Izvestia expressed "surprise" at what it called the efforts of Britain to prove by means of a "boycott" against Soviet goods that the engineers' trial was unjust.

The British government, said Izvestia, pledged itself at Ottawa to favor Canada at the expense of the U. S. S. R. in order to keep Canada from closer relations with the United States. The paper charged that the trial was being used for this purpose.

Announce Highway Detours, Removals

The State Department of Highways today announced a seven-mile detour between Ellwood City and Pleasant Hill on route 488, and a 10½-mile detour between Etna and North Park on route 8.

Detours are removed between Garvers Ferry and Freeport, route 356; between Waynesburg and Rogersville, route 18, and at Burgettstown, route 18.

HOBO KING HITS JAZZ AGE

CINCINNATI, O., April 20—(AP.)—After 37 years hoboing up and down the land, Jeff Davis, "king of hoboes," has decided "too much freedom has made us goofy." He said:

"Instead of going to our heads, it went to our feet. We got jazz-crazed and drifted down Big-House Lane until most of us would give anything to know where we are at."

Fifty years old and a hobo since he was 13, Jeff now is helping Cincinnati care for wanderers and has put in writing his own slant on things.

Among his observations are:

"Many a father looks for his boy or girl after dark—when he should have looked for them before it got dark."

"The trouble with many families is that they expect society to do more for their children than they would do for them themselves."

TOWN ELECTS COOK AS CHIEF

SCHILLAR PARK, Ill., April 20.—(AP.)—This village is in for some kind of a new deal. It elected Mrs. Julia M. Kolze, reputed to be the best cook in town, as its village president, and she said:

"I'm going to run this town just as I run my house."

VIGILANTES HUNT RAIDERS

WASHINGTON, Pa., April 21.—Days of the vigilantes are being recalled here with the roll call of members of the Buffalo Village Vigilante Association to curb sheep raids in this district.

Farmers in Buffalo Village, and other settlements, have been harassed for months by the activities of sheep rustlers, chicken thieves and other depredators who broke into barns and graineries robbing farmers of produce and animals worth hundreds of dollars.

A few days ago raiders stole sheep owned by J. Maxwell, at Buffalo Village. Immediately he remembered the old Vigilante committee. It had been inactive for many years. Old blood welcomed younger men into the roster and since nightly guards have been patrolling the Buffalo Village section to prevent further depredations.

HOUSE DEFEATS PAY SLASH IN NEAR RIOT

HARRISBURG, April 20.—(AP.)—A riotous House of Representatives last night reversed itself and defeated the Senate-approved Howell resolution which urged pay cuts for legislators, judges and state officials whose salaries are set by law.

In the din of banging inkwells and jeers from advocates of the measure, the members voted the resolution down, 96 to 94, after approving it, 94 to 92, late in the afternoon.

DROP POLICE CUTS

The defeat of the Howell resolution brought reprisals in the House today.

Representative Elwood J. Turner, Delaware, organization Republican, amended one of his bills to eliminate proposed salary cuts for state police and state highway patrolmen.

Turner said today he would "not stand for" other reductions after the House defeated the plan to slash legislative, judicial and official salaries.

The Howell resolution made no slashes directly, but asked legislators and others whose pay cannot be cut by law during the term for which they were elected, to take voluntary reductions. It suggested a 20 per cent cut for judges and state officials on that portion of their salary over $750 and a 40 per cent on the $600 unpaid portion of the lawmakers' $3,000 salary.

TURNER BOOED

Prior to the vote, Representative Turner, who was booed for forcing a roll call in the afternoon, urged the House to readopt the measure last night. He termed it the basis of all state cuts and appropriations. He said:

"We have passed measures here to reduce salaries of the next Legislature. It seems to me we cannot sweep this resolution aside on the pretext that we do not know what the other fellow will do."

He referred to the Governor's claim that all that remains between the commonwealth and bankruptcy is the $14,000,000 Dorrance inheritance fund.

He reiterated his claim that the Legislature will be back next summer unless economies are effected.

In the midst of his address, members began pounding their inkwells and making other noises. Turner said:

Speaker Talbot also admonished the members, reminding them they were "still sitting in a legislative body."

TEACHERS' PAY PARLEY HELD

HARRISBURG, April 20.—(AP.)—Led by Representative Thomas B. Wilson, McKean, Republican, legislative leaders today began new efforts to obtain enactment of the Wilson bill reducing teachers' salaries.

The revised measure, agreed upon by Senate-House conferees, was defeated yesterday in the House by a vote of 97 to 81.

The House took the stand that any reductions beyond 10 per cent should be approved by county courts and not by the superintendent of public instruction as the Senate insisted. Conferences to be held over the week-end will be directed toward settling this issue.

Gov. Pinchot estimates the suspension of automatic increases in teachers' salaries and a 10 per cent cut where district finances demand it would save local taxpayers $24,000,000 in two years.

Wilson, chairman of the House Education Committee, said today that present plans call for a continuation of the legislative fight until the bill is enacted.

Street Maintenance Bill Passes House

HARRISBURG, April 20.—(INS.)—The House last night passed finally Coyne (Senate) bill providing that streets designated as state highways in Pittsburgh, Scranton and third-class cities shall be maintained by the State Highway Department.

Poor Board Pay Bill Approved by House

HARRISBURG, April 20.—(INS.)—The House today reconsidered the vote by which it defeated the Mansfield (Senate) bill fixing the salaries of poor directors in Allegheny County and then passed the measure, 169 to 0.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM H. SMITH . . . . . CUTTING THE CAKE AT THEIR WEDDING DINNER

Mr. Smith, 74, and his bride, the former Mrs. Priscilla Petty, 72, after their wedding last night in the Mt. Washington Presbyterian Church. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

2 AGED COUPLES MARRY AGAIN

The loneliness of old age had faded today for two aged couples as they embarked on their second matrimonial cruises today. In one Mrs. Priscilla Petty, 72, was wedded to William H. Smith, 74, in the Mt. Washington Presbyterian Church. In the other, Donato Paranzino, of 300 Tarragona street, Knoxville, and Mrs. Mary Buccigrossi, of 221 Gladefield street, Brushton, both 75-year-old great-grandparents, took their vows.

More than 100 friends, relatives and neighbors attended the Petty-Smith nuptials. The bridesmaid was Mr. Smith's daughter, Mrs. Anna Peters. The best man was the bride's son, Albert Petty.

After today the Smiths will be at home in a furnished apartment at 25 Dilworth street. In the early summer they plan to honeymoon in England.

Paranzino and Mrs. Buccigrossi were both born in Italy. They met three months ago when Paranzino visited his future wife's daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Ranallo with whom she makes her home.

They were married yesterday by Alderman G. K. Willock, of Knoxville.

Pinchot Utility Bill Before Committee

Woman Finds Relief After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"I am now forty-six and passing through the Change. I was a terrible sufferer from headaches and giddy spells which lasted two days at a time. I felt as if I had an iron hat on my head. I tried several medicines but felt no better. Then I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and oh joy! the headaches and the hot flushes are gone. You may publish this letter. I hope it will help some one else to use your wonderful medicine."—Mrs. Stewart Fookes, Palace Apts., Mineola, L. I., New York.

State Sales Tax Returns Over 8 Million

HARRISBURG, April 20.—(INS.)—The 1 per cent emergency sales tax levied by the state to cover the $12,000,000 appropriated for unemployment relief last summer today had brought returns totalling $8,650,339 into the Department of Revenue.

Approximately 25 per cent of those liable for the tax have failed to file a report, Secretary Leon D. Metzger announced. The delinquency resulted from misinterpretation of the law extending final payment until May 15, although complete reports should have been submitted by merchants on April 1, it was explained.

ASSEMBLY BANK BILLS PUSHED

HARRISBURG, April 20.—(AP.)—New banking legislation, drafted to provide additional safeguards for depositors and stockholders, came before the General Assembly today for early action.

The revised banking code, sponsored by Senator Andrew J. Sordoni, Luzerne, was reported last night for final passage in the Senate. The amended Banking Department code, sponsored by Representative John W. Storb, Montgomery, was reported for final passage in the House.

The first measure covers the operation of banks and must go to the House; the other extends the authority of the State Department of Banking and must go to the Senate. Each will require three legislative days for enactment, while reprinting will prevent any action today.

Senator Sordoni told the Senate the two bills would protect depositors and stockholders in open banks and aid reorganization or liquidation of banks closed or opened only under restrictions.

SUNDAY SPORTS BILL BACK TO PINCHOT

HARRISBURG, April 20.—The Schwarz Sunday sports bill will be returned to Gov. Pinchot Monday without change from the form in which it was passed by the Legislature.

There still was no indication today whether Gov. Pinchot will sign or veto it.

Representative Louis Schwartz, Philadelphia, sponsor of the bill, said today after a conference with the Governor that there will be no change in his measure. He said the Governor told him he will act on it within five minutes after receiving it.

The Schwartz bill was passed by the Assembly last week, but was recalled from the Governor's desk, presumably for further study. There had been reports the Governor wished to have a 10 per cent tax for unemployment relief inserted. Sunday amusement receipts would have been taxed, according to these reports.

The bill as passed licensed Sunday baseball and football in those communities which by referendum desired to authorize the sport between the hours of 2 and 6 on Sunday afternoons.

As an example of how tortuous is the path of legislation, the Schwartz bill is "No. 1" of the House measures, having been the first bill introduced back in January.

Case of Beer Sent From City By Parcels Post

The first case of beer ever to be sent by parcel post through the Pittsburgh Postoffice was dispatched yesterday by the Owens-Illinois Glass Company office here to a client in Marietta, O.

The case, containing 24 pint bottles of Pittsburgh brew, passed through the Ferry Street Station, and cost 54 cents. The company manufactures bottles used by several Pittsburgh concerns.

ERROR DELAYS REPEAL BILL

HARRISBURG, April 20.—(AP.)—Discovery of a typographical error today delayed the formal submission of the Legislature's new prohibition repeal convention bill to Gov. Pinchot. The measure provides election of 15 delegates-at-large to consider repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

The error sent the bill to conference committee, a procedure which permits reprinting and final action of both branches at the earliest possible time.

The new bill is sponsored by Senator John J. McClure, Delaware, organization Republican, whose first proposal was vetoed by Gov. Pinchot. This set up a convention of 34 Congressional district delegates and 17 elected at large, a combination to which Pinchot objected as "not fair."

FRANK & SEDER BIRTHDAY STARTS SATURDAY, APRIL 22

A Two-Week Store-Wide Selling Event to Celebrate 'With Bargains' the Anniversary of Our Removal to This Store Fifteen Years Ago

We hold many sales in this store but the event which is closest to our hearts is this Birthday Celebration Sale . . . It commemorates the time when we moved from a small store into the Big Business League of Pittsburgh . . . That was 15 years ago and we confess that it was with some degree of uncertainty that we faced the task.

But thanks to the continued good-will and support of the public we were able not only to maintain our position but to continue our growth. So we feel deeply grateful to the people of Pittsburgh, and when our Birthday rolls around we want the whole town to come and celebrate with us.

In times like these trifling souvenirs are useless and wasteful, and after all FRANK & SEDER has been a PRACTICAL STORE . . . We always believed that the customer appreciated a REAL BARGAIN, an opportunity to SAVE MONEY on something he or she NEEDED rather than to give them music and flowers.

So, in keeping with the trend of present conditions, we worked for weeks with manufacturers, assembling WANTED, SEASONABLE merchandise of QUALITY and STYLE to turn over to our customers at SENSATIONAL SAVINGS. That is the way FRANK & SEDER wants to show appreciation to the buying public. And it will please us beyond measure if every regular Frank & Seder customer would benefit from these unusual Birthday Bargains. Remember, this is NOT a one-day sale, but Begins Saturday and continues for two weeks.

The sixth and last concert of the Pittsburgh String Symphonic Ensemble attracted a good audience to Carnegie Music Hall last night. The announcement that this organization is to continue next season is not amiss, for this year has brought such improvement in the music of these players as to warrant our generous support for another series.

Mr. Lissfelt

Oscar DelBianco arranged a program for last night's concert mainly of compositions that have grown popular during the history of the ensemble. His own "Ninna Nanna" was better presented on this occasion because of the assistance of Marguerite Lang, soprano, who sang her best, and whose voice carried beautifully above the orchestra.

Alice Menninger Stempel's "Dream Fantasy" had its first public performane and like all her other compositions shows her to be a young lady of real talent. She is more conventional here than in her more daring shorter works for piano, but, nevertheless, writes a good theme and develops it with considerable skill. This is another good reason for the existence of the ensemble, to produce the works of local composers.

ARREST WOMAN IN BARTON SUIT

NEW YORK, April 20.—(INS.)—Arrested in her hotel suite on an indictment charging attempted extortion of $50,000 from Bruce Barton, author and advertising executive, Mrs. Frances W. King, 39, today faced arraignment in General Sessions.

Police said they had seized a letter to Barton demanding the money and galley proofs of a book they declared libelled the author.

Mrs. King, according to Charles E. Kelley, attorney for Barton, was employed as a clerk in Barton's office in 1928. She posed as unmarried, he said, but in December of that year Hugh R. King, of California, started a divorce action against her and a suit for alienation of affections against Barton, which was settled for $25,000.

Last fall, according to Kelley, Mrs. King sued Barton for $250,000 for slander and obtained a civil order for the author's arrest. Barton was released in $1,000 bail.

ZONING CHANGE DEBATED

City Council is withholding definite action on the ordinance which would change the Jennings property at Fifth avenue, Craig and Neville streets from residential to commercial classification.

At a hearing yesterday Council agreed to view the property before further action was taken.

Opposing the zoning change was Dr. E. R. Weidlein, director of Mellon Institute of Industrial Research; Thomas Dunn, president of the Chamber of Commerce, who represented the congregation of St. Paul's Cathedral; John Weber, representing the University of Pittsburgh, and H. A. Phillips, of Mellon Institute.

Those who opposed the change pointed out that the Jennings property occupies a section of the city's civic center and that since large sums have already been invested in creating the center it would be inadvisable to change any part of it from residential to commercial status.

CLERK JAILED BY CUPID'S TIPS

NEW YORK, April 20.—(AP.)—James J. McCormick, former deputy city clerk in charge of the Marriage License Bureau, was sentenced today to four months' imprisonment and to pay a fine of $15,000 for failure to file income tax returns in 1929 and 1930, during which years he received a small fortune in gratuities from bridegrooms.

McCormick admitted he had deposited $229,499.14, in 30 accounts in 25 banks in six years. Most of it, he said, consisted of tips he had received for performing marriages.

MOURNED SON JOINS FATHER

ALBANY, N. Y., April 20—(AP.)—Mourned as dead for 16 years—since the summer day when he went out for a ride on his bicycle and never returned — Gordon Stairs, now 31 and married, of MacPherson, Kan., today was reunited with his father, Justice of the Peace William B. Stairs.

The long missing Stairs, who has a trucking business, drove here from Pittsburgh, Pa., where he had trucked furniture. The father said:

"He says he just wanted to see the world, so he went away."

Neither the father nor a brother recognized the boy they last remembered at 15, now a man of 6 feet 3 inches, weighing 210 pounds.

Fisherman Makes Triple Catch on Single Hook

TILLAMOOK, Ore., April 20.—(AP.)—Jack Moore cast a clam-baited hook into the sea from the rocks at Barview.

A 12-inch kelp took the hook. As Moore pulled up his catch, a two foot long cod dashed and partly swallowed the kelp. Moore pulled more strenuously. Then up flashed a four foot cod and swallowed what he could of the two-footer.

Moore held on valiantly until Walter Zeller stepped in with a gaff and brought the triple catch to shore. It was on exhibition at a store here.

SULLIVAN DIES, EX-LEGISLATOR

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., April 20.—Daniel B. Sullivan, 72, former member of the Legislature, Spanish-American war veteran and father of the movement to consolidate New Kensington and Arnold, died suddenly in his home last night of heart failure.

He volunteered for service in the World War but was rejected because of his age.

Sparks Set Fire To Furniture Plant

Fire, caused by sparks from a spark plug on a machine employed in furniture manufacture, broke out on the second floor of the Keystone Furniture Company, Arthur street, this morning. Damage was estimated at $200.

Bride's Pet Cats Win Divorce For Husband

CHICAGO, April 20—(AP.)—Certainly John Porfirio doesn't dislike cats, but he says he believes they have no place in his own bed, and furthermore he soundly disapproves of the idea of having them eat half his wedding cake.

He blamed his wife, Agnes for putting the cats in his bed and for allowing them to eat the cake, in asking Superior Judge Joseph Sabath to annul his marriage. The court agreed with his viewpoint.

YOU won't blame me. You'll fall in love with my new car yourself when you see it. It's simply gorgeous. It's a Rockne.

You ought to hear Dad tell his friends about it. He says Rockne is positively the best buy he's ever seen in an automobile. He thinks I'm just about the brainiest girl in town.

You see, Dad gave me my choice of any low-priced car . . . so naturally I decided to try them all. And there just wasn't anything you would mention in the same breath with Rockne.

But, you know, I was actually worried for a while. I thought the Rockne they showed me was something special and extra priced, it was upholstered so beautifully and fitted out so completely. The salesman just laughed. He said everybody makes the same mistake.

The Studebaker people build Rockne, you see. And Dad says it's because they're so particular about materials and workmanship that Rockne looks so much more expensive than it really is. He says that's why Rockne reminds you of a higher priced car, too, when you drive it.

You simply switch a key and the power's on. And you feel safe no matter how fast you're going. You're always in gear whether you're free wheeling or not. And talk about steadiness—why I take corners at a speed I wouldn't dare in any other car. I'd like to see you have a Rockne. Why don't you go and look it over? They'll tell you all about lots of things I can't remember. And they don't urge you to buy. They let Rockne sell itself.

Tests Prove That Popular Notions Concerning Women and Many Other Topics Actually Have No Foundation in Fact

RECENT investigations made by professors at Columbia University prove quite definitely that even educated people believe in many superstitions which trained minds ought to know are absurd. Many of these false beliefs are about topics concerning women. But there are others on many different subjects, as proved by the tests.

See for yourself by reading the results of the examination. Look for them in an article in next Sunday's American Weekly.

SPEED BEER TAX AFTER VETO BY PINCHOT

WITKIN'S ATTACK

Referring to the Governor's intimation that "an influential member of the Legislature" was aligned with brewing interests to delay beer taxation, Witkin shouted:

"I say that the Governor says that which he knows to be an untruth."

Representative Chester Rhodes, Democrat, Monroe County, attacked the Republican organization, asserting the Democrats had been a unit for beer legislation. Witkin rejoined that the Democrats had been split into several factions, but Rhodes insisted all in his party were in agreement on a tax bill, and had been for weeks.

There is no legislation before the House or Senate dealing with licensing or regulation.

The action of the Governor made good a threat he has been making for weeks.

BALK COMPROMISE

Representative Clinton A. Sowers and his supporters refused to compromise with Mr. Pinchot, substituting county treasurer for Quarter Sessions Court as the agency to issue licenses.

The Governor in his veto message said:

"I am told that a part of the conspiracy between certain brewers and their attorney and an influential member of the Legislature is to adjourn quickly and thus prevent the passage of any beer revenue measure at all during this session."

The Governor's statement said:

"This is a vicious bill.

"It has four purposes: it would bring back the saloon; it would put beer back into politics; it would force the courts into the beer business. Any one of these three would justify a veto.

"The fourth purpose is to delay any taxation on beer and give the brewers more time to clean up.

"This bill is a regulatory measure. It is also a taxing measure. These are two subjects. The Constitution provides that there can be only one subject in any bill. Therefore, this bill is unconstitutional.

PLAY FOR DELAY

"By putting two subjects in this bill, its authors made still more certain that the bill, including its beer taxing provisions would be vetoed. They deliberately played for delay, possibly drawn out through months of litigation. Thus the golden harvest of the brewers would be prolonged.

"Every day's delay in passing a beer tax bill means an additional profit of at least $10,000 to Pennsylvania brewers, and a corresponding loss to the state for unemployment relief.

"I am told that a part of the conspiracy between certain brewers and their attorney and an influential member of the Legislature is to adjourn quickly and thus prevent the passage of any beer revenue bill at all during the present session.

"I am unalterably opposed, and so are the people of Pennsylvania, to besmirch our judges with the foul atmosphere of the license court, thus forcing beer into the election of judges.

'SPECIAL PRIVILEGE'

"The people of Pennsylvania are entitled to decent, clean, open regulation of the sale of beer, free from special privilege and free from politics. This bill is a glaring attempt to prevent it.

"The people of Pennsylvania are entitled to reasonable taxation on beer, and entitled to it at once. They are equally entitled to a prompt ending of the present brewers' jubilee. They are selling beer at so high a price that they could not raise it and pass the tax along to the consumer.

"The loss of $10,000 a day to the unemployed is squarely on the doorstep of a small group of men who think more of the brewers' profits than they do of the good name of the state and the needs of the unemployed.

"There are many other objections to this bill, but these are enough. I gave notice long ago that I would veto it."

Veto of the beer bill today followed a futile conference last night between the Governor and Sowers, when the Governor flatly told the Philadelphia member he would veto the bill unless it was recalled and amended as he desired, and according to an agreement—one of many—which was reached last week, only to be broken.

CONFERENCE BILL

The bill was the product of a conference committee report, the members being Senators John J. McClure, James J. Coyne and Herman Baumer and Representatives Sowers, Joseph G. Steedle and Albert O'Connor. They had brought together the differences between Senate and House when the bill passed.

Several conferences of the legislators, Democratic and Republican leaders and the Governor, preceded final adoption of the bill Tuesday. Yesterday the conference committee held another meeting, but the Philadelphia Republican organization refused to recede from its demands that licenses should be granted by judges.

With the Sowers bill dead, it will be the end of next week before a tax bill can be passed, even if agreement can be reached on its form. General opinion is for a tax of $1.24 a barrel, the Governor's threat to double the tax not being taken seriously.

BEER TAX BILL'S PROVISIONS

HARRISBURG, April 20.—The McClure administration beer tax bill reported for passage in the House today imposes a tax of $1.24 a barrel. As originally introduced in the House the tax was $2.48.

Each beer container must bear a stamp of the State Department of Revenue, which will collect the tax. Bottles wil be stamped as well as barrels and kegs, ½ cent stamps being affixed to each bottle.

The ttax will be collected at the source from the manufacturer or wholesaler, as is done with gasoline taxes.

For sale of beer without stamps the penalty is from $100 to $500 or six months imprisonment or both for a first offense. Fof a subsequent offense the fine is from $200 to $1,000 or a jail sentence of from six months to three years, or both.

Monthly reports are required from all brewers and distributors.

Estimated receipts from the tax is $7,000,000 for the biennium, an estimate based on returns so far by the federal government from taxes collected in the eastern district of Pennsylvania.

The bill contains no provision for license fees or regulation of sale, and is solely a sales or production tax.

SENATE PASSES RELIEF BILL

HARRISBURG, April 20.—(INS.)—Unemployment relief legislation took a more definite form today when the Senate passed finally by a unanimous vote the Scott bill appropriating $20,000,000 of a $25,000,000 bond issue, to be placed before the voters in November for relief of the poor.

The bill was relayed to the House to join another Scott document appropriating $13,000,000 for relief during the next biennium. These bills, if passed, will give Pennsylvania a potential $66,000,000 to feed and clothe its destitute.

The state's appropriation of $33,000,000 probably will be matched by a loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

All money will be turned over for distribution by the State Emergency Relief Board.

Mercy Doctor To Be Radio 'Caruso'

By AIRCASTER

When the perplexities of life beset him, Will Rogers diverts his thoughts to the assiduous technique of gum-chewing.

When formidable mountains of figures loom and the national budget cries out for weighing, William Woodin, who runs the Treasury, finds surcease at the end of his day by playing a guitar in bed.

Dr. Oriz Tirado, who has mended more than a thousand crooked little spines, and whose working day is fraught with more problems and heartaches than most men, obeys a kindly impulse and finds his outlet in song.

In these regions, few have heard of Dr. Tirado—but they will. He's the newest addition to the NBC roster of tenors. He begins next week under the title of "The Mexican Caruso."

The doctor is Mexico's angel of mercy. His life has been spent establishing scores of orthopedic clinics in his native country.

Dempsey Yarn

They tell it of Jack Dempsey, but there is reason to suspect it's not too true, just a yarn. Dempsey—so they say—went to the WABC studios for a broadcast on a rainy night, carrying an umbrella. He parked it in the hall, with a note which read:

"This belongs to a champion fighter. Back in 15 minutes!"

The threat implied fell flat, for when Dempsey returned he found only the note which bore the additional scribble:

"Umbrella taken by champion long-distance runner."

Globe-Trotting

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

The other evening while eating dinner in a restaurant I noticed the lady at the next table, oblivious to her escort, listening with the well-known soulfull expression in her eyes to the radio music of Wayne King. Suddenly she sighed and half to herself murmured:

"Funny how music like that makes you always think of someone your not with."

For no reason at all we began to think of last Sunday's visit to the airport; hearing again the raucous cries of the hawker of flight tickets for one dollar:

"C'mon, folk, just one dollar, a long ride for just one dollar. Three places left."

Three people entered the plane. The motor starts, the plane taxis away and then:

"Who'll take the next ride, the plane will be back in a moment."

After an announcement yesterday to the effect that a visiting party lost a pair of glasses in Pittsburgh that couldn't be duplicated, several optometrists called up to say that there was nothing in the optical line that couldn't be duplicated here. Let me hasten to add the the reason this couldn't be was that the glasses were lost and the visitor had no prescription with her.

Several letters commenting on the broadcast of stories about sick and infirm children whose parents protest against medical care. The letters indicate a feeling that we should not emphasize these cases, when, they say, there are so many other instances where parents willingly would approve needed operations for similarly stricken children but lack funds.

The letters cite no specific instances. To reassure these readers, we have learned that provision is always made for such urgent cases.

If your child has to have an immediate operation, communicate with the Family Society of Allegheny County of, outside of Allegheny County, with your local Red Cross.

BOY SCOUT AID FOR TRIBUTE TO PRESIDENT

Plans to observe President's Day, April 30, are being made by he Allegheny County Council of Boy Scouts, West.

Besides taking part in their respective church services planned or the day, the scout organization will co-operate with the celebration.

Scout Executive Andy T. Benson oday declared he thought the observance of President's Day a fine hing, and added that it fitted in with the scout program. He said:

"The scouts will co-operate. I'll suggest to the various troops—the 7,000 men and boys affiliated with our council—to attend church in a body, as far as possible, and I'm sure a number of troops will be dressed in scout uniform. Any other program we can arrange to take part in fitting exercises we will carry out."

Yesterday the Girl Scout head, Mrs. Laura MacDonald, local director, announced she would bring the observance of the day to the attention of the girl troops.

UNIVERSITY PROGRAM

LOS ANGELES, April 20.—(Universal)—With the citizens' committee named by Mayor John C. Porter at work on plans for a mass meeting observance of President's Day, on April 30, scores of churches are planning special services of thanksgiving and prayers on that day.

Gay, Spring-like, feminine and young . . . is it any wonder so many smart women are making this lovely model? Fashioned of one of those dainty prints . . . purchased by the yard for almost a song . . . it would be charming. The ruffled collar of white organdie—perhaps you've a remnant at home—joins the pointed seaming of the bodice and lends a soft touch to the face. Very perky puffed sleeves and slender skirt seaming create the popular wide-at-the-top silhouette.

Pattern 2588 may be ordered only in sizes 12, 14,16, 18, 20, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 requires 3⅞ yards 39-inch fabric and ⅝ yard contrasting. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included with this pattern.

HARD CIPHERS MOST FUN

By KENNETH A. NAGEL
Cipher Editor

Are you having trouble with this hard cipher? That's what you like, isn't it? There isn't much fun in the easy ones. After the tip today—"you might complete it."

Here's what Miss Lowers writes:

"I am sending you my first original cipher which I hope will be of use in your column. I have had a very good time in trying to solve the other ones."

Now for the tip. Write out the alphabet with "A" on the first line, and "J" under "B," on the second line. Then follow up with "Q" under "K," on the third line, and "V" under "R," on the fourth line. For your fifth line put the letters "Y" and "Z." That should get you off to a flying start. It's for you to find, how the numbers run in the cipher. Go to it.

Hilltop Youth Held After Auto Crash

BARR OBDURATE ON GOLF FEES

County Commissioner C. M. Barr today reiterated his intention to vote against any reconsideration of the increase from $10 to $20 yearly for golf permits in county parks. He said:

"We have a deficit of $20,000. One of our biggest items in last year's maintenance was for labor at $54,000. Comparing this labor cost with private courses, some of which I understand pay but 20 cents an hour for laborers while we pay 50 cents an hour, raises a different issue."

He made the statement when reminded that under a $5 increase in fee for yearly permits in municipal golf courses in New York, a decrease in returns resulted.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Simple Hygienic Living Assures a Healthy Life

Recently I attended a dinner given in the honor of a physician who had devoted 50 years of his life to the practice and teaching of medicine. For 25 years he practiced medicine in the City of New York and for the remaining quarter of a century he taught at one of the leading medicalschools of the country. Many of his colleagues and former students attended the dinner.

Dr. Copeland

He was deeply moved by the fine reception given him but nevertheless he did not overlook the opportunity to scold a little and even to criticize his medical friends. "You give advice, guide others, save many from pitfalls and serious ailments, but neglect your own health and lives."

This learned man said that though the average expectation of life had doubled since he became a doctor, too many persons still overlook simple rules of hygiene so essential to good health. He stressed the importance of preventive medicine and recalled that in his youth little, if any, attention was given to the prevention of disease.

Nature has a way of sending out warnings when anything is wrong with our bodies. And what is more, she often provides marvelous ways of attempting to correct things in this intricate mechanism called the body. But too often we neglect these signs.

Headache, nausea, "biliousness," lack of appetite, burning pain after meals, nervousness, loss of weight and insomnia are a few signs that should never be neglected. Every day we read in the newspapers of the sudden death of a notable. He may have had persistent heartburn which the sufferer neglected and attributed to faulty eating. In reality, the victim had heart disease, but never found time to visit a doctor, who could have helped him.

It is only with good health and vigor that we can expect lengthy, happy and useful lives. How much better it is to learn how to keep fit than it is to be obliged to patch up the body after some disease has attacked it. I am confident that so much attention has been given to the subject of vitamins, "irradiated foods" and other modern discoveries, that too little thought is given to the importance of repeated physical examinations and visits to the doctor.

I am afraid that in this age of specialization the simple rules of hygiene are overlooked. No one will deny that vaccination against smallpox, inoculations against diphtheria and scarlet fever, the prevention of typhoid fever and the increased knowledge of other communicable diseases, have made this world a safer place in which to live. But it cannot be overlooked that the so-called degenerative diseases of middle life continue to take a heavy toll.

The authorities all agree that the prevention as well as the cure of disease lies in simple hygienic living. Bear in mind that plenty of fresh air, sunlight, moderate exercise, abundant rest and sleep, daily elimination, simple and nourishing foods, are the foundation of a healthy life.

Juvenile Court Bill Faces Defeat

—By MARK SHIELDS—

HARRISBURG, April 20.—The Spann bill creating a Juvenile Court in Allegheny County has run foul of troubles in the Legislature which threatens its defeat.

Mr. Shields

The bill has enjoyed or suffered many vicissitudes, and now is threatened with rigor mortis.

As passed by the House, the bill did not increase the number of County Court judges. It was specifically stated that the intent of the bill was that, while one judge should become known as the Juvenile Court judge, there should be only five members of county instead of six.

But in the Senate the bill rests in committee because of an implied pledge that the Juvenile Court shall be a separate authority, increasing the number of judges by one. This is meeting serious objection, the contention being that this is no time to increase the number of public employes.

Opponents of the plan are pointing out that in the session of 1931 when an effort was made to increase by two the number of Common Pleas Court judges, the defense against that move contended there were enough judges; adopting that ground, they see no reason for increasing the number of judges in the court of lesser authority.

* * *

Bill Not Without Selfish Elements

The Juvenile Court bill has not been without its elements of selfishness and attempted personal aggrandisement. As originally drawn by the Philadelphia-controlled penal affairs committee of Allegheny County, the bill provided an entirely new court, to be presided over by a judge who would be appointed by the Governor instead of being filled through a transfer from County Court.

The salary for the juvenile judge was originally set at $14,000, the same rate paid Common Pleas Court, and $4,000 more than is paid to judges of County Court.

This was peculiar and efforts to find out who suggested the salary were unavailing when Senators became inquisitive. Representatives of the penal affairs committee couldn't remember who had suggested the higher sum.

Some careful digging about revealed that an extreme interest had been exhibited by friends of a gentleman who hoped to get the appointment—a hope not by any means new. Indeed, when there was legislative dissatisfaction with the Common Pleas Court salary. The gentleman who hoped to get the job insisted that the salary should at least be not below $10,000.

The upshot of the whole thing is that the Juvenile Court bill is in jeopardy. It is admitted that there is desirability for such a court, but the effort to make the bill a vehicle for increasing the number of judges, and to set aside a place for one individual has not been well received in Harrisburg.

Adjournment Next Week Not Likely

There were legislative leaders who predicted the session would end last week. That forecast went up the spout.

Then these same leaders offered the wager that adjournment finally would be taken today. And that also has gone by the board. Now there are hopes that adjournment will be possible next week. It is better than an even money bet that this, too, is a false hope. It has required all of this week for the Legislature to mill about on the beer bill and get nowhere, not even to the point of fixing a tax.

If it took all this time to do nothing on beer, then, ask the skeptics, how long will it take to consider the twin questions of unemployment relief and revenue. Those matters have been forgotten this week, and the past evidences of hesitancy and fumbling on the part of legislators does not indicate they can be handled in short order.

Injected into next week's session will be more consideration of beer. And that is no happy augury for a quick ending.

Of course, the Legislature can adjourn. It can adjourn with its job properly done. But it will not be done next week.

If there is an adjournment within 10 days, one of two things will happen.

Either the Legislature will surrender abjectly to Gov. Pinchot.

Or it will shut up shop in a defiant manner, paving the way for an early convening of the special session which is inevitable under any circumstances.

The best guess is that the Legislature, if it does a proper job, and averts a special session until next winter, when the fiscal situation makes a reconvening logical, will remain in Harrisburg for at least two weeks more. The members may not like it, the so-called leaders dread the thought, but that is the fact of the matter.

VETERANS BAR APPOINTMENT OF DENNY

Economy League Stand Hurts Chances as Safety Director

Opposition from the soldier vote today caused serious doubt as to whether Harmar D. Denny, Jr., would be named the new Public Safety Director by Mayor Herron.

More than one complaint against Denny has been received by Mayor Herron. And the complainants made plain that they will have votes to cast in the September primary.

The soldiers are making no bones about their opposition. Attorney Charles G. Lane, Jr., prominent in soldier organizations, past county commander of the American Legion, said today that the opposition to Denny was based on his activities in the National Economy League, which has been active in the campaign against the bonus and certain pensions.

Denny's appointment was discussed at a recent meeting of the county Legion's executive committee, after which individual members of the committee visited City Hall and laid their complaint before the Mayor and Councilman George S. Oliver.

Mayor Herron dismissed as "just some more bad guesses" rumors he is to put 50 veteran policemen on the retired list.

PLAN FOR NIGHT COURT STUDIED

Mayor John S. Herron's plans for a night police court at Central Station are beginning to develop.

Magistrate Leo Rothenberg said yesterday he was contemplating a visit to New York to study the system there.

Mayor Herron has expressed interest in the court, pointing out that it would speed disposal of many cases which now come before Magistrate Rothenberg in the morning.

COOK RESTORED TO CITY JOB

Henry W. Cook, 7944 Tacoma street, is back again on the Health Department payroll as a food inspector. He lost out during the budget session when the number of inspectors was reduced from 11 to eight.

Before Cook returned on Tuesday, Joseph Corsale was dismissed.

Cook is the husband of Ida R. Cook, vice chairman of the Thirteenth Ward Republican organization, of which Traffic Magistrate J. Scott Morgan is chairman. It is the home ward of Mayor John S. Herron.

St. Clair Cooper, chief clerk of the Department of Health, said Corsale had been dismissed for insubordination. He is one of the associates of Alderman Mike DeRosa, Jr., of the Twelfth Ward and his father, Michael Derosa, Sr., the blind political leader of that ward.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

AMARILLO, Tex., April 20.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Just flew in here headed West. We had to come in mighty high to dodge all the farms and ranches that were blowing around down on the lower strata. It ain't anything to be hit in the eye with a cow that is blowing with the dust from one ranch to another, but with all her dust and all her drought she is a pretty country. This fellow Clarence Young, the head of commercial aviation, has done more for it than anybody since the Wright brothers. I don't know anything about his going to be removed for Democratic purposes, but it will take 12 Democrats to take his place.

Yours, WILL.

Perhaps Nation Will Be a Maze Of Pipe Lines

—By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER—

New England floods arrived on schedule and Maine farmers are now in the Navy.

Down south the Mississippi river had a run on its banks. Up north the Merrimack staged an overflow meeting.

Our southwestern states could use that water. If they can pipe oil from California to New Jersey they can surely pipe water in the other direction.

Some day we will have everything systematized and all states will have their share of local blessings. Arizona will irrigate with water from the Great Lakes, Kansas will turn a spigot for New York beer and California will send its glorious climate all over the country in paper bags.

It ain't a bad idea. They are working on it down in Washington right now.

SHOE PURCHASE UP TO COUNCIL

Council is to consider a $750,000 appropriation from the $3,000,000 relief bond issue to purchase shoes and clothing for the unemployed.

Demands for the appropriation were made yesterday afternoon to Council by three representatives of the Unemployed Citizens' League of Allegheny County.

Appearing for the league were Elmer F. Cope, Robert Liberman and Ernest R. McKinney, a Negro. Cope and Liberman said that the league preferred to have the aid come from federal or state funds, but since these funds were withheld the city had to be petitioned.

The league's spokesmen held that the need for shoes and clothing was much greater than at any other time during the depression. They said many children were prevented from attending school by lack of proper clothing.

DR. POLING HERE FOR TALK ON EVANGELISM

Pastor to Tell Hearers Easy Years Lead to 'Soft Religion'

That soft years produce soft religion will be the message delivered tonight by the Rev. Daniel A. Poling, of New York, to the evangelism conference of the Federal Council of Churches in the Hotel William Penn.

The need to reach the individual will be stressed, he said, citing there has been a policy followed that appealed too much to the masses and financing campaigns, instead of reaching the individual. He emphasized:

Next year's program of evangelism was being planned at the conference, which closes tomorrow. Stress is being laid on the youth problem.

YOUTH PROBLEM

The Rev. Harry N. Holmes, New York, told this morning's session that the contribution of maturity is needed today to turn youth's mind to Christ. Christianity became a power, he said, because it was a fraternity.

Vitalizing points of contact named by the Rev. C. W. Brewbaker, Dayton, were the home, the church and its youth agencies, the extra-church agencies and the public schools and colleges. He declared:

"The church needs to study anew the homes of its people and give all possible aid in restoring the home to its rightful place and to try to make it the most potent agency in making strong Christians."

Ralph Cooper Hutchison, young president of Washington and Jefferson College, speaking last night declared "realistically there is a process of intellectual disintegration and spiritual death."

He added:

"We demand good government, but decline to elect good men for office in our cities and our states. We demand paternalistic philanthropy from the government and then rise in righteous indignation to protest the taxes which must pay for these lavish expenditures. We want the benefits of Christianity, but refuse to be Christians."

No Mother-in-Law Jokes in China, Says Mrs. Buck

BRYN MAWR, Pa., April 20.—(AP.)—Mother-in-law jokes are about the only type of funny story Mrs. Pearl S. Buck, Pulitzer prize author, failed to find in centuries of Chinese literature.

Those old "side-splitters" about the doctors who bury their mistakes and "that was no lady, that was my wife," probably have been going the rounds of the Orient for more than 4,000 years, she said.

Mrs. Buck, who was born in China, spoke on Chinese humor at Bryn Mawr College last night. She said:

"It takes a profound acceptance of tragedy to bring appreciation of comedy. Only the mature really can appreciate humor, and the Chinese are the most mature race on the face of the earth. They are so old they now know how to value comic spirit."

GALLANT JUDGE WINS ESTELLE

LOS ANGELES, April 20.—(Universal.)—Superior Judge Arthur Keetch won a smile yesterday—maybe of gratitude, but at least appreciative—from Estelle Taylor, featured screen actress and former wife of Jack Dempsey.

The Judge ruled that Miss Taylor did not have to tell her age.

Miss Taylor had just completed her story of the automobile accident which brought her to court as the plaintiff in a $150,000 damage suit against Frank Joyce, theatrical agent, in whose car she was injured in December, 1931.

Miss Taylor showed the jury, with the aid of her companion, Sue Carol, film star, a scar on the side of her head, the result of the accident.

Police Captain's Son Ill With Meningitis

After complaining of an earache five days ago, Donald Hasley, 6, son of Capt. Caspar H. Hasley, of the Dormont police department, yesterday was taken from his home, 2834 Dwight avenue, oDrmont, to the Children's Hospital, where he is seriously ill from pneumonia and meningitis.

Dog Saves Master Then Perishes In Flames

BEND, Ore., April 20.—(AP.)—Master and dog fought to save each other in a burning home here yesterday, but Brownie, faithful German shepherd, died in the flames.

Half-suffocated by smoke, Harry M. Robinson, only occupant of the building, was awakened when the dog, barking loudly, jumped on the bed. Fire was lashing his sleeping quarters.

Robinson tried to carry the dog through the flaming living room to the door but the animal broke away and ran under the bed. Firemen recovered the charred bones.

GIRL KIDNAPS 'LIVE DOLL'

ESCANABA, Mich., April 20.—(AP.)—When Mrs. Adolph Frank discovered her 6-month-old baby had been kidnaped from a carriage while she was shopping, police started a frantic search. Two hours later the baby was found unharmed in possession of 7-year-old Anna Mae Engdahl.

Anna Mae explained she wanted a "live doll" with which to play.

BOY, 3, ENJOYS BEING LOST

Buddy strolled away from home today and a few hours later was found enjoying the view of the city from the Mt. Washington roadway.

At Mt. Washington Police Station Buddy quit crying when Sergt. Joe Kohnke, who has three of his own, barked like a dog and crowed like a rooster—and very well done, too.

Buddy confused efforts to identify him by announcing that his name was Willie—simply and wholly Willie.

Babcock's Secretary Divorced by Wife

THREE UNBIASED PROBERS TO BE NAMED

Federation Leaders Move to Answer Lewis Criticism

A special committee of three is to investigate criticism launched at three Pittsburgh organizations aiding homeless men, Dr. E. N. Clopper, executive secretary of the Federation of Social Agencies announced today.

The committee, which Dr. Clopper was expected to appoint late today or tomorrow, will inquire into all charges made by Morris Lewis, social expert representing the State Department of Welfare.

Whether the Lewis report, heretofore carefully guarded from publication, is to be given out when the committee's report is made, has not been determined, Dr. Clopper said.

AGENCIES' DEFENSE

The three agencies flayed by Lewis were the Helping Hand, Improvement of the Poor and the Central Application Bureau. Lewis' criticisms were attacked by the three organizations as contrary to facts.

Following a meeting of 22 representatives of agencies forming the Federation's committee on homeless men, Dr. Clopper said:

"It was decided that a committee of three impartial persons will receive and consider the statements of agencies concerning references to their work contained in the report of Mr. Morris Lewis on conditions in Pittsburgh, determine the points at issue as to facts, opinion and conclusions and report back to the whole committee as soon as possible."

INQUIRY URGED

Investigation of inequalities in state unemployment relief allotments has been suggested by Robert McEldowney, of Johnstown, son of H. C. McEldowney, Pittsburgh banker. In a letter to Gen. Edward Martin, chairman of the Republican State Committee, yesterday, he pointed out that Allegheny County receives only $38.50 per unemployed person whereas Tioga County receives $146.70. Cambria County gets $33.70 per person.

From Washington comes word that Representative Dunn, of Allegheny County, contemplated introducing a bill in Congress that would involve sweeping changes in unemployment relief. He proposes abolition of all begging and organized charity solicitation and would substitute a huge federal-state-local charity organization. Some experts have declared the plan unconstitutional, but Dunn insisted he would present the measure.

FELIX CONTEST ASSAILED

A motion to dismiss the contest between Michael J. Muldowney and Mrs. Ann E. Felix for the Congressional seat in the Thirty-second District was made today by counsel for Muldowney in closing the contestee's case.

Ten days are to be given to rebuttal testimony, after which the evidence will go to Congress. Attorney B. Robert Averbach for Muldowney asked that the contest be dismissed because the contestant failed to show any evidence of fraud within the time allowed by law. Attorneys G. Malcolm McDonald and John M. Henry for Mrs. Felix filed objections.

GARDEN CLUBS AID BILLBOARD TAX DRIVE

In a strenuous effort to have the Harris bill for taxing and state regulation of billboards reported to the State Senate by the Judiciary General Committee, the City and Highway Appearance Committee of the Civic Club has decided to exert all its influence.

At a meeting yesterday afternoon, Mrs. John W. Lawrence, one of the leaders in the movement for a nation-wide billboard restraint, pledged the co-operation of the Gardan Clubs of Pennsylvania.

ORGANIZED SUPPORT

Senators favoring the bill will have the organized support of many organizations including the state garden clubs, civic clubs, the Council for the Preservation of Natural Beauty in Pennsylvania, the American Nature Association, and many others.

Present at the meeting of the City and Highway Appearance Committee were: H. A. Nomer, chairman; Royal S. Goldsbury, Mrs. John A. Murtland, Mrs. J. G. Pontefract, John M. Rice, Ferdinand T. Weil and Mrs. John W. Lawrence.

Advising the committee to take action, Mrs. Lawrence pointed out that the billboard industry is the only one which has never paid a tax.

A distinction, she says, should be made between signs which are in genuinely commercial districts and those which mar scenic beauty. The Harris bill, it is claimed, would levy a small legitimate tax and permit the state to refuse licenses for billboards which would hide a beautiful view behind a disfiguring advertisement.

COULD REFUSE PERMITS

Highway authorities, under the bill, would be permitted to refuse permits to erect billboards in places where they would be "injurious to property in the vicinity or injuriously affect public safety or any public interest."

The placing of distracting, highly colored signs on curves and other highway danger points, Civic Club officials contend, constitutes a definite motoring hazard.

At a meeting of the Garden Club of Sewickley, Friday, Mrs. J. G. Pontefract, militant foe of billboards, will urge the members to take direct action to remove from city boulevards and parkways all "wildcat" signs illegally painted and pasted up on city and private property.

Lang Estimates Wharf Job Cost at $2,000,000

Would Provide Two Wide Downtown Boulevards

Improvement of the wharves in the downtown district can be accomplished for approximately $2,000,000, according to Edward G. Lang, Director of Public Works.

This would include two wide boulevards from Smithfield street on the Monongahela River around the Point to Tenth street on the Allegheny River. It does not take in a two-level traffic circle at the Point which would cost $1,800,000 more, it is estimated.

MEETING MONDAY

A special committee appointed by Council with L. W. Monteverde as chairman has approved the wharf plan in principle. The committee meets again next Monday to seek action.

The Better Traffic Committee has approved the plan in principle. Considerable traffic would be taken from the congested business district by the boulevards on the river front, it is believed. The boulevards would be one-way arteries at the same grade with existing streets and bridges.

The Downtown Business Men's Association has asked that the Allegheny River section of the improvement be built first.

COAL MAN APPROVES

M. C. Angloch, a representative of the Pittsburgh Coal Exchange, has declared in favor of the plan provided the present occupants of the wharf are given an opportunity to relocate at points satisfactory to them, that the wharf be repaved with stone block and that the sections under the covered roadways be kept clean.

Mayor John S. Herron has declared that he would favor a wharf program costing in the neighborhood of $1,500,000. Approximately that amount remains in a bond issue for new streets voted by the people in 1929.

"The needs of the people and the necessities of national life demand far-sighted, confident, courageous, constructive and unhampered leadership."

HITLER REFORM OF MASONS TO OUST JEWS

BERLIN, April 20.—(AP.)—All Free Masonic lodges in Germany are to be reorganized "on a purely Christian basis" into a new order called the "National Christian Order of Frederick the Great."

An announcement that the lodges would be dissolved and reformed was made last night by the national grand lodge officers. Jews will be excluded from the new order.

The step was decided upon, the announcement said, "in deference to the times."

The Masonic tradition thus swept away is almost 200 years old in Germany, the first lodge having been established in 1737. The title "Free Mason" will be retained for a time, as will ritual based on the Old Testament, but it was decided that later these are likely to disappear.

The organization has often been attacked by Chancellor Hitler.

Germany Fetes Hitler On Forty-fourth Birthday

BERLIN, April 20.—(AP.)—Chancellor Adolf Hitler's forty-fourth birthday was celebrated throughout Germany today with a popular fervor never exceeded even by similar celebrations in honor of the former Kaiser and President von Hindenburg.

Cities were liberally draped with flags, even to the buses and street cars. Berlin police, with Nazi Storm Troops and Steel Helmet detachments, paraded along the famous thoroughfare Unter den Linden. Special services were held in the Protestant cathedral and a matinee concert was held in the state opera house.

Hitler portraits and busts were plentiful in shop windows. Thousands of street hawkers did a brisk business selling Hitler's favorite flower, the edelweiss, for charity.

The Prussian Ministry of Education decreed in honor of the birthday that all disciplinary penalties or "flunkings" incurred by students as a consequence of having "devoted themselves to the furtherance of nationalistic aims" shall be revoked and they be given "preferential treatment."

AMERICAN JEWS ACCUSE CONSUL

NEW YORK, April 20.—(Universal)—Following charges of Nazi brutalities in Berlin, made by two Jewish-American business men, the American Jewish Congress plans filing complaint with the State Department against American Consul Messersmith.

The consul, it was declared, failed to give them aid and refused to take their complaint.

Alexander Adler, Brooklyn, jewelry importer, and Morris F. Sonders, leather goods importer, who arrived in Germany on the Bremen March 29, said they were arrested by Nazis without cause, stripped of their clothes and herded into a cell.

When finally released April 1, they said, they went to Consul Messersmith, demanded protection and were told:

"Do you want us to give you a regiment?"

IL DUCE INVITES REINHARDT

VIENNA, April 20.—(Universal.)—An invitation from Premier Mussolini, work to be done in London and the United States, Max Reinhardt today said, has lightened the burden of his exile from Germany, the homeland he fled because of Nazi anti-Semitism.

The world-famed impressario of the theater told Universal Service:

"I am not so hard hit by events in Germany because my home is the world, my stage is international. I am going to Florence this week. I have been invited there by Premier Mussolini to stage Shakespeare.

"Later I shall go to London and in the latter part of the summer to the United States."

MOUNT EVEREST FLIGHTS ENDED

PURNEA, India, April 19.—(By Wireless)—The following statement has been issued by Air Commodore P. R. M. Fellows, chief observer of the Houston Mount Everest flight expedition.

"The expedition has received a message from home recalling it and will leave Purnea about the beginning of next week. No further main flights will be made. The local flight today was used for the purpose of attempting infra-red photography of the Himalayas at long range."

The big infra-red camera used in today's flight was specially slung under the machine. Some results were obtained, but the quality of the films is not yet ascertainable.

On April 3, two planes of the Houston Everest expedition successfully flew over Mount Everest, the world's highest peak, and succeeded also in making a series of photographs of the Everest range. The planes were piloted by the Marquess of Clydesdale and Flight Lieut. D. F. McIntyre.

GETS TWO YEARS FOR BOGUS BILL

Pleading guilty to possessing and passing counterfeit $10 federal bank notes, Solomon Rosenbaum, alias Salvatore Ross, 24, sentenced today to serve two years in a federal penitentiary by Judge F. P. Schoonmaker.

Rosenbaum was arrested February 14 when he tried to pass one of the fake bills in purchasing a ticket at the Stanley Theater. The cashier, Mary Pedone, detected the counterfeit.

Anti-Cussing Club Debuts in Arkansas

MOUNTAIN HOME, Ark., April 20.—(AP.)—The latest co-operative movement in this section is the Mountain Home Anti-Cussing Club, consisting of 50 members.

The club punishes its members for punctuating their sentences with swear words in public places. The punishment is so many licks with an extra long razor strap, depending upon the degree and color of the cuss words.

Bandits Steal $42 From Carrick Man

Two men held up Charles Cassella, 26, of 310 Carrick avenue, as he crossed the Carrick avenue footbridge early today, and escaped with $42, he reported to police.

Invokes Ancient Law Forbidding Sunday Arrest

A century-old statute was uncovered by Attorney Franzlin A. Ammon in Criminal Court to have a charge against his client nol prossed.

Frank Votter, 7 Andra street, Baldwin Township, was listed for trial tomorrow, indicted for assault and battery on a charge that he had beaten his wife. Attorney Ammon showed by the record that the information and arrest of Votter occurred Sunday, March 12, and then read from a musty law book that under an act of 1805 it is illegal to make an information and arrest on Sunday.

AUTO STALLS ON RAIL, 2 LEAP

A. F. Daschbach, 28, of 1740 Wightman street, and his companion, Mary Jane McDermott, 28, of 760 Loretta street, leaped to safety when Daschbach's automobile stalled near the Hazelwood avenue crossing of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad last night, according to Oakland police.

A few seconds later an eastbound freight ploughed through it.

Suffering shock, the two were taken to Mercy Hospital by M. J. Brown, a city fireman, of 855 Muldowney avenue.

Dashbach, arrested on a reckless driving charge, told police he ran down the track, but his effort to flag the approaching train proved futile. He had been warned of the train by a group of boys, he said.

Recovers 'Fortune' From Junk Dealer

CHICAGO, April 20.—(AP.)—The white horse of Isadore Novak, a junk dealer, which was a clue in a hunt for $7,260 in bonds, cash and gold kept between the leaves of a book sold to him for a dime, turned out to be a black horse, but Mrs. Valeria Walczynska, owner of the property, isn't concerned over color schemes any more. Police recovered the money, they said, in Isadore's home. He helped police find the money and won't be prosecuted on any charge.

WALSH WIDOW'S SON DIES

HAVANA, April 20.—(AP.)—Regino Truffin, 29, eldest son of the widow of Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, died at his home in Buena Vista, Marianao, late yesterday.

He was a lawyer and notary. He is survived by his widow, Senor Perla Fowler de Truffin; one brother, Marcial, and two-half sisters, one the widow of Clemente Vazquez Bello, who was Senate president; the other the wife of Mayor Tirso Mesa, of Havana.

The mother was reported preparing to leave Washington for Cuba early tomorrow morning but it was not anticipated that her arrival would be awaited, since Cuban department of sanitation regulations require burial, except in extraordinary cases, 24 hours after death.

Girl Sees Father Kill Mother, Self

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., April 20.—(AP.)—While his 14-year-old daughter looked on, Willis Conklin, 41, a laborer, killed his wife, Isabella, 31, with an ax and then fatally shot himself yesterday.

The girl told police that Conklin accused his wife of friendship with another man, and when she denied the accusation he attacked her.

NAGEL RESIGNS FILM POST

The resignation of Nagel was precipitated by criticism of his handling of negotiations with Will H. Hays, president of the producers' organization.

A statement from the academy directors read:

"The intensive struggle within the industry the last few weeks has resulted in many questions of academy policy with some of which Mr. Nagel felt he could not agree."

Infection, Result Of Corn, Kills Man

Blood poisoning developing from an infected corn caused the death last night of Robert Ramsey, 50, in his home, 707 Diamond way, Verona, according to the Coroner's report. The infection was caused by trimming the corn, deputy coroners said they believed.

VIDORS SHARE CHILD SUPPORT

LOS ANGELES, April 20.—(Universal)—Instead of King Vidor, film director, having to pay $500 a month for the support of his and Eleanor Boardman's two children, he and the screen actress will pay $250 each.

This was the decision of Superior Judge D. S. Valentine in modifying an original order requiring Vidor alone to pay $500 monthly.

The modification followed objections by Vidor's attorney, who contended that his client had not been notified of the divorce hearing, at which Miss Boardman obtained an interlocutory decree last week, and that the director and his wife, in settling their property rights, had agreed to share equally in supporting the children, Antonia, 5, and Belinda, 2.

Record Designated 'Oratorical Sewer'

NEW YORK, April 20.—(AP.)—The Congressional Record was termed "one of the greatest oratorical sewers" in the world yesterday by Dean John T. Madden of the New York University school of commerce.

Addressing a student conference on "depression policies," Dean Madden touched upon government regulation of industry and said "before they get through regulating railroads, they will wash out all common stockholders and probably all preferred stockholders."

Truism

If it is fate that I should know defeat,
That all my glowing dreams must fade to dust,
Then I will wander down your little street
And pour my heart out as a lover must.
It would be sacrilege for me to go
Along the trail that fools and wastrels take,
Until, in my poor way, I let you know
That all these dreams have blossomed for your sake.

Yes, I must thank you for a score of things—
A verse you wrote—a shy kiss in the dark—
And when the fitful rain of April stings
You must be gay again nor stop to mark
That those we love are ever on their way—
And only heartbreak has a lengthy stay!

—Don Wahn.

Heheheh

Sid Parry says that Ben Bernie goes around saying he isn't afraid of anything, and that he would stick his head into any lion's mouth at any time.

"What a braggart!" adds Parry. "He knows darn well there isn't a lion's mouth anywhere—as big as his head!"

By Way of Report

When Shaw arrived in San Francisco, reports Edward Fitzgerald of there, Mayor Rossi, who is handsome and a fast-thinker, noticed that G. B. S. was getting chesty about the newspapermen present. The Mayor tactfully tried to compliment him. He said, so all could hear:

"Mr. Shaw is right! Every time he opens his mouth he clicks."

Shaw misunderstood the Americanese version of "click," which means to "register"—to "get over"—to score or triumph.

The Irishman from England turned pink and acidly retorted:

"I'm sorry you mentioned that, Mayor. It's my upper plate, and I'm very sentitive about it!"

'zzy Elinsonisms

The return of the brass rail may put a lot of Americans back on one foot—but it will put America back on its feet!

I think I know why so much is being accomplished in Washington these days. There's a woman in the Cabinet and the boys can't stop to tell the one about the traveling salesman.

Did you hear about the fellow who is so law-abiding—he is afraid to get married? His girl looks like a million dollars—and he doesn't want to be arrested for hoarding.

Classic in Journalism

The ace of the newspaper tales, we think, is the one about the reporter, who, passing a dock one dark night, noticed a man drowning. He jerked off his coat and started to leap in for the rescue—when he discovered that the drowning gent was his own managing editor. The reporter thought fast. He was next in line for the editor's job. So he let him sink.

Of course this is fiction. Had it been a true story the reporter probably would have tossed his editor an anchor.

At any rate, the scribe rushed breathlessly to the desk of his publisher and related what had happened.

"I guess," said the reporter between smiles, "that I'm next in line for the job, now, ain't I?"

The publisher shook his head slowly.

"I'm sorry," he said, "I've already promised it—to the guy who pushed him in."

Nifties

From the studio of Sid Schwartz: This certainly is a cock-eyed world. They set aside one day for the President and give dumb animals a whole week! (Be Kind to Animals, etc.).

Add Similes

Composite

Take Chevalier's chin
And Gable's ears
And Berry's grin
And Karloff's sneers.
And Garbo's feet,
Durante's nose
And Laurel's brain
And Hardy's clothes—
Paste 'em together
As you will,
And what have you got—
Slim Summerville!

N. S.

Why I Don't Like Shaw

By J. M. Josefsberg: He's always making a Shaw of himself . . . He's always acting Shaw at somebody . . . His antics are known from Shaw to Shaw . . . He acts a bit too Shaw of himself . . . His manners are far from Shawming . . . He is nothing but an Irishman who needs a Shawve.

Aaw, don't be a Shaw-off!

Sotto Voce

To Whom It May Concern: Did you send Lanny Ross anything, attached to an Easter card? If so, get in touch with me. Very important.

The Retort Proper

It happened in a Broadway restaurant during the first day of repeal. A customer, who had ordered a beer, began to complain about the slow service.

"Say, listen," replied the waiter, "you waited 13 years—what's another five minutes!"

Okay! Montreal!!!

The Montreal Daily Star's Robert Newcomb reports in part for that paper: "... Winchell rose to prominence chiefly because of his 'gossip' column. He was thus first of the so-called gossip columnists, taking the brunt of the abuse heaped upon that group. He is ridiculed by his imitators, who prattle endlessly of their newspaper scoops that are unimportant, and who continue to damn the man to whose ingenuity they owe their own jobs."

Amateurs Grow Ambitious As the Curtain Drops On Regular Season

By GEORGE SEIBEL

Suddenly at the close of the dramatic season comes a violent eruption of amateur and semi-professional activities. Next week will witness not only the big show of the Cap and Gown Club, the Ziegfeld Follies of Pitt University, but also the annual one-act play-contest of the Drama League.

The Cap and Gown opus is called "All to the Point," and will be presented in the Nixon during the entire week. The book is by G. Norman Reis; the lyrics are by Louis M. Fushan and Stanley Goldman; the music is by a syndicate of six—Gus A. Schnabel, Dr. Benjamin Levant, John St. Peter, Bernard Rosenson, Harold Levenson and Charles Textor.

Mr. Seibel

It is understood that the most beautiful American girls glorified by the immortal Flo will not be in it with the bevy of belles surrounding the Old Block House of Fort Pitt.

Such historic characters as Hugh Henry Brackenridge and John Scull are in the cast of characters, and the big scene will be a reception at Pittsburgh Academy, the school that was the great-grandma of Pitt.

So it's back in 1789 we'll be taken in the Nixon Theater next week by the ambitious Cap-and-Gowners.

DRAMA LEAGUE CONTEST

The night after this opening, Tuesday the twenty-fifth, interest will be focused on the Irene Kaufmann Settlement Theater, where the one-act play-contest of the Drama League will be waged for four successive nights. Several original plays written by Pittsburgh authors will be presented, along with one-act plays by established authors never yet seen in Pittsburgh.

The quality of the performances in these annual contests has advanced from year to year, so that last year's productions were enjoyed even by the judges who came as a matter of duty, but stayed from a sense of pleasure.

Meantime another tournament is being arranged at the Homestead Carnegie Library, beginning May 1 and extending to May 4. W. F. Stevens is the chairman of this tournament committee, which offers three cash prizes for the best productions of one-act plays.

The Homestead Library offers exceptional facilities to the contending groups, who will have to furnish very little except the histrionic ability, the Booths and Belascos, to win the prizes.

Dramatic ambitions are also rampant in Carrick, where the Dramatic Club organized in the high school is asking local dramatists to submit original three-act plays. Scripts should be forwarded to Albert S. Kobza, 1315 Noble's Lane, Mt. Oliver Station. The president of the organization, Edwin E. Niederberger, does not promise a Broadway production—but the things staged by the club during its brief history have been a credit to all concerned.

JUST REGULAR PLAYS

Without any contest feature or bids for originality, various organizations are presenting just regular plays in the weeks to come. The Islam Grotto Players on the North Side are putting on "The Devil Passes," a rare comedy by Benn W. Levy, May 1 to 3, in the Grotto in East Montgomery avenue.

Elmer Maier will act the Rev. Herbert Messiter, the leading role, while others in the cast include Ivor M. Lowrie, Irwin Eiseman, Earl Haig, Carl A. Walter, Eleanor Schmalz, Florence J. Bollen, Grace Logan and Ruth Maier.

And tonight, of course, the Little Theater at Tech has the opening performance of the last play written by the well-known dramatist from Stratford, "Henry VIII,' by W. Shakespeare. The costumes will be gorgeous, and it is reported that Anne Boleyn, the notorious love pirate, imparts to the production a quite modern touch.

Saturday morning at 10:30 the impending birthday of this dramatist (he was born on the twenty-third, they say) will be celebrated in Carnegie Music Hall, under the auspices of our Shakespeare Birthday Club, of which Samuel Harden Church is the presiding genius. A number of scenes from the "Henry VIII" production will be presented, and the Music Hall is open to the general public. No admission—you need only salute the Shakespeare statue on your right as you pass in. Baconians must come masked.

Traveling Job Likely

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, April 20.—In Hollywood, they are calling Director W. S. Van Dyke the man without a parking place.

Yesterday he signed a new long term contract with M-G-M. Immediately the studio began searching for a story which very likely will take him to the South Seas again.

It was his filming of "White Shadows in the South Seas," you'll recall, which launched him as a full-fledged director. Since that production, the wandering director has led screen expeditions into several other diverse corners of the world for M-G-M.

One of these jaunts took him into the interior of Africa to shoot "Trader Horn." He has just got back from his 10-month stay in the Arctic making "Eskimo" for M-G-M.

* * *

The Eskimos that W. S. Van Dyke brought to Hollywood to work in the finish of his Arctic picture think down single tracks.

Romeo, one of the tribal youngsters, was being put through his arithmetic by the studio schoolmarm. He got stuck on subtraction, so the teacher showed him 10 pennies and asked:

"Now, suppose you had these 10 pennies and you spent every one of them. What would that leave you with?"

The kid replied:

"A bar of candy."

* * *

Laurence Stallings and Carey Wilson are high point men in Hollywood's new game. It is snipe-shooting the screens in moving picture theaters with candid cameras to see who can get the most unusual shots.

* * *

A Scotchman in town grows hybrid amaryllis for a hobby. He took some down on the boulevard a few nights ago to sell them. The crowds all passed the huge, red-plushy gorgeous blooms without giving them a glance. Finally a woman stopped and said:

"My, aren't they lovely for imitation flowers!"

Jehol Drive On Screen

THE GLOBE TROTTER

With bullets clattering around him, and shells bursting overhead, a Hearst Metrotone News camera man secured thrilling pictures of the final advance of the Japanese army through Jehol to the Great Wall, in the face of dust storms and cold 19 degrees below zero. The pictures, contained in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News, are graphically described by The Globe Trotter.

A hopeful spirit pervades the celebration of Easter throughout the country. There are beautiful pictures of the singing festival held at sunrise in the giant Bowl at Hollywood, Cal. Enormous crowds are seen on the Atlantic City boardwalk, while the parade in Fifth avenue, New York, is as picturesque as usual.

Claude G. Bowers, noted author, orator and editorial writer for the Hearst newspapers, gives an exclusive talk to Hearst Metrotone on his appointment by President Roosevelt as Ambassador to Spain.

The racing season opens at Havre de Grace, Md., bringing 15,000 enthusiastic fans to the track. There are thrilling scenes of the running of the Harford Handicap.

Natty, Eh?

Lilian Harvey's Next 'My Weakness'

"My Weakness," an original story for the screen by Buddy De Sylva, will be Lillian Harvey's next production, her second American film, following completion of "My Lips Betray," with John Boles. Richard Whiting and Leo Robbin, who have written most of Maurice Chevalier's songs, will contribute the music and lyrics, and David Butler will direct. De Sylva wrote and supervised such productions as "Sunnyside Up" and "Just Imagine."

Mayor Herron to Greet Dick Powell

Dick Powell's return to Pittsburgh Friday morning, April 28, will include a "welcome home," in which Mayor John S. Herron will head a delegation to officially greet the former local stage performer who has made good as a film actor in Hollywood. There will be a parade. Dick will be featured, with an orchestra, at four dance engagements in Duquesne Garden, Friday evening, Saturday morning, afternoon and evening, and he will do several radio broadcasts. The Duquesne Garden manager announces a special admission rate for spectators.

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"Cavalcade," photoplay that recently was presented here as a "road show," is being screened for the first time in Pittsburgh as a regular movie theater attraction today, being the feature in the Fulton. It is a film version of an English play by Noel Coward that has been rated highly by all who have seen it. Clive Brook and Diana Wynyard play the leading roles.

* * *

The Variety will call it a season when the time comes to close the doors of the Penn avenue house Saturday night. The current attraction is "Mussolini Speaks," an excellent film based on the life and activities of the amazing Italian who shows the progress that is possible by strict application of a single formula—work.

* * *

Class in Italian, please give attention! "The Piccoli," title of the attraction coming to the Nixon May 1, is the plural of the Italian word for "the little one." It is presumably intended as a syonym for marionette, which Maestro Vittorio Podrecca seeems to think is too diminutive for the four-foot puppets that he presents in "a novel musical revue for everyone from 3 to 93 years." One of the dolls represents Josephine Baker, the hot-cha dancer of Harlem and Paris, while another is supposed to picture that darling of Paris, Mistinguett.

* * *

Carnegie Tech drama students begin their annual bow to Shakespeare tonight with the first presentation of "Henry VIII" . . . Ethel Barrymore is doing her bit toward restoring the "road" by presenting her new play, "An Amazing Career," in the one-night stands of Eastern Pennsylvania . . . George White's "Melody," his musical show of the current season, will be condensed for combination houses, its first showing as a tab to be in New York next week . . . Ted Weems, the orchestra leader, will be the big frozen custard merchant of the Chicago expo this summer.

Talkie Series Opens At 'Y' On Sunday

EN ROUTE FROM CALCUTTA, India, to RANGOON, Burma.—I left Calcutta early this morning without misgivings. As I told you yesterday, I made up my mind to be on the way, even if it meant that I'd have to remain awake all night in order that I wouldn't miss the boat. Well, I did just that, and for your information, I'm glad that I didn't sleep. If I had gone to bed last night, either of two things might have happened.

First and foremost, I might have had to spend more time in Calcutta if I failed to arise in time to catch this vessel. And secondly, and just as important, I probably would have missed a corking story. After finishing a column late last night, I wandered to the lobby of the Great Eastern Hotel. There I met a gentleman from faroff Los Angeles, California.

We sat around smoking and talking all night. We discussed Hitler's antics in Germany. We talked of the wonderful things President Roosevelt has accomplished since taking office. In fact, every topic of conversation imaginable was brought up—including, of course, the latest story about the traveling salesman.

Finally, we got around to Hollywood, where, we learned, both of us had mutual acquaintances. And while we were conversing about the movie city, my friend unfolded a story that is too good to go unreported. The central character in the yarn shall be known as Brown.

Brown was by no means unknown throughout the entire country of America, for the simple reason that he was a lecturer. His home was in New York but he used to visit the various towns and cities back in the States and lecture on the future and possibilities of the one-act play. Not a very exciting life, but Brown rather liked it.

The only thing that bothered Brown was money. Not for himself, particularly—because he was able to get along very well. But he loved a girl and she loved him. They had been engaged for a long, long time. Yet there was hardly enough money for a comfortable marriage.

For five years Brown and the girl were engaged. She loved him enough to wait—and he wanted to wait until there was enough for them both. When he was around 32 and she was 27 they decided to get married.

"No use waiting any longer," he told her. "I haven't hit the mark I set for myself, honey, but I guess we'll be able to get along. Let's go over and have it done."

And they went . . .

When he had been married a year, Brown wrote a play. It was a comedy with just one thing wrong. It was not a great success. He made some money on it as a play and made quite a bit more when it was gobbled up by the movies. But the boy had been pretty well broke when the money finally arrived and most of it went flying in an attempt to settle old debts.

Just about that time Brown spoke to his wife.

"Honey," he said, "I'm going to Hollywood. They tell me that there's plenty of dough there. You stay here—and I'll be back just as soon as I think I've made good. Okay?"

She kissed him goodby. And he left for the city of golden opportunities. Upon his arrival there, in addition to his baggage, he carried a newly-written play under his arm. He submitted it to a motion picture concern as a vehicle for a star who was sadly in need of a good story. The concern liked it very much and told Brown to come to the office the next day for a conference.

A bit confused as to the money he should demand, Brown spoke to a friend who was wise to the ways of Hollywood. He asked the friend if $5,000 would be too much to ask.

"What!" exclaimed the friend. "Don't be foolish all your life. Be hard with those mugs. Ask for plenty. Be hard with them—because they'll try to be hard with you."

The next day Brown was in the office of the picture concern. This, he felt, was the turning point in his career.

"I want $20,000," he asserted.

The executive stood up and shouted for water. He put on the act in a great manner. He said the figure was ridiculous. But Brown stuck to his guns. When he finally arose from his chair, he put in the last word.

"I'm stopping here," he said, handing the executive a piece of paper on which he had scribbled the name of a hotel. "If you want me, you can call me there. I want $20,000 now. Tomorrow I'll want $25,000. The day after, I'll ask for $30,000. You'd better call me soon."

That night he called to his wife back in New York.

"I'm a new man, dearest," he told her excitedly. "The worm has turned. If everything goes the way I think it will, we can take that trip around the world very soon. Just hold tight, darling. I'll wire you as soon as the deal is settled."

Four days later, the picture concern called Brown in again. They offered him $20,000 for his story. But Brown refused! He was confident now. Very confident.

"It's no use," he murmured. "My price now is $30,000 and I won't take one penny less. The last time I was here, you could have had the story for $20,000, but you refused to buy it at that figure. At that time I told you it would cost you money for every day that went by.

"I haven't changed my mind one bit. If you want the yarn now you'll have to pay for it: $30,000 is my price. Take it or leave it."

In an hour the deal was closed, and Brown was handed a check for $30,000 . . .

When he stepped from the office, Brown was floating on a cloud. He met the friend who had advised him in the first place.

"I got it, kid!" he shouted happily. "They gave me $30,000. Now the girl and I can take that trip we always dreamed of.

"I want to phone the wife, George, but I'm too excited to call from a hotel room now. I'm going to drive through the mountains for a while and then talk to her.

"I want to let that California air hit me in the face—and dream of other lands. So long, George. Thanks for everything. I'll be seeing you before I leave."

They shook hands.

"I told you," said his friend, "that you'd have to be tough with those guys. If you went in there and asked for $5,000, they probably would have tried to get you down to half that figure.

"I'm glad you got your price, kid. So long, and don't forget to get in touch with me before you go back east."

Brown stepped into his little machine and drove away. Two hours later they found both the machine and his body. In some mysterious fashion he had plunged over a cliff while driving at a terrific rate of speed.

In his hand they found the check for $30,000—the check that was to take him and the girl he loved around the world. Poor Brown never made that trip. He had gone on a much longer journey. . . .

Even though that thrilling event, the Sewickley horse show, has been canceled for this year, it looks as though we're going to have a horse show after all. For the Hart's Run Junior Children, with the members from 6 to 15, are planning a show for June 3.

Horse Show

And since the horsemanship—and the courage—of these youngsters are something to brag about, the show will be exciting.

UP-TO-THE-MINUTE DAYTIME FROCKS PARADE NEW ANGLES

MAE WEST curves are reserved for after dark. While the sun is shining you'll want to be an obvious product of the machine age, as mathematically perfect as a skyscraper. You'll want to have exaggeratedly wide shoulders, as square as they can be made by padding and stiff ruffles. Below the shoulders, your coats, dresses and suits will be utterly simple, falling in straight, even severe lines. The results are well worth while. If a pound or two has sneaked up on you during a long inactive winter, you'll welcome these clothes with whoops of joy. There's no doubt about it, breadth at the top makes for slimness below. For instance, if you've not been able to wear a tailored suit in years, you'll be able to this spring, for even they have stepped out of their traditional purity of line and are having a little fun around the shoulders.

* * *

THE LEFTHAND lady gets the new effect with stiff pieces of material, set on the yoke of her black wool crepe coat, broadening the natural line of her shoulders by several inches. Her wide belt of black patent leather is drawn in tight. The simplicity of her collarless neckline is relieved by a green crepe scarf with white dots, just to prove that spring has really come again. The all-uses coat in the center is made of a basketweave wool. Has sleeves which go very wide at the tops. It's in the new important string color, with enormous buttons covered with the material. This would be good for town, for country, for the car or the matinee, in fact, anything you cared to use it for. Then on the right there is a new dress, putty beige with a white pique gillet. The sleeves here are very fanciful, while the rest of the dress is as plain as can be.

TELL IT TO ELSIE -:- -:- Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day -:- -:- By ELSIE ROBINSON

To Hold Man a Girl Must Be More Than 'Good'

Do men appreciate a good, honest girl?

Or are they just frivolous philanderers, who toy with a lady's affections and trample on her breaking heart?

According to "Baffled Dolly" you can believe the worst about any man and still "not know the half!"

Dear Elsie Robinson:

May I put a question to you and your readers? I would like to, because I can't seem to see an answer to it myself.

Are all the men of this day and age the fast and frivolous type, that use a girl's love as a toy, and then laugh at her behind her back for her sincerity?

Aren't there any men left in this world who feel elated and honored, to think there is some good girl who does care for them? Aren't there any men left who will trust a girl, when she is sincere? Aren't there any men left who have backbone enough to be truthful, when the question, "Have you stepped out on me?" is put to them? Or, even if the question hasn't been put to them, honest enough to tell the truth anyhow, if you are married or engaged to them?

It doesn't seem to me that there are.

I am only 20 years old, and yet it seems to me that almost all the men I have either come in contact with or heard of, have been the frivolous "What do I care? Love 'em and leave 'em" type, who seem to be crazy about a "change of scenery," and who run out on the girls who would play square with them.

DOES NOT UNDERSTAND

The one and only man I have ever loved is the changeable type like that. He is fickle. He has stepped out on me several times, and I am sure he always will. Yet he has told me that he cares for me; and when he is with me, he is attention itself. Yet, he has gone as much as two weeks without even phoning me.

He doesn't trust me, either, and is very jealous. He doesn't appreciate my sincerity at all.

Can you puzzle it out for me? What are the men coming to in this age? I think they're worse than a jig-saw puzzle, myself. I can't figure things out. I don't know what to think.

BAFFLED DOLLY.

No, youngster. They're not!

There are plenty of fine men today, just as there were in grandpa's day. There are plenty of men who will appreciate and treasure the love of a good girl, and be loyal to her through life.

But they won't do ths just because she's a girl. Contrary to the old, sentimental theory, young gentlemen do not feel "elated and honored" just because some pretty maiden has whispered "yes." Why should they? Females, as such, are no particular treat. Their morals are, generally speaking, no better than a man's. Their manners are frequently much worse. A woman doesn't honor a man any more by marrying him than a man honors a girl.

BE MORE THAN "GOOD"

So stop being peevish, little sister, because your sweetheart doesn't regard you as God's Greatest Gift to Mankind. Also, get over the notion that you're entitled to lifelong devotion just because you're "good."

Goodness is a noble quality, but it isn't the only noble quality; and you must be plenty besides "good" if you wish to win and hold your man.

You must be both restful and exciting, charming and consoling, gay and game—an "all-around good fellow."

These are the qualities which a man desires in a woman, or a woman in a man. They are the qualities which make human beings popular and powerful under any circumstances. And unless you have these qualities, you're going to be a washout with the rest of the human race, no matter how righteous you are!

So, there's a general lesson on men and women, and their need of each other. But as to your particular young man, I pass, Dolly. I can't size him up for you, because you obviously know so little about people that you're not able to size him up for yourself. The picture of him which you've given may be true, but the chances are it's a million miles from accurate.

So I'd advise you—live and learn a little longer, honey, before you try to love.

Fay King Advocates Instructive Toys for Children

GIVE YOUR BOY AN INSPIRING TOY THAT MAY BE THE KEY TO HIS FUTURE SUCCESS.
FAY KING

By FAY KING

From a doorway darted a little chap, flourishing a large toy gun at me. This made me sad.

Here was an alert, bright, imaginative little fellow, wasting his talents upon an unworthy toy. What a wonderful future for him might begin in his play if given a constructive inspiring toy.

Garrett P. Serviss, the famous astronomer, told me his career really began in boyhood when his elder brother gave him an old pair of opera glasses and he looked at the moon.

The man who contributed to science the wonderful pictures of the formation of snowflakes first discovered them with his little inexpensive camera when a boy.

Scribble pads and lead pencils have been the toys of successful authors and artists.

Dicky Starts on Dangerous Flight With Grantland

Dicky turned on his heel at his airy "So long, folks!" and strode across the tree-circled glade toward his auto-gyro at a tremendous pace. He did not give even a glance to Hugh Grantland, whom, in so cavalier a manner, he had selected to ascend with him in the attempt, so delicate, so apparently futile, to find out where the kidnapers had taken Marion.

And he had gone on this dangerous night flight without a word or sign to me.

He had done something even more cruel than that. His last words to me, indeed the only words he had spoken to me since he landed so skillfully in the circular glade, were a mocking, bitter taunt about black being becoming to me, coupled with an unfinished gibe against Hugh Grantland, using the epithet "Faithful Fido," which in moments of savage anger he applies to the army officer in spite of his promise to me.

If nothing save our own emotional problems had been involved, I think I should have thrown my pride to the winds and run madly after my husband, heedless of observation or criticism, and with clinging arms have forbidden his going unless he put out of his heart the bitterness which was poisoning his thoughts of me. But I knew that upon their swift departure might hang Marion's life, and I pressed my knuckles against my lips, bruising them sorely in the struggle to keep from crying out Dicky's name.

HUGH RETURNS

"He's coming back," my father said softly, and for an instant I wondered if he meant to reassure me concerning Dicky's flight. Then as the sound of running footsteps came across the pine needles that carpeted the tree-circled glade, my pulses leaped. Dicky had repented his anger, as so often he had done before, and was dashing to me for an instant of loving farewell.

But when the owner of those running footsteps came in sight my throat went suddenly dry, for it was Hugh Grantland who had returned. He came close to me at once, but he addressed my father.

"Dicky says you are to send up flares if you need us, Chief—three all at once, spaced like a triangle. We'll watch for them. If we do not see them, and do not discover anything to warrant us in dashing off at some tangent, we'll continue to fly in ever-widening circles until daylight. Then we'll be able to see whether or not you are still upon the mountain side. If you're not, we'll come down in some secluded spot as near the hotel as we can, and get into communication with you."

He paused, as if waiting for my father's reply, but bent his head so that his lips touched my ear.

MADGE TERRIFIED

"I'll bring him back to you safely, my—"

He caught back the word trembling on his lips and lifted his head as my father spoke.

"That is a good plan. We shall abide by it. Three flares at once, spaced like a triangle. I shall remember."

"Thank you," Hugh said, and turned away, running swiftly back to the auto-gyro, where Dicky awaited him. But just before that turning away, his hand touched my cheek so lightly that I hardly felt its pressure there, yet so tenderly that it was like a kiss.

The auto-gyro spiraled up into the heavens the next minute, and I knew that until it descended again safely, I should not know a moment free from terror. I knew that Dicky had gone up on this hazardous flight with a heart filled with rage against me, and jealous dislike for Hugh. That he would not wittingly let his emotions interfere with his mission I was sure, but I knew also that there was "room for but one mistake" in the flying game, and that the man at the controls of an airship must have his brain cool and free from anything that might distract his attention. The presence of those two men in the close contact of that flight spelled emotional dynamite with a lighted fuse near it.

Terror gripped me by the throat, shook me so that I was near falling, and I heard but vaguely a sudden commotion just outside the trees in which we stood. Then Ronald burst through the opening.

"That devil has Marion," he said. "Did he get Carolyn, too?"

Contract Bridge -:- -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

A "Sucker" Double

One of the prime objects of the game of Contract is assessing penalties upon your opponents when they overbid their cards. However, there are many players who double upon the mere hope of defeating an adverse contract without having that hope firmly based upon solid values that may be converted into trick winners.

Mr. Charles H. Goren of Philadelphia, Pa., sent me the hand below, which was played in a popular club in that city. The club, by the way, is one of the oldest clubs in the United States, devoted to the play of Whist, Auction and Contract. It enjoys another unusual dictinction in that no stakes of any kind are played for within its quarters. This probably makes West's offense in doubling all the greater, as, with nothing at stake but glory, the defeat of the over-ambitious contract, if such it proved to be, should have been sufficient recompense for West.

North, Dealer.

North and South vulnerable.

	♠ J 2 ♡ 7 4 ◇ A K 3 ♣ K Q 9 7 3 2
♠ K 10 8 7 6 4 3 ♡ K 6 ◇ 10 6 ♣ 10 5	North	♠ 9 ♡ J 10 8 5 3 ◇ 7 5 4 2 ♣ 8 6 4
	♠ A Q 5 ♡ A Q 9 2 ◇ Q J 9 8 ♣ A J

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
		1 ♣	Pass
2 ♡	Pass	3 ♣	Pass
7 N T	Double	Pass	Pass
Pass

Apart from South's Grand Slam bid, no one can quarrel with the course of the bidding, but in view of the great reward for the performance of such a contract, even that cannot be severely criticized. West felt that he must make one of his two Kings and was thus lured into the making of the ill-fated Double, which furnished the clew by which the hand was made.

West's Opening lead was the club Ten, on the basis that such a lead could do not harm. The Dummy, when it was spread on the table, confirmed South's view that West must hold both the heart and spade Kings. Twelve tricks were in sight and the thirteenth had to be made on a squeeze. Therefore, winning the first trick with the club Ace, South at once led the Ace of spades, which established West's King. All the high cards except hearts were cashed, winding up in the Dummy. After 10 tricks were taken, the holdings were:

	♠ J ♡ 7 ◇ — ♣ 3
♠ K ♡ K 6 ◇ — ♣ —	North	♠ — ♡ J 10 8 ◇ — ♣ —
	♠ — ♡ A Q 9 ◇ — ♣ —

At this point the clubs 3 was led from Dummy, and West could not defend the hand. South discarded the heart 9, but West's choice was immaterial.

The spade discard, of course, established the spade Knave in Dummy. The heart discard gave South both the twelfth and thirteenth tricks.

TODAY'S QUESTION

South opens with a call of one heart. West calls one spade and North passes. What call, if any, should East make with the following hand?

♠ K 9 6 4 2 ♡ 8 3 ◇ Q 8 6 5 ♣ 10 6

Answer: Two spades. The chances of reaching a successful game contract are rather remote. However, partner should be informed as to the strength of the hand in support of spades in order to determine the number of playing-tricks available in the combined hands for a sacrifice in the event that the opponents reach a game or Slam contract.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Eating Chicken

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—Is it ever proper to pick chicken bones? Personally, I have never done this, but I have had a discussion with a friend regarding this and she states that it is proper to pick chicken bones providing you use a napkin in conjunction with your fingers.

2—Also, is it proper for girls to leave a tip for a waitress? I mean, if the waitress merely serves you the food you order and does not give you any special service? If she does do a special favor for you, should you tip her, or is this expected of her?

3—I am a private secretary and come in contact with many people during the day and, therefore, I like to make a nice appearance. I find that I look better if I wear button or small drop earrings. However, I have been told that this is incorrect. Will you please advise me regarding this?

N.

1—The place for our chicken bones is on our plates, and we eat the chicken with our forks and knives. Only in this way can we be careful eaters-of-chicken. Chicken isn't a finger food, because it is not a dry food. If we take it in our fingers, we make our fingers messy. If we use our napkins, as of course we have to do, we make our napkins messy. True . . . isn't it? Of course if we're alone, that's different. But if anyone is observing us, it certainly isn't a pleasant or agreeable experience for them, to observe us careless.

2—Usually we tip the waitress, a small sum if she gives us the usual service; a larger sum if she gives us some special service.

3—The button or small drop earrings are not a bit appropriate for a business or professional office. You see, my dear girl, the mere fact that you "wonder" about their appropriateness in your office certainly would mean that people who come to the office, or at least some people, the more discriminating ones, would also "wonder" about the appropriateness of them. Save them for the "margin of the day" after business hours. Then you will be sure.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Make up doesn't always youthify, sometimes it makes a girl look older; this is particularly true when the painted darling is under 20. The trick is to use rouge and lipstick with artistry, to aid and supplement natural loveliness, not to mask it entirely. Rouge placed on a too dry skin is bound to be blatant, so don't ditch the nightly creaming and, if necessary, use a foundation cream before applying commercial blushes.

Street frocks still reveal the calves of the legs; if they are given to fullness, there's nothing to do but to get after them. Reduce them by lifting up and down on the toes, high kicking exercises, lying on the back and pedaling an imaginary bicycle. Dark toned hosiery is a blessing when fatted calves are a worry and a care. And don't overlook the fact that high heels, causing strain on leg muscles, develop ugly calves.

Fandom Sees Big Season. | Lindstrom Means Much.
Bucs Flag Contenders. | Changes Greet Bush.

OPENER FINDS PENNANT HOPE STRONG

THERE'S MORE THAN the ordinary spring baseball fever behind the enthusiasm with which Pirate rooters hail the opening tomorrow of Pittsburgh's baseball season of 1933. They see a real flag chance this time in a strengthened club that is filled with new spirit, shaping up in all-around power and class as at least the equal of any rival. Fandom welcomes the new season all the more joyously because it looks like a Buccaneer year.

George Gibson

In this connection, don't let your hopes or confidence be shaken, don't lose faith in the team, if George Gibson's ballers lose a few of the early games or fail to perform with championship smoothness. The weather has been holding them back. Only at the very start were they able to play two days in succession, and in the last six days they played only two games. A club can't show its best until it has had steady action for a spell. So don't lose heart if the Rovers are below pennant standards in some of the early games after the home opener. It will be just a case of needing work. They've got the stuff and they'll show it later.

THE MAIN ATTRACTION and the center of interest among the new Pirates will be, of course, Freddie Lindstrom. Rarely has a single incoming player meant so much to a club as does Lindstrom to the Bucs. He represents the difference between a second place finish in 1932 and a possible pennant triumph in 1933.

Not only does the addition of Lindstrom to the brilliant Waner Brothers give Pittsburgh the greatest outfield of the present day, if not of all time, but his coming makes the club look like the strongest in the National League as far as the regular positions are concerned. Local fandom welcomes Lindstrom as perhaps meaning a pennant. Certainly he has not fallen short of the most sanguine expectations so far in his individual work. He is the only Pirate who has batted safely in every game, and with seven hits in 17 times at bat up to date boasts the towering average of .412.

Don't put this Cincinnati club down as a pushover. It's showing last year would not have been so dismal if Chick Hafey had not been lost for a long period. His dependable bat would have turned the tide in a lot of those games that were lost by one run.

Chick is in there this year with a prospect of playing steadily. Jim Bottomley has added another punch and plugged the first-base hole, and the club is certain to show a better spirit of fight and hustle under its peppery new manager. Hafey, Bottomley and Ernest Lombardi are as dangerous a hitting trio as can be found on any club in the league and George Grantham always is a strong sticker in the spring. The Reds are not to be taken lightly. If they had a couple more good pitchers they would kick up a lot of trouble.

THE FORBES FIELD lid-lifter will resemble a convention of former Pirate managers. Apart from George Gibson, who was in the "ex" class himself for almost 10 years and is now filling his second engagement in the managerial role here, there are to be no fewer than three other old Buccaneer pilots in the opener. They are Honus Wagner, Picaroon coach; Donie Bush, manager of the Reds, and Jewel Ens, Cincinnati coach and Bush's lieutenant. Wagner succeeded Jimmy Callahan in the middle of the 1917 season and managed the Bucs for four days, from June 30 to July 3, inclusive, before stepping aside for Hugo Bezdek. Bush was the local skipper from the start of the 1927 race until August 28, 1929, and Ens served from the date of Bush's resignation until the close of the season of 1931. If any other major league game except the two in Redland last week ever brought together four men who had managed the same club it does not come readily to mind.

Donie Bush

IT IS NO novelty to see the Pirates meeting an opponent directed by one of their own former managers, as in the present case of Bush and the Reds. A similar situation is presented every time the Bucs play the Braves under Bill McKechnie, and there were numerous instances in the past when clubs managed by Al Buckenberger, Ned Hanlon, Pat Donovan and George Gibson were encountered.

But this is to be the first time on the Pittsburgh grounds that the Corsairs ever have met a team including in its directing staff TWO of their old pilots, as is the case with the Reds under Bush and Ens.

BUSH PERHAPS FINDS it difficult to recognize the Pittsburgh team this year as the same outfit that was wearing Pirate flannels when he resigned as manager on August 28, 1929. Of the last Picaroon lineup that Bush directed, a team that was beaten 7 to 4 in a game at Philadelphia on August 27 that year, only three are now regulars.

Those three are Capt. Pie Traynor and the Waner brothers. And of the Waners, Lloyd has been moved from center field to left. In Bush's final Pirate game Ervin Brame and Rolly Hemsley formed the battery, George Grantham was at first base, Dick Bartell at second, Sparky Adams at shortstop, Adam Comorosky in left field and Ira Flagstead was used as a pinch-hitter.

THAT WILL GIVE an idea of the vast changes made in the Pittsburgh club since Bush threw down the reins. Less than four years have elapsed since Donie gave up the managership, yet in that comparatively short time the local club has been made over to such an extent that of the 33 men who played here in 1929 only nine remain. They are Traynor, the two Waners, Comorosky, Remy Kremer, Larry French, Steve Swetonic, Heinie Meine and Leon Chagnon. Gone are Hemsley, Brame, Grantham, Bartell, Adams, Flagstead, Charley Hargreaves, Johnny O'Connell, Burleigh Grimes, Fred Fussell, Jess Petty, Joe Dawson, Lee Meadows, Carmen Hill, Ralph Erickson, Earl Sheely, Coburn Jones, Stuart Clarke, Harry Riconda, Jim Stroner, Fred Brickell, Jim Mosolf, Willis Windle and Mel Ingram.

WHEN THE REDS last appeared in Pittsburgh in an opening game, the contest was halted under perhaps the most unusual conditions ever seen in a major league park. That was in 1930. Snow started to fall heavily soon after the beginning of play, and the field was completely hidden under a mantle of white after two innings.

Next day snow and cold weather again necessitated a postponement, and as only a two-game series had been scheduled the Reds had to leave town without legally lifting the curtain, and it remained for a different club, the Cardinals, to play the first complete contest.

THE PIRATES HAVE left nothing to be desired in their showing on the road so far, winning three of their first four games abroad, but naturally it is in the home season opening tomorrow that they are expected to put in their best licks in the drive for the pennant.

The difference between the showings at home and abroad last year was enough to beat the Bucs out of the flag. Though they were the best road club in the National League, with 41 victories against 37 defeats for a percentage of .526, they did better at Forbes Field to the extent of winning 45 while losing 31 for a percentage of .592, ranking second only to the pennant-winning Cubs as home park performers, the Bruins' record on their own field being 53 won against only 24 lost, for the unusual mark of .688.

Honus Wagner

MAKING HIS FIRST appearance since 1917 in a Pirate uniform on the home lot, Honus Wagner, Pittsburgh's all-time diamond hero and in his day the greatest ball player that ever wore spikes, will hold another place of prominence in the opener besides being welcomed back in a coaching role as the idol of the fans. He will share with Manager Gibson the distinction of being the only uniformed figure left in the majors that appeared in the first game at Forbes Field, way back on June 30, 1909. The Oakland ballyard is almost 24 years old, and Wagner and Gibson are the only men in the big show except Johnny Evers who were in the dedicatory number when Ed Ruelbach pitched the Cubs to a 3-to-2 victory over Vic Willis and the Pirates.

FLORIDA GIRL SETS WORLD MEDLEY MARK

Lenore Kight

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 20.—(AP.)—Little Katherine Rawls, 15-year-old Fort Lauderdale, Fla., speedster, has started her campaign for new swimming laurels by smashing the world 300-yard medley record to take the national A. A. U. championship at that distance.

Swimming in the women's senior national A. A. U. meet here last night, Miss Rawls negotiated the 300 yards in 4 minutes 14 4-10 seconds to knock one and six-tenths seconds from the record set by Eleanor Holm at Miami Beach in 1930.

MISS KIGHT WINS

In the other national championship event, Miss Lenore Kight, of Homestead, Pa., acquired the 100-yard free style title as she nosed out Alice Bridges, of Whitinsville, Mass. The race was nip and tuck all the way with Miss Kight overcoming a slow start to win by a few strokes. The time was 1.03 4.

Miss Kight, who recently celebrated her twentieth birthday, succeeds Miss Helene Madison, of Seattle, Wash., as the 100-yard queen. Miss Madison, who also held the 220 and 500-yard free style titles, turned professional.

Miss Kight jumped the gun at the start and after they were called back none of the competitors appeared to be ready at the starter's gun. The Pennsylvania star was off in front, however, but at the half-way mark she and Miss Lindstrom were neck and neck.

At the three-quarters mark Miss Lindstrom led by inches, but she appeared to lose ground at the turn and Miss Kight took the lead never to be headed.

SEEKS SIX TITLES

Miss Rawls, who holds the outdoor medley title and who has set her objective at no fewer than six new indoor titles in this meet, was off to a fast start. She finished the 100 yards of breast stroke at least seven yards in front of Joan McSheehy, of New York; Helen Lee Smith, of Indianapolis, and Lisa Lindstrom, of New York, the other three finalists.

Miss McSheehy, whose specialty is the back stroke, put on a strong burst on the 100 yards of that style of swimming and pulled about even with Miss Smith pressing hard a few yards behind.

In the crawl, however, Miss Rawls put on the pressure and opened up a wide lead in quick order. She breezed home about 35 feet in front with a terrific burst of speed. Miss Smith, swimming stronger with every stroke, pulled past Miss McSheehy to take second.

Parks Golf Group To Meet Tonight

A meeting of the Allegheny County Parks Golfers' Association will be held at 8 o'clock tonight at the William Penn Hotel.

Plans to discourage an increase in golf fees at the county parks will be discussed at the session, and President J. E. Heywang has urged that all members of permits attend.

LINEUP UNCERTAIN

Coach Siverd, of the Hilltoppers, remains undecided as to his starting lineup against the Mountaineers. It is likely, however, that on form displayed to date, Capt. Frank Casey, Cliff Soisson, Frank Serany and Joe Thompson will be numbered among the half dozen singles performers who will get into action.

The Duquesne golf team will play eight matches this year, getting under way tomorow afternoon by meeting Pitt at the Oakmont Country Club. The card follows:

April 21, Pitt at Oakmont; April 29, Carnegie at Field Club; May 5, Pitt at South Hills; May 10, West Virginia here; May 15, Kiski here; May 17, Carnegie here; May 22, West Virginia there; May 25, Kiski there.

MT. LEBANON MEETS

Neal Rumsey, secretary of the Mount Lebanon Tennis Club, states that the South Hills outfit will stage its re-organization meeting tonight at the Mount Lebanon Municipal Building. MUD HANDICAPS DERBY COLTS

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 20.—(AP.)—Sunshine, and a lot of it, is the principal hope of trainers conditioning nominees for the $50,000 added Kentucky Derby to be raced at Churchill Downs May 6. Muddy tracks have been the rule at both Louisville and Lexington for more than a week.

Col. E. R. Bradley, whose entry of Boilermaker and Broker's Tip may produce another surprise victory for the three-time Derby winner, will not start in the prospect purse at Lexington Saturday unless the track is good. Bradley's hopes, as yet unraced this spring, are working out at his Idle Hour farm near Lexington.

C. C. Van Meter says he has about decided to drop the Derby from the stake engagements of his Red Whisk. This nominee has shown a dislike for mud, and the continued bad track at Lexington has prevented his conditioning for the mile and a quarter journey.

A line on the respective merits of Adolphe Pon's Swivel and the Shandon farm's At Top, leading filly aspirants for the Derby, was available today. Both running over muddy tracks, Swivel worked a mile and an eighth at Havre De Grace in 2:01 3-5, and At Top worked the same distance at the Downs in 2:02 2-5.

GAME FOR TROJANS

LOS ANGELES, April 20.—(INS.)—The University of Southern California football team will climax its spring practices with a game between the first and second teams in Memorial Coliseum, April 29.

CHAMPS STALL, BOUT HALTED

CLEVELAND, April 20.—(AP.)—Branding the fight "the rottenest we've ever seen," members of the Cleveland Boxing Commission today instituted a "thorough investigation" into the six-round performance of Ben Jeby, New York middleweight, and Gorilla Jones, of Akron, O.

The fighters, twice warned by Referee Fred Block that "you'll have to fight," crouched with their handlers in their corners for several minutes as police riot squads quelled an aroused crowd of 7,587 fans who loudly shouted "fake."

The commission ordered held up the share of the $13,350 gate that was to have gone to the fighters and Promoter Al Paige. Councilman Joseph A. Artl said he would introduce a resolution in City Council to withhold the fighters' money and donate it to charity.

Al Sutphin, Boxing Commission chairman, declared he couldn't understand why a fighter like Jones, who hits straight and hard, should suddenly turn up as a roundhouse puncher.

Jeby is recognized as world middleweight champion by the New York Boxing Commission and Jones is the National Boxing Association's American titleholder.

BUCS AND REDS TO LIFT LID TOMORROW

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Fretting over their prolonged inactivity, the Pirates and Reds this afternoon cast anxious looks at the sky as they sighed for a return of the sun. The feelings of the athletes were shared by thousands of baseball lovers, including the officials of the home team, who had made elaborate preparations to open the season today. The inaugural had to be postponed on account of the moisture, Forbes Field being in a messy condition, despite the overtime efforts of the Fogarty Falcons, who have worked into the night these past few days.

Weather indications for tomorrow are more favorable. For one thing, the temperature is expected to climb and that will be something. In any event the postponed opener will be staged tomorrow afternoon if the rain holds off. The infield is in fairly good condition as it has been covered with the tarpaulins.

BUC PITCHERS IN DRILL

Gibby sent his pitchers and catchers through a short workout this morning. It was difficult to find dry spots in the Oakland orchard, but by sending out a few sharpshooters at a time, the skipper was able to give them a little drill and thus prevent stiffness.

The Reds arrived in Pittsburgh last night. Donie Bush wanted to get some practice action today, but the ball lot was in no condition for activity. Accompanying Donie and his players was the popular Jewel Ens, who, like Bush, was a Buccaneer pilot. Ens is Bush's lieutenant.

Donie and Jewel have done much to give the Rhinelanders a good morale. Every member of the so-called second division club is raring to go and when the bell rings they reflect this mood. Bush is handicapped by an apparent lack of punch and one or two other shortcomings, but you can lay a wager there will be no loafing on Donie's club.

Interest in the classy Pirate array is marked. A generous outpouring of fans was assured for today had a contest been played. Early in the morning, long-distance telephone calls were received from many towns within a 100-mile radius of Pittsburgh, inquiring about the game. By making a decision at 10 o'clock, the Pttsburgh officials were able to prevent long useless trips on the part of many a fan. The radio was utilized well in this connection.

TICKETS GOOD TOMORROW

Vice President Samuel E. Watters wishes to impress on the customers that their opening day tickets are good for tomorrow, but on the other hand, those fans who have secured paste boards for the regularly scheduled game of tomorrow will have to have them exchanged. Watters also announced that the postponed contest of today would be staged at Forbes Field on Friday, July 28. This date is open on the playing cards of both clubs.

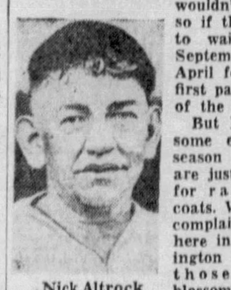
Bill Swift and Silas Johnson, the two youthful righthanders, who fought it out in the Cincinnati opener last Thursday, will repeat their duel tomorrow.

The Pittsburgh Rotarians and Kiwanians will attend the opener in separate delegations out of respect to two Pirate officials. President Benswanger is a Rotary member, while Vice President Sam Watters holds a memebrship in the Kiwanis shanty.

BASEBALL COMEDY

By NICK ALTROCK

WASHINGTON, April 20.—I see the experts are strumming their usual guitar solo about the season starting too early. They wouldn't think so if they had to wait from September to April for their first pay check of the year.



Nick Altrock

But I admit some early-season games are just dandy for raccoon coats. We don't complain down here in Washington because those cherry blossoms are all out. But up New York and Boston way I understand the icicles are still in bloom.

Every year the experts whack out 7,000,000 words in favor of later opening. And every year the schedule makers carefully file these complaints in their wastebasket and pick April 10 or 12 for the opening date.

I suppose one reason we have to get started that early is so the Cincinnati team can get into last place by Memorial Day. The National League wouldn't look natural if the Reds didn't have a lily in their hand by then.

Grays to Open Campaign Today

The Homestead Grays baseball team will open its 1933 campaign this afternoon at Steubenville, O., taking on the P. R. C. U. club of that place.

Davis, a recruit hurler, will get the starting assignment on the mound, according to Manager Cum Posey. Saturday, the Grays will play at Bellaire and on Sunday at Springfield, O.

WHITE SOX THREATEN LEADERS IN AMERICAN

HEAVY HITTING, FINE HURLING AID CLIMB

Associated Press.

The Chicago White Sox, a club which did not figure to go anywhere at all in the American League this year, has responded to Owner Lou Comiskey's lavish outlay of cash for new playing talent by assuming a distinctly threatening attitude toward the leaders.

It still is too early to say how far the Sox will go, but the fact remains that so far they have outhit every other major league club by a wide margin and have climbed to the dizzy heights of second place. It was more or less expected that their stick work would improve with the acquisition of Al Simmons, Mule Haas and Jimmy Dykes from the Athletics, but no one counted on the Sox getting enough pitching to make the clouting useful.

HURLERS SHOW FORM

In six games, the Pale Hose have confounded the critics who held that attitude not only by pounding out 63 hits for 35 runs but by producing several hurlers who could hold their own and win games.

In the opener, Eddie Durham and Joe Heving collaborated in a four-hit game; a couple of days later Paul Gregory and Vic Frasier allowed Detroit only six hits but lost the game; Tuesday Sad Sam Jones granted seven blows and scattered them well enough to produce a shutout and yesterday another veteran, Ted Lyons, turned in a three-hit masterpiece. Only one game so far has been lost through the failure of the mound department.

Lyons, making his second start in a comeback campaign after two bad seasons, pitched almost perfect ball and while the Sox could get only seven safeties off Dick Coffman and Sam Gray they turned back the St. Louis Browns 3 to 0. Only six Brownies reached first.

DODGERS BEAT BRAVES

In the only other game played yesterday, the Brooklyn Dodgers displayed some more of the smart baseball with which they have been amazing the National League to take a 10-inning decision from the Boston Braves, 2 to 1. The winning run came in on a squeeze play when Al Lopez laid down a neat bunt and brought Tony Cuccinello in from third.

Ed Brandt gave the Braves their second five-hit hurling job in as many starts, but the squeeze, following a walk, a sacrifice and Del Bissonette's single, and a fifth inning double by Walter Beck, Brooklyn's big recruit moundsman, which was followed by Joe Stripp's single, turned it into the second Boston defeat. Beck, chalking up his second victory, gave eight hits and fanned five.

Pirate Acrostic

Out in Forbes Fields we greet them.

Pirates who never say die.
Now you can hear the crowd shout:
Nothing is going to stop them.
At that there's hardly a doubt.
Never were boys more fitted

Inspired to work, fight and DO.
Not that they won't have trouble;
Nothing is surer than that:
Go to it, boys, we're with you;

Indifference gets you nowhere:
Raise your eyes high, then don't fall.
Atta boys, GIBBY, WAGNER,
TRAYNOR, the whole fighting crew.
Ever the fans are with you;
Success is yours, IF YOU DO.
—HENRY W. STEVENSON.

PETTY SHINES IN COMEBACK AS HURLER

CHICAGO, April 20.—(AP.)—Jess Petty, one of the real hard-luck pitchers of baseball, is making a smart comeback with the Minneapolis Millers of the American Association.

The former National League southpaw has pitched two straight victories for the title-defending Millers and reeled off 17 consecutive scoreless innings against Columbus and Indianapolis. Only two runs have been scored against him and both of them came in the first inning of his first game against Columbus.

Petty's second start of the campaign was the most impressive of the season to date. In rare form, he allowed Indianapolis only two hits, both singles, yesterday, as the Millers trounced the Indians, 10 to 0, and strengthened their grip on first place with four victories and one setback.

Downtown Y Pair Wins Handball Title

The Downtown Y. M. C. A. combine of Horwath and Lewis captured the Metropolitan Y. M. C. A. four-wall doubles handball championship last night with triumphs in the semi-final and final rounds of the annual tournament.

In the semi-finals, the Downtowners defeated Arnold and Rabdall, of the Allegheny Y., 21-11, 8-21 and 21-13. In the other semi-final, Mercin and Toling, also of the Downtown Y., downed Baskins and Lahta, of Allegheny, 21-5, 9-21, 2-15 and in the final match Horwath and Lewis defeated their clubmates, 21-4, 17-21 and 21-9.

PITT TO HOLD SWIM CLINIC APRIL 29

By JESS CARVER

Clinics are becoming the thing in sports. They have football clinics, track and field clinics, basketball clinics and baseball clinics and now Pitt has gone and arranged for a swimming clinic, to be held April 29 in the Trees gymnasium pool under the direction of Coach Pat Corr, the very successful Panther aquatic mentor.

Coach Corr's Panther varsities have lost exactly two meets in four games, both to crack Eastern teams, Yale and Harvard. The Yale swimmers haven't been beaten for so long that when they are, the boys probably will leave clouds of dust in the water, so it can be seen that to lose to Yale is no disgrace.

Besides the success of the annual Pitt interscholastic championship meet has been so great that district coaches have deluged Corr with requests for pointers, which Coach Pat will give on the twenty-ninth.

The rain has played the very dickens with Coach Olson's Pitt track team and it will not be until late this afternoon that the Panther mentor will be able to name the squad to make the trip to Philadelphia for the opening dual engagement with Temple on Saturday. About all the line Coach Olsen has on his lads is that they are good mudders.

It is tough to keep them down. Jack (Red) Martin, of Sharon, former Penn State grid leader, is back in the harness again, assisting John Lawther at Westminster with his spring football sessions, 10 rounds.

HARVARD POLO TRIO STRONG

Having successfully disposed of the last intercollegiate indoor polo champion, the Pittsburgh Polo League All-Stars are prepared to tackle the current standard bearer of eastern ranks, which invades Hunt Armory Saturday night in the form of the Harvard polo team.

Defending eastern supremacy against the depredations of the local mallet wielders, who trimmed Yale, 8 to 7¾, will be a classy array of poloists. Bill McGuckin heads the Harvard column at No. 1, with Tom Davis No. 2, and Frank Johnson in the defensive position. Larry Illoway, playing manager, will share the No. 3 berth with Johnson.

Rosenbloom Wins Over Levandowski

ST. LOUIS, April 20.—(AP.)—Maxie Rosenbloom, light-heavyweight boxing champion, won an easy decision here last night over Martin Levandowski, Grand Rapids, Mich., taking eight of the 10 rounds.

COLLEGE BOXING BILL PASSES HOUSE

HARRISBURG, April 20. — (AP.) — The House yesterday passed the Roberts (Northampton) bill, exempting college, university and high school boxing and wrestling exhibitions from supervision of the State Athletic Commission.

The measure also imposes a state license fee of $300 on booking agents for wrestlers.

The bill, which encountered no opposition in either Senate or House, probably will be sent to conference committee to correct a single typographical error. This procedure is planned to reduce to one day the time required to have the bill reprinted, re-passed and sent to the Governor.

The Roberts measure has the support of the State Athletic Commission, as well as of college and high school organizations. A similar bill was passed in 1931, but was vetoed by Gov. Pinchot because its phraseology would have permitted colleges and schools to stage professional bouts.

The present bill meets the Governor's objections and probably will be signed. It exempts only those exhibitions in which all participants are regularly enrolled students of colleges and schools.

HALL DEFEATS SIDNEY WOOD IN SINGLES

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., April 20.—(AP.)—With Bernon S. Prentice, chairman of the United States Davis Cup committee and Dwight Davis, donor of the trophy and Fitz Eugene Dixon, both committee members, as interested onlookers, play was resumed today in the Mason and Dixon tennis tournament.

The semi-finals of women's singles were the first contests of the day with Mrs. John Van Ryn and Baroness Maud Levi advancing to the final brackets. Mrs. Van Ryn defeated Mrs. Philip B. Hawk, 6-1, 6-1, and the Baroness won from Florence Leboutillier, 6-1, 7-5.

Frank Shields and Lester Stoefen, one of the seeded doubles teams, advanced to the third round of that play with a 6-2, 6-0, victory over Craig Biddle and Richard O. Covington.

J. Gilbert Hall, of Orange, N. J., defeated Sidney B. Wood, Jr., former Wimbledon champion, 6-1, 0-6, 6-3, in a quarter-final match.

Lott and Van Ryn, nominated as the Davis Cup doubles team, easily defeated Elmer Griffin and Thomas Mangan in a second-round contest in doubles, 6-2, 6-2.

DEATH CLAIMS DR. ROLLER

NEW YORK, April 20.—(AP.)—Dr. Benjamin Franklin Roller, who retired from the wrestling game when he was 39 years old to begin a career as a surgeon, is dead at the age of 57.

He died of pneumonia yesterday in Doctors' Hospital, it was learned today. Until recently he had an office at 260 West Seventy-second street.

It was while he was professor of physiology and supervisor of sports at Washington State University that Dr. Roller became a professional wrestler. He won his first match in 17 minutes and received $1,600.

He wrestled Frank Gotch, who promised to throw him twice in an hour. Gotch didn't throw him, and Roller made $4,000. During the next five years he met and defeated many of the heavyweight stars. Roller weighed more than 200 pounds.

Dr. Roller was born in Newman, Ill., worked his way through De Pauw University, where he was captain of the track and football teams, and was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania Medical School.

He established his surgical practice here in 1915. He was formerly a member of the lunacy commission of the State of Washington.

SHIRES PUZZLE FOR CARDS

ST. LOUIS, April 20.—(AP.)—The St. Louis Cardinals have announced the purchase of Arthur (The Great) Shires from the Boston Braves and Manager Gabby Street now admits he doesn't know "what he'll do with him."

Headquarters of the St. Louis National League club declined to amplify the bare announcement of purchase, as to price or Shires' future with the club.

The Cards already have two first basemen, Jimmy Collins and Pat Crawford. Columbus, of the American Association, a St. Louis farm, has been crying for reinforcements and sport writers speculated on his possible transfer to that club.

This seems doubtful, however, on the face of the Bad Boy's statement that he would quit baseball and go into boxing as a career.

The announcement followed a report Shires had been sold to Toronto, of the International League. He was quoted as saying he would take up boxing in preference to serving more time in the minors.

Schmeling, Dempsey Please in Montreal

MONTREAL, April 20.—(AP.)—Jack Dempsey and Max Schmeling, two former heavyweight champions, moved on to Quebec City today for the third stop on an exhibition tour that is warming up interest for the German's heavyweight tussle with Max Baer in New York June 8.

They staged their show here last night before an excited crowd of 7,000 that saw Dempsey referee Schmeling's three rounds of boxing with sparring partners. Dempsey also refereed the main bout of a regulation boxing card in which Bobby Leitham, of Montreal, Canadian bantamweight champion, won a close decision from Pete De Grasse, of New York.

KANSAS CITY.—(AP.)—E. Lee Keyser, president of the Kansas City American Association baseball club, has announced that Edward Connolly, 24, a catcher, has been obtained on option from the Boston Red Sox of the American League. Connolly is expected to join the Blues at Toledo.

LAFAYETTE, Ind.—(AP.)—Two diminutive left-handers, Hum and Griffin, hurled no-hit ball here yesterday as Purdue opened its home baseball season by defeating Wabash, 5 to 0. Hum, who started, walked four men in five innings and fanned five. Only one Wabash man reached first base during the four innings Griffin worked.

ZANESVILLE, O.—(AP.)—The Zanesville diamond stars, newcomers to the Middle Atlantic League, have chosen their nickname and hereafter will be known as the Zanesville Grays.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—(AP.)—Ray Caldwell, 45-year-old pitcher for the Birmingham Barons, has been retired at his own request after 23 years' service in organized baseball. Caldwell had served with the Yankees, Buffalo, Boston and Cleveland before coming to Birmingham in 1929.

NEW YORK.—(INS.)—The New York Giants today sent Infielder Art McLarney, from Washington State University, to Williamsport, of the New York-Pennsylvania League, on option.

OUIMET'S GOLF

By FRANCIS OUIMET

Former National Amateur and Open Golf Champion.

An interesting side of the game of golf is the pitch shot, and I believe these shots fascinate the novice even more than the long drive that may happen to go straight down the course. The average golfing spectator may marvel at a long tee shot, but he realizes that the ball is driven with a purpose of getting every inch of distance possible. When it comes to playing an iron shot or a long pitch to the green, not only is accuracy of prime importance, but judgment of distances of the course has to be reckoned with.

Francis Ouimet

Many people who know nothing about golf cannot understand how it is an expert player can stand 150 yards from the greens and by a glance select a pitching club that will give him the 150 yards he needs. The answer, to be sure, is that hours of practice have taught the player to know just what to expect from each club, and therefore it is no great problem to him, once he understands his own ability to judge distances, to select a club and play a stroke that will give him the yardage he needs.

PITCH SHOT TYPES

There are two styles of pitch shots, both of which have their followers. One is the sort where the player hits the ball on the up stroke with a lofted club and sends it high into the air depending upon its height to bring it to a stop upon landing. The other is the regulation back spin shot that is played by the top notch amateur and professional players.

Several years ago when Jock Hutchison introduced the rib-faced mashie, or even before that, when Ben Sayres, the famous Scotchman, invented the back spin mashie, little skill was needed by the average player in putting a stop on the ball. All he had to think of was hitting it and the corrugated face did the rest.

Nowadays I sometimes think that the putting greens are kept too soft because it does not require a great deal of skill to stop a ball on the modern putting greens. Of the many fine courses in Florida, I have never seen one upon which a pitch shot that hit the green would not stop there quickly. If the greens could be reasonably firm, without being too speedy so that a golfer would be obliged to impart spin to his ball on the approach shot, I feel the game would be improved.

PROS APPLY BACKSPIN

The type of stroke that is used by fellows like Craig Wood, Tommy Armour, Gene Sarazen and Olin Dutra is a low-flying pitch that has a tremendous amount of backspin attached to the ball. Nine times out of 10 such a shot leaves a bad scar on the ball, and the first thought is that the player missed his shot. Nothing could be further from the truth. A good golfer plays a backspin shot in much the same fashion that the star billiard player plays a draw shot. The edge of his iron contacts the ball just below the center and as the ball is gripped by the edge of the blade, it is caused to revolve backward. The action of such a shot is to send a ball on a fairly low trajectory through the air. There is quite a difference between this shot and one that is actually half-topped, although to all outward appearances they appear to be the same. The half-topped shot is an inaccurate one and the ball leaves the club-head very quickly and travels at a fast speed through the air.

The backspin shot leaves the club slowly due to the fact that the iron is gripping the ball and, as I have already stated, travels rather slowly in comparison to the half-topped shot.

Upon reaching the green, it takes a bound forward of eight or 10 feet and then stops rather sharply.

Mr. Average Golfer cannot hope to become proficient in the playing of this stroke unless he is willing to devote hours in practice. He would be better off to learn to play what is commonly known as a pitch and run shot, depending upon a certain amount of roll to carry his ball onto the green rather than play a shot with which he is not familiar.

One can always tell when he has played a backspin properly by the manner in which he has taken turf. In every case, the turf is carved out in front of where the ball lay, one of the surest ways of knowing whether or not you are hitting what is called the backspin approach.

Local Grade School Openers Postponed

The postponed games, with two exceptions, will be played off on Thursday, May 11, C. W. Nethaway, supervisor of athletics, announced. The Sunnyside-McCleary game will be played off on May 18 and the Park Place-Regent Square contest will be played on April 24.

The Pitt-Grove City tennis match, which was to have opened the local collegiate net season on the Stadium courts, Saturday, has been postponed indefinitely, it was announced by Pitt officials today. Heavy rains this week removed all chances of having the courts in condition in time for play.

MILLHAND SETS NEW MARK IN MARATHON

BOSTON, April 20.—(AP.)—The monotonous clanging of a loom in a Pawtucket, R. I., textile plant today threatened to drown out the half millions of cheers that encouraged the smooth-running Leslie Pawson yesterday as he out-raced the best of 221 rivals by almost a full mile to win the famous Boston Marathon and set a new record against a biting head wind that almost took his breath away on every stride.

Marathon runners are not venerated as they were in ancient Greece. It is a poor man's sport in this age and Pawson, like most of the other Boston marathon victors in the race's 37 years' history, must cherish his new-found glory as he toils over his commonplace daily tasks.

Pawson started off with the group bunched in third place, gradually worked up into the lead and held it without a challenge during the last eight miles. His amazing time of 2 hours 31 minutes 13-5 seconds clipped 2 minutes 71-5 seconds off the mark established by Johnny Miles, the great Canadian, in 1929, and was 34 2-5 seconds faster than the Olympic marathon record set by Juan Zabala, of Argentina, under ideal conditions at Los Angeles last summer.

2—Dave Komonen, Toronto, 2:34:04 2-5.
3—Dick Wilding, Toronto, 2:38:00 3-5.

ARENA SIGNS DE GRASSE FOR THREE BOUTS

By HARRY KECK

Sports Editor.

Who wants to read boxing, or anything else, on the scheduled opening day of the baseball season?

You said it, so this screed will be short and to the point, just a lot of notes.

First is the news that Pete DeGrasse, the French-Canadian, who boxed Jimmy Thomas in the Arena last week and dropped an unpopular decision, has been signed for three more bouts at the Arena.

Next is the news that Eddie (Kid) Wolfe and Phil Rafferty, who box Tiger Joe Randall and Billy Holt, respectively, in the two 10-round bouts at the Arena tomorrow night, are due in town from New York today.

LADD SUBS FOR FARONE

Other bits:

Jackie Ladd, of Mansfield, O., will replace Al Farone as the opponent of Charley Scott in the six-round opener at the Arena, Farone being sick.

Joe Mazer, manager of Motor Square Garden, reports Bunny Buntach is in charge of the free meal tickets for fighters at the food show. And Bunny is out of town, down in Fairmont, W. Va., with his Joe Marcus and two other boxers for a show tonight. (We knew there would be a catch in this.)

AMATEURS BATTLE

Jim McGirr has a card of 12 amateur bouts for his customers in his McKeesport Palisades arena tonight.

The Garden is looking for some brave middleweight to box Frankie Goosby in the main bout of its show one week from next Monday and would like to come across a worthy opponent for Ted Yarosz in the following offering.

The entire Pitt wrestling team is entered in the Allegheny Mountain Association, A. A. U., junior wrestling championships at the Sewickley Y. M. C. A. Saturday night. Another college entry is Louis Homer, of Thiel College.

Johnny Ochs, of the Willow Club, will replace Nick Malloy, of the Billick A. C., as the heavyweight representative in the National A. A. U. senior boxing championships in Boston beginning Monday, Malloy having suffered an eye injury.

Tonight's Fights

Crossley-Bartell Lead in Bike Race

MONTREAL, April 20.—(AP.)—Al Crossley and Frank Bartell, leaders almost from the start, today continued to head the pack in the six-day bicycle race, one lap ahead of the Canadian combination of Polly Parrott and Lew Rush.

At 8 a. m. the Crossley-Bartell team had covered 1,392 miles and five laps.

M'KNIGHTS SET FOR TUSSLE IN PHILLY

By TOM BIRKS

Soccer interest will be centered on Philadelphia Saturday afternoon as the Castle Shannon McKnights clash with the German Americans in the final of the National Amateur Cup competition.

This will be the fifth time a Pittsburgh club has entered the title round, Heidelberg made the grade three times, winning the trophy twice, while Gallatin forfeited to New Bedford.

The McKnights are a junior club, but the locals are conceded a fine chance to add their name to that of the Heidelberg outfit of the amateur trophy.

While the McKnights are in the Quaker City, two games will be played here. An all-star game will be played at the Westinghouse High School Stadium for the benefit of Henderson, one of the best goalkeepers ever to perform in this district.

Sunday, Curry and the Zoney clash in the West Penn Cup at South Park. The clubs are bitter rivals, and the fans should see a real game

PROFIT-TAKING HALTS STOCK UPSURGE

NEW YORK, April 20.—(AP.)—The overnight announcement that the United States had cut loose from the gold standard produced an explosion of buying in speculative markets today.

Stocks surged up 1 to more than 4 points in the most active trading in nearly three years, while positive commodities generally surged up anew, and the dollar again dropped in foreign exchange trading. Markets cooled off somewhat after midday, however, and nearly half the advance in shares was lost in profit-taking.

Stocks calculated to benefit by enhancement of inventories were particularly strong.

While hopes or fears of definite reduction in the purchasing power of the dollar was evidently the chief motivating factor in the rush into such sensitive speculative media as stocks, which should be expected to advance as much or more than the dollar depreciates, there was also the sanguine hope that the impetus given to raw material prices would relieve the profit motive in business and spur sweeping economic recovery.

Metals were notable in the advance in commodities. Copper jumped from 5⅞ to 6 cents a pound, which was still well under average production costs in this country. Silver surged up further, and lead and zinc made substantial gains. The silver stocks, however, ran into considerable profit-taking, and some actually sold a little under last night's close. The electric power issues were again somewhat sluggish, with Consolidated Gas dipping for a time under the previous close.

Wall street was keenly interested in Washington reports of the administration's plan to organize private industry for revived activity, and was hopeful that it might be particularly effective in such a business as oil, which has been struggling with internal strife. Companies with foreign connections were helped by the jump in foreign currencies, notably International Telephone, which had its sharpest advance in a long time. Rubbers were helped not only by the inflationary rise in prices, but by reports that a new restriction agreement was being worked out by the Dutch and British.

WHEAT SOARS 5¾ CENTS

CHICAGO, April 20.—Big new returns in grain prices today promptly followed official notice that the United States had abandoned the gold standard. Wheat jumped 5¾ cents a bushel at the opening and corn 3¼ cents.

Opening 2⅞-5¾ cents up, wheat later fluctuated widely. Corn started 1⅜-3¼ advanced, and subsequently receded somewhat.

Excited buying of huge proportions swept all grain to above any prices heretofore reached this season, and in some cases outdid price records as far back as 1931. Provisions as well as grains advanced sensationally, with lard up 75 cents a hundred pounds.

Enormous selling to realize profits was the chief reason that traders assigned for wheat price downturns which partly wiped out advances. An unprecedented condition resulting from the sudden expansion of business was that the board of trade clearing house and numerous commission houses remained open all night.

Corn, oats and other cereals were unusually active, dominated for the most part by wheat action.

COPPER, LEAD, ZINC RISE

NEW YORK, April 20.—(AP.)—Copper, quiescent yesterday in the face of soaring prices in other commodities, today joined the upward movement, with quotations at 6 cents a pound against a previous level of 5⅞ cents.

Buying orders continued to pour into markets for other non-ferrous metals. Zinc rose another ½ cent to 3¾ cents a pound, following yesterday's advance of 1-10 cent.

The American Smelting and Refining Company announced an advance of ¼ cent in the price of lead to 3½ cents a pound, New York. Demand for the metal was said to be active.

SILVER FIGHT MIRRORS DEBT AID EFFORTS

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, April 20.—The fact that a shift of six votes in the Senate this week would have resulted in the passage of a bill to remonetize silver on the old formula of 16-to-1 indicates the growing social and political pressure for relief from the burden of debt.

Mr. Rukeyser

Not wishing to be publicly interviewed, Mr. Bryan explained:

"I do not regard the time opportune for the discussion of the money question. It takes a serious business depression to arouse a discussion of the money question.

"The discussion in 1896 came at the end of a long period of decline of prices during which three international conferences were held to restore bimetalism. The increased production of gold and the consequent rise in prices demonstrated the truth of the quantative theory of money, but, as the increase came from an unexpected source, many failed to realize that the contentions of the bimetalists had been sustained by experience. An attempt to revive the money question at this time would, I think, be useless and would tend to divert attention from other questions about which people are thinking."

Mr. Bryan's message was sent on June 17 from his home at Marymont, Cocoanut Grove, Fla., and was released after his death, on July 26, 1925.

Administration Reverses Policy On Gold Standard

—By GEORGE H. SNYDER—

THE UNITED STATES has given up the idea of supporting its currency on a gold standard basis. This change in front was made known yesterday and was responsible for sudden advances in the prices of stocks and commodities and for declines in bonds and the foreign exchange value of the dollar.

Early last week the steps taken in Washington indicated that the government intended to re-establish the currency on a gold basis and to support the market for dollars by permitting the exports of gold when dollars should fall below a point which would make gold shipments profitable.

The sincerity of the policy was evidenced by the licensing of several gold export shipments by New York banks last week after declines in the foreign exchange quotations on the dollar indicated that gold exports would be profitable. The foreign exchange market, however, was in an unusually dull state due to Easter suspensions of business by many European banks. With a resumption of normal exchange transactions, it became apparent that the movement of gold necessary to maintain the dollar would be excessive. Accordingly the new policy of forbidding all movement of gold except ear marked metal and metal for the settlement of balances in the movement of international trade was made known.

* * *

Government to Let Dollar Reach Level

THE LATEST announced administration policy will not permit gold movements necessary to stabilize the dollar on its gold exchange basis. This has been reflected in the abrupt drop of the dollar on the foreign exchange market.

The policy of the United States government on inflation still is not known. There has been much discussion of the desirability of actual currency inflation, but no intimation has been given as to whether or not such a policy is to be followed.

The attempt to restore the dollar to a normal gold standard by gradual steps has failed. The stage has been set, through the efforts made to force the return of individual holdings of gold to the Federal Reserve, for any course of action which the administration may desire. The restrictions now in force would permit either a change in the gold equivalent of the dollar, a controlled inflation with an eventful return to the gold standard, reduction in the gold backing of the dollar or a continuation of the present status until conditions permit a restoration of the original standard.

Prices Indicate True Inflation

THE ACTION of markets for stocks and commodities, together with the weakness in bonds, indicates that the belief is quite widespread that preparations are being made for inflation on a major scale. The administration has made it known that inflation in commodity prices is favored as a business stimulant. The extent to which such inflation might be extended to the currency still is a matter for speculation.

It is quite probable that President Roosevelt and his advisers are withholding their opinions on the currency policy until the foreign attitude has been expressed through the coming economic conferences and some national understanding shall have been reached.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, April 20.—Following its biggest opening of recent years, with prices of the leaders ranging from 2 to 7 points higher, realizing sales took some of the steam out of "inflation" upswing in curb stocks.

NEW YORK, April 20.—(AP.)—Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

The Flapper's Daughter

By BEATRICE BURTON

THRILLING NOVEL OF THE CHILDREN OF DANCING MOTHERS

CHAPTER XXVI.

All the rest of the night Sharlie and her father sat in the little living room of the flat while Edna and the doctor worked over Dodie behind the closed door of the bedroom.

The dawn was pink in the sky above the housetops across the street when they finally emerged. The doctor shook hands with Mr. Dunn, drank a cup of hot coffee, said that sometimes sleeping powders had extraordinary effects on people, and went away.

"I'd like to see her," Mr. Dunn said, and went on tiptoe to the door of the room where his wife lay half-asleep. Presently the two girls could hear them talking together in low tones.

When he came back into the living room Edna went on with what she had started to say. "Eldon, let me talk to you," she said in her quiet way. "You're coming back here now, of course, aren't you? And so am I . . . Dodie's had her taste of freedom, and now she's ready to take us all back. That's why she took all those powers. To frighten us and get us home?"

There was anger in her voice.

SHARLIE'S FUTURE

"Sharlie's future is all ahead of her, and it seems to me that all of us ought to be thinking about it—especially her mother." Edna brought one of her capable-looking hands down flat on the table as she spoke, for emphasis.

"Why—her mother thinks about Sharlie," Mr. Dunn answered meekly. Almost always, when he said anything, he seemed to be apologizing for daring to speak. "She looks after her . . . She kept her here with her when we separated."

"Only because you told her that she had to," Edna told him flatly. "She's never really looked after Sharlie. And when the two of them were alone here, she was always telling Sharlie to stay away from home for dinner. I knew because Sharlie used to call me up and ask me to eat dinner with her downtown. Heaven alone knows where she went when I had to turn her down on account of my work."

"Well, that's all in the past," said Mr. Dunn easily. "Things'll be different now—"

"Not unless we all pull together and make them different!" Edna cut in keenly. "In a few months Sharlie will be ready to get a position. The one she wants may not come along the very day she leaves business school. She may have to look around for a while—and she'll have to have the right kind of clothes if she's going to make any impression at all in the right kind of offices. And she can't have a lot of cheap people in her life—telephoning her and waiting for her after work. If she does she'll never be able to hold a really high-class job."

DODIE REBUKED

"I don't understand what you're trying to get at, Edna."

There was a little pause while Edna gazed at him with her deep eyes as if she were trying to think of more simple words with which to tell him what she was trying to tell him.

"I mean this, Eldon . . . Sharlie's been going around with a lot of really awful people the last few weeks. Dodie's paid no attention to her at all. Just let her run wild—and, believe me, she has run wild. I met Jim Barnum in the street yesterday noon, and he told me I ought to speak to Sharlie."

"And I'll have a thing or two to say to him," thought Sharlie.

"Then there's another thing," Edna's voice ran on relentlessly. "Sharlie's clothes are—well, they're not only shabby, but they make her look cheap. Almost everything she owns has been handed down to her by Dodie, and they aren't the kind of clothes a kid like Sharlie ought to wear. They're too flashy. You can see that yourself."

Sharlie was wearing a nightgown and kimono. But she had drawn on her stockings and slipped into her slippers. She looked down at the slippers.

"I don't know how Dodie can be as selfish as she is," said Edna. "It never seems to occur to her that she might ask some of Sharlie's high school friends in to spend the evening, or to do any of the things for her that other mothers do. I've never known her to take Sharlie downtown for some new clothes, or even bring her home some little thing when she and Maud had been shopping. She never thought of buying anything for anyone but herself . . . And last June when Sharlie got into all that trouble, and wanted to go to business school, what did she do? She shut her up here in the flat to do the housework! . . . That was her idea of taking care of her! . . . She's my own cousin, and I think a lot of her, but, honestly, Eldon, she hasn't any more right to bring up a young daughter than a pink rabbit has! It's up to you and me to help her . . . and if you don't mind my doing it, I'll give her a good talking to. It strikes me that this is the time to do it . . . Now, when she's feeling sober and repentant."

But after all it was Edna who gave Sharlie most of the help that she got in the long slow weeks that followed.

Her mother bought her a new blue hat with a bag to match, and one Sunday night she suggested that Sharlie invite Jim Barnum and Gertrude in for supper. But two minutes later the Hanaberrys came over and that was that.

MOTHER UNINTERESTED

Sharlie tried to talk over the school with her. Tried to show her the funny little shorthand symbols and explain them to her. But they were plainly uninteresting to Dodie, whereas to Edna they were as interesting as any other written word. Shorthand and typing and all other kinds of office work were the foundations of life to her. Whenever she spoke of the office and her work in it she spoke of them with great seriousness, and the way she uttered Mr. Collins' name showed very clearly that to her he was the greatest man alive.

"Mrs. Collins has been awfully sick," Edna told them one night in early October. "I sent out checks to three doctors of hers this afternoon, and Mr. Collins says she's going to some clinic in a day or two for observation. He's worried about her."

"She's about as old as I am, isn't she?" Dodie asked her, and then she added bitterly, "I suppose I'll start going to pieces pretty soon. I've noticed that most women do when they're around forty." She made a sound that was half a groan and half a sigh.

Dodie shook her head. "I feel a hundred," she said with a shrug. As the weeks went by Sharlie noticed that she had begun to look her age. She never went to Maud's beauty parlor any more to have her blonde hair touched up with bleach or to have the weekly facial treatment that had been a kind of religion with her for years. She stopped using lipstick.

BORROW FROM EDNA

She paid more attention to the flat than she ever had before, and the meals began to show a decided improvement.

On the afternoon before Thanksgiving she telephoned Sharlie at the school, and asked her to bring home a quart of cooking sherry from the Municipal Market downtown.

"Get it from Edna," her mother answered. They both knew that they could count on Edna for almost anything, and Dodie owed her money most of the time.

At 5 o'clock Sharlie telephoned Edna's office and asked for her. After a minute she heard Edna's voice.

"I want to meet you and borrow some——," she was beginning when Edna cut her off short.

"I can't talk now, baby," she said quickly. "I've got to use this telephone, too, right now! —Call me back in a few minutes!" There was a click as she hung up the receiver.

In 10 minutes Sharlie called the Collins Company again and asked for her. "Miss Ballinger's not here," the feminine voice that answered the telephone said in the dry, impersonal way of most office telephone voics. "She left here a few minutes ago with Mr. Collins. I'm sure she won't be back tonight."

JUSTINIAN THE GREAT AND HIS COURT

After the fall of the Roman Empire (476) the Eastern Portion still existed for about 1,000 years, with Byzantium (Constantinople) as capital. The rule of Justinian I was marked by the Great Fire of Constantinople in 532 due to violent inner disturbances; further by victories in Persia, Africa and Italy (ending the rule of the Ostrogoths) and by the Corpus Juris Civilis, a code of law, drawn up on his order. THE THOMAS NEWCOMEN ENGINE (1705)

A blacksmith, he made his first engine after many failures. Steam from boiler B was admitted into the cylinder C through valve V and lifted the piston. V was closed and cold water admitted through valve V'. This condensed the steam produced vacuum, so that the outer air pressure forced the piston back. The water was ejected at V''. The oscillating beam D F was connected to a pump for elevating water. This engine wasted much heat and was soon superseded by Watt's design. (Darrow; Great Inventions.) (Science.)

JAMES WATT'S INVENTION

Watt, an instrument maker at the University of Glasgow, had to repair a Newcomen engine. He improved it by exhausting the steam into a separate cylinder cooled with water for condensation. His next step was to replace the atmospheric pressure by steam pressure from the down stroke. He brought this about by closing the top of the cylinder, through which he led the piston-rod, and inventing a mechanism governing the inlet and exhaust of the steam on both sides of the piston and also for regulation of the steam, keeping the engine running on a constant speed (1775). TRANSFORMATION OF ENERGY

A zinc rod (Zn) and a platinum foil (Pt) immersed in sulphuric acid solution and connected by a wire to a galvanometer measuring intensity of weak currents) the hand of the instrument will be deflected showing an electric current which was caused by the chemical reaction: Zn + H2 SO4 = Zn SO4 + H2 + electric energy. Chemical reactions are always accompanied by manifestation of some other form of energy (light, heat, mechanical, electrical, etc.) into which the chemical energy was partially changed. COMPOSITION OF CEREALS

One Calory is the heat needed to raise the temperature of 1 kilogram water from 0 to 1° C. Fat has 9,000 Cal.; proteins and carbohydrates have 4,000 Cal. The ash content represents the mineral matter, chiefly calcium and sodium salts. (Kinne and Cooley: Foods.) (Science.)

THREE SPECIES OF MOLD

Molds are minute vegetable organisms distinguished by feathery appearance and bright color. They are responsible for the decay of certain foods. Above are shown three species of the green mold (magnified) that affect jam and jellies. (Kinne and Cooley: Foods.) (Science.)

THE FOUR TYPES OF BACTERIAL CELLS

A, cocci; B, bacilli; C, spirilla; D, branched filamentous organism. Some of them are harmless, some disease-producing; those developing in decayed meat and producing the poisons known as ptomaines are very dangerous. Extreme cold and boiling temperature destroy bacteria. (Kinne and Cooley: Foods.) (Science.)

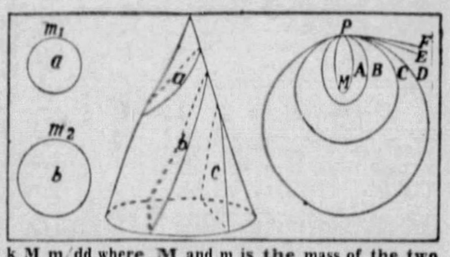
GRAVITATION



(Left) Newton's law of gravitation (1687): Each particle attracts every other with a force called gravitation G = k M m/dd where M and m is the mass of the two particles, d, the distance between them and k a constant depending upon the units used. (Center) Sections of a right circular cone with a plane: a, ellipse; b, parabola; c, hyperbola. (Right) The orbits of the celestial bodies moving under the force of gravitation are conic sections. (Kepler's first law: Orbits of planets ellipses). Particle (P) projected horizontally to the right and moving under gravitational attraction of a mass at (M) will follow curves A, B, C, D (ellipses), (E) (parabola) or (F) (hyperbola) respectively, according to increased initial velocity. If this was zero (P) will fall straight into (M). (Fath: Astronomy.) (Science.)

What Was Service, Anyway?

What we need right now is a new crop of master minds to supply the void established by the ides of 1929.

If you remember alphabetically, we had worked ourselves up into a fine laudatory lather of self-appreciation between the roseate years of 1900 and 1928.

We were all for efficiency, service and its by-products. No organization would consider a man unless he had 16 diplomas in industrial engineering and was so high-geared he could sell a new amendment to a brewer.

All you heard in those years was service, service and service. Executives bellowed service and our little ears drank it in and tried to digest it. To this very same day and hour we still don't know what it is.

We do know that the service advocates were dynamiters who could out-talk you a mile to the acre. They always had something to sell and you bought it. They were under the whiplash of the master mind who was a mysterious individual in a handsome office with eight names on the glass partition and no knob on the door.

The master skulls flooded the nation with high-powered literature extolling the values of their peculiar brand of service. One letter followed another and the dynamiter followed both. He was the boy with the glib tonsils, the oiled adenoids and the ambidextrous tongue. He would talk the lid off an iron kettle, either by telephone or by the short wave route to the Eustachian Canal.

After he got through you were as limp as wash on the line. Whatever he was selling you was bought by the carload. It was service. And we defy anybody to show a sample of it.

There were 100 telephones in that boiler room and on the listening ends were the same number of suckers. Of which, the writer was always one. He purchased his pro rata share of the per capita service then at large.

It was never delivered. He never again saw the dynamiter and the master mind. We trust that they are now in a place where they get service and that it is good and hot.

We bid them goodbye with a dry eye and a head that is baldy, but unbowed. We still are masters of our fate and still captain of our ship, even though it is now a rowboat.

Mayor Herron's Mistake

He Confuses Cause and Cure in Attributing the City's Ills to Publicity.

Mayor John S. Herron deplores the publicity that has been given Pittsburgh's official scandals.

In his address at the annual banquet of the Allegheny County Medical Society he diagnosed the city's political ills as a case of too much talk about shameful things and not enough about creditable things.

"We have thousands who can tell you all about the Monaca Club," he said, "but how many can tell you about the Allegheny General Hospital?"

Sloppy sentimentality like this will not delude thoughtful citizens.

It comes with poor grace from Herron. If it had not been for publicity—publicity which Herron, as President of Council, sought to smother by opposing an investigation—the malfeasance of the last administration would not have been exposed and stopped.

The Mayor is confused in his thinking. He puts the cart before the horse. He mistakes the effect for the cause, the cure for the disease.

The Juvenile Court Bill

The Success of the Plan Would Depend on the Attitude Of the Professional Politicians.

A survey by the Department of Justice at Washington discloses that 40 per cent of the crimes are committed by persons under the age of 25. Nineteen-year-old boys are responsible for many murders and robberies.

The situation makes it advisable to pay more attention to bad children, with a view to saving them from the commission of felonies, and the public from the effects of their criminal tendencies.

There is a bill before the Legislature by which it is planned to do this. The bill provides for the establishment of a separate Juvenile Court in Allegheny County, to be presided over by a judge who shall be elected for 10 years and who shall give his entire time to the consideration of juvenile cases.

At present the Juvenile Court is a branch of the County Court, and its judges are assigned without regard to any peculiar fitness or inclination they may have or may not have for work with children.

If, as its sponsors hope, it should result in the elevation to the bench of the Juvenile Court of an attorney with some special gift or training for dealing with delinquent boys and girls, the measure would be a blessing.

But a hard fight would have to be made to keep the job out of politics. A 10-year elective position paying an attractive salary would scarcely fail to excite the greed of the professional politicians and their organizations.

With a bad judge we would be worse off than we are now.

War Debt Fallacies

Cancellation Would Shift the Burden to the Shoulders of American Industry.

Unquestionably the forthcoming economic conferences at Washington with representatives of foreign nations will be seized upon as occasions for making a renewed economic drive against America.

The country believes that it has in the White House a Chief Executive actuated primarily by a desire to improve the economic status of his own people.

In meeting the test, Mr. Roosevelt should not be deterred from a realistic examination of the facts by visionary theories such as recently expressed by Secretary Hull concerning tariff reduction.

Sentimental adherence to outmoded economic vagaries will not put bread into the mouths of American families.

On the contrary, exposing the American home market to unrestrained competition from Asiatic and European countries with low living standards would further add to the chaos.

The idea that we can escape from our economic dilemma by tapping rich markets overseas is pure illusion.

Our future trade opportunities abroad are definitely circumscribed, and have been limited by the post-war efforts of other countries to develop their own industries and agriculture.

Prime Minister MacDonald has indicated that war debts will come first on his agenda for discussion at Washington.

The propaganda will be set forth that cancellation of war debts will constitute a miraculous entrance fee toward world prosperity.

As a matter of fact, the net effect of cancellation will be to shift from the shoulders of German industry to those of American industry the unliquidated cost of the war.

The plea will be made that the Allies conditionally let Germany off at Lausanne last year, provided America would consent to a similar scaling down of war debts.

The traditional American position has been that the honestly contracted war debts were different in kind from reparations.

Now a new factor has been injected into the situation.

Why should the United States, torn with back-breaking depression and unemployment, relinquish substantial assets in order to endow Germany?

If the visitors tell us the choice is between cancellation and repudiation, we need not take the initiative.

'Be Kind to Animals'

This is "Be Kind to Animals Week."

There is no need for an intensive campaign to inculcate in the people of Pittsburgh the spirit of humanity towards the dumb brutes. That feeling is already firmly implanted in the hearts of all but a few of our people.

Cases of brutality to helpless animals arouse almost as much indignation as cruelty to humans.

Not long ago an old nondescript dog named "Sandy," usually good-natured, was condemned by a judge to be killed because it had bitten several persons. The sympathy that has been aroused for the poor old dog leaves no room for doubt as to Pittsburghers' kindly feeling towards animals.

Marking the Date

Governors of States, Mayors of cities, leaders in the secular and religious life of the nation have joined in proclaiming Sunday, April the thirtieth, as President's Day.

On that occasion the American people will pay their heartfelt tribute to the Chief Executive. As expressed in an editorial in the Hearst papers advocating the observance:

"Americans, regardless of party, wish to express the gratitude they feel for what their President has accomplished and for what he has pledged himself to do in the future for their welfare.

"And they wish, in all devoutness, to utter their prayers that he may have health and strength to carry on to completion all that he so beneficently plans."

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

What would you do with a bad boy?

Not just a naughty child, but a really lawless young bandit. Only 19, he has already forged twice. The first time, he was saved from the consequences by his adoring, widowed mother. Then, despite the most solemn promises, he forged again, "so he could show his best girl a good time." Now he is facing the penitentiary again unless she, once more, steps in.

Should she let him go to prison? The frantic mother, herself, asked us. We published her letter. Hundreds of answers came.

Most of them said: "No; he's young. Give him a chance."

But others said: "A young rattlesnake is as deadly as an old one. Send him to the pen, where he can't harm anyone else. That'll teach him a lesson!"

Undoubtedly it would! But, unfortunately, experience has shown beyond all dispute that the "lessons" which penitentiaries and reform schools teach are bad business for everyone concerned.

Huddled there in crowded cells with older prisoners, the delinquent youngster is soon schooled in every form of viciousness and degeneracy. Presently he is let loose, embittered and desperate and—almost without exception—a hundred fold more dangerous than when he went in. So the "pen" doesn't seem to solve the problem very well, does it? Yet, somehow it must be solved.

Yearly the number of our Bad Boys increases. Go down to any Police Court; into any City Jail. If you are an average citizen, what will you expect to find? Burly brutes, hardened by years of crime—yes? But actually you'll find—Baby eyes! Youngsters hardly out of rompers! Snub-nosed murderers of fifteen. Stick-em-up men of twelve!

So then, what? Do you know the answer? Mrs. M. C. H., of Houston, Tex., thinks she does. Says she: "I've often wondered why such cases couldn't be tried and, if proven guilty, sentenced to attend Church and Sunday School for six months or a year, leaving the choice of the church to the boy himself.

"In this way they'd be brought under the influence of young people who are trying to do right. So often youthful lawlessness is due to being with the wrong crowd. Under such circumstances the delinquent boy or girl comes to believe that goodness is a dreary, old fogey affair and only saps try to be good.

"One girl, who was sent last year to the Young People's Camp of Christian Endeavor, said that it was a revelation to her to find so many lively, modern young people were interested in trying to live a fine life.

"I am sure that our ministers, priests and rabbis would be glad to co-operate with the judges, and would appoint some responsible person in the congregation to help each boy and girl. Surely this would be better than sentencing them to the society of hardened criminals."

Sounds like a step in the right direction, doesn't it? One Judge is actually trying that plan. Recently in Hudson, O., a 14-year-old boy, Probeno Marcella, sent two extortion notes to Mrs. Charles Lindbergh, demanding $25,000. Judge Oscar Hunsicker didn't think it would help anyone much to turn Probeno Marcella into a Bigger and Better Criminal by sending him to the pen. So he paroled him into the custody of the Rev. Father William J. Fitzgerald, pastor of the Catholic Church, and "sentenced" him to mow the church lawn, wash the pastor's car and go to church and school regularly.

That's fine, too. But what's going to happen to all the young Probenos when they aren't busy washing cars or going to Sunday School?

Make them stay home? But, all too frequently, homes are as demoralizing as any gangster's hide-out. And a child's own parents may be as dangerous as the most hardened criminal because of their stupidity, cruelty, carelessness or doting affection. Then what's the next best scheme?

Personally, I'd vote for cattle ranches, with all the Wild West trimmings, and honest-t'gosh two-fisted cowboys riding herd on the out-fit. Seems to me we'd save a lot more, in dollars and heart-break, if we'd let Bad Boys chase beef on the hoof, instead of feeding it to them in prison stew.

But maybe you've a better idea than that. If so, let's have it! America could certainly use it. For if somebody doesn't find a solution soon, we'll have something worse to handle than busted banks or bankrupt railroads.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, April 20—There are rarely more than a handful of diners at Moneta's, niched in the tumble of Mulberry street. Yet it remains about the only haven devoted to eating as a leisurely art. Paul Morand and Julian Street glorified it in their volumes on American cuisine.

Clare Briggs introduced me to the place there away back in the days when Lillian Lorraine floated over audiences in a swing of roses on the New York Roof. It had the well-polished charm of an old English inn parlour behind red curtains. I never forgot it.

Nearly every restaurant of that type—Moquin's, Gonfarone's, Bustanoby and such—vanished. The two exceptions are the Lafayette and Brevoort. So recently I heard Moneta's had ridden the storm and went back. Nothing had changed. Papa Moneta, a little grayer, still hovered solicitously over each table.

It is true the gilt "Gaudeamus Igitur Juveneus Dum Sumus" stretching across the wall had been re-touched and the drowsy orange cat that napped in the entrance was eight litters removed. But Moneta's was still Moneta's. And even that is a pale and mumbling tribute.

* * *

After leaving Moneta's near midnight, we strolled through shadowy Minetta lane. The scarred shack of a locksmith announced the proprietor as Swerlo Oof. And if that doesn't suggest a swing from the ankle to a fat man's paunch you think up one. I'm too full of spaghetti anyway.

Incidentally, the first restaurateur in the Forties to respond to the beer news was Jack Kennedy, known to an older Broadway as co-owner of Jim and Jack's and later conducting his own chop house under his name. Forty-eight hours after the bill passed he had revamped his caravansary into a German beer garden with frauleins in costume serving what passed for beer until the real stuff was on tap. He showed an artistic touch by putting sawdust on the floor.

Jack Kennedy is a chunky, genial Irishman, mottled with freckles and given to zebra-striped shirts, many suits in the latest cut and a sizeable diamond ring. In older days I was attracted to him by his singular devotion to his mother. She was a jet-bonneted little old lady with an engaging brogue. Kennedy came out of the ruff-scuff of Tenth avenue and each evening his mother came to old Jim and Jack's, patronized by the stage, sporting world and such, to dine with him. As his bankroll ballooned he provided a magnificent home on West End avenue for his "Mom." It was outfitted luxuriously and she was taken there as a surprise. She remained two weeks and returned to Tenth. "You may be the dude of the family," she explained, "I want to live among my neighbors." And there she passed away.

An old companion in cut-uppery writes he is coming to town shortly and enthuses over a night out, hailing it as a sort of final fling. I had to wire him today and dash cold water on his fervor. I have only one wild oat left. And instead of sowing it I have thought it would be rather dandy to feed to Dean Palmer's ailing canary upstairs.

MAYBE I'M WRONG

By John P. Medbury

NEW YORK, April 20.—A fatherly sort of individual was giving a young man some good advice on the evils of liquor, and mentioned several people who had let drink get the best of them.

"Take the man who lives next door to me, for instance," he said. "He spends three hundred dollars a month for Scotch and a hundred dollars for gin; now what does that show?"

Text for Today

(Today's text is suggested by the Rev. Grover E. Swoyer, pastor, Mt. Zion Evangelical Lutheran Church, North Side.)

Two Pictures From Asia

The Big Question.

JAPANESE GIRLS FROM TOKIO HIGH SCHOOLS LEARNING TO SHOOT

Many are the divisions on the earth's surface, Asia, America, Europe, Africa, the great islands under our feet, Australia and New Zealand.

But the earth, so far as power is concerned, is divided IN TWO parts.

On the one side is Asia, with China's civilization older than any other in the world, and Japan, using the borrowed knowledge of the West with marvelous efficiency. On the other side Europe.

Europe, America, Australia, New Zealand, now belonging to the European races, think alike. Africa, as far as any thinking is done there, is under white direction. Natives have developed little capacity for self-government.

This question interests Europe and America, "WHAT WILL ASIA DO?"

Will Asia in the near future, united under some great military leader, come traveling westward against Europe, not on shaggy ponies this time as Asiatic hordes used to come, but through the air, high above the earth in flying machines?

Japan, only 60,000,000 strong, is fighting China, with her 400,000,000. Japan fights with modern weapons, as an absolutely united nation, each Japanese soldier proud to die for his country and his Emperor.

Japan fights with flying machines, tanks, airships—sending down explosive bombs, holding in reserve deadly poison gases that could wipe out millions of Chinese, 1,000 to the second.

But as one Chinese fighter has said to Japan: "You may kill a hundred million Chinese, and we shall produce another hundred million. Your strength is in weapons, ours in numbers."

EMPEROR

The hatreds among different kinds of Asiatics, some of them closely allied in blood strains, are as violent as the bitter, murderous hatreds among peoples of Europe, displayed in the big war.

It may be many a day before the Chinese and Japanese settle their quarrels, or become united under one leader that might use them against the western white race.

If the Europeans will deal justly with all Asiatics included, stop cutting each other's throats, and build up their strength they need not worry about the "future problem of Asia."

The two pictures from Asia shown here will interest you. One shows Japanese girls, learning to use a rifle, and not in any "girlish" way. The men teaching them are Japanese army officers. The girls are a few of 3,000 students of high schools in Tokio that are made to know about military work, and the use of weapons.

"Only" 60,000,000 population becomes not so smal' when the trained fighters include women as well as men.

Japan herself established the government of Manchukuo, putting up as head of the state, quite appropriately, the young heir to the throne of China, whose Manchu ancestors came from Manchukuo, known in their day as Manchuria.

The interesting thing about this picture of the Japanese carriage is the low-bowing servant, his extreme, intense politeness. The fact that the man is about to visit the Emperor is enough of itself to create a most profound impression in any normal Japanese mind.

It is safe for the West, looking for danger everywhere in its after-the-war nervousness, to conclude that if it attends to its own business, doesn't meddle with that of others, and acts justly, it has nothing to fear from Asia.

ISN'T IT SO?

Courtship is expensive, marriage a great deal more so, and alimony—well, that's the limit.

The less work a man has to do, the more time he has to keep others from working.
